J. K. Cooper Alleges Management of Officer & Pusey Estate is Too Expensive.

A petition asking for the removal of L. F. Murphy and John Beresheim as receivers of the Officer & Pusey bank was filed yesterlay in the district court by J. The Retail Grocers' association will hold a special meeting this evening to make arangements for its annual excursion and sicnic in June. K. Cooper and others, claiming to represent as receiver to act in winding up the estate

> In support of the application it is alleged that the present expense of the administration of the estate is greater than justified by the amount of business done, that L. F. Murphy was bookkeeper and confidential clerk of the banking firm of Officer & Pusey for many years prior to the head of a large banking institution, to the affairs of which he devotes his entire time. It is further asserted that Receivers Murphy and Beresheim were not appointed at the request of or with the knowledge of the creditors of the bank, but at the instigation and suggestion of Charles T. Officer, who was administrator of the estate of his father, Thomas Officer, the senior member of the defunct banking firm. It is claimed that the creditors have the right to select the receiver.

> Attorneys for Mr. Cooper state that this action is not intended in any way as a personal attack on the receivers or with the intention of criticiaing their actions, but that the creditors feel that the time has come when one receiver can be dispensed with and the business of closing the estate done by one man.

A BEGINNING OF MILLIONS.

The Chance Through Which One Man Has Become Rich.

One western millionaire came into the possession of his wealth through his own abilities, beyond a doubt, says the New York Sun, but it is also true that his opportunities were excellent. And they came to him in an unusual way.

It happened that the wife of a very rich man had for many years gone to a certain shop in New York for her gowns and had always been waited upon by the same woman. One morning she went to the store to order a gown. After the business of getting the new dress had been transacted the salesweman said to her:

"This will be the last time that I shall have the pleasure of waiting on you, Mrs. X. for I am going to be married."

When the customer expressed an interest in her plans the woman told her that she and the man to whom she had been engaged for several years had decided that they might as well get married as wait, especially as she had managed by prudence to have a little money. Said the customer:

"You bring your betrothed to my house Has Become Rich.

to have a little money. Said the customer:

"You bring your betrothed to my house tonight to see me. I would like to mect him and have my husband know him, too."

A time was set, and that night the saleswoman and her betrothed visited the wealthy patron. The latter introduced them to her husband, who talked with the man and was favorably impressed with him. He learned that the man was able to make only a small income at his business. to make only a small income at his business.

Before the man left the house a date for a subsequent visit had been set. The man, of course, came back and the result was a place for him in one of the millionaire's mills near a western city.

That was his beginning. Today he counts his millions on more fingers than his two hands possess. And his fortune came through his meeting with the millionaire and his good luck in making a favorable impression on him as well as on his ability to take advantage of the opportunities that came to him.

With her own clothing in flames from the explosion of the can of kerosene from which she was starting a fire in the kitchen stove, Mrs. H. L. The baby was asleep in the burning kitchen and it was only by breaking in a window that the rescuers were able to reach it before the flames. The infant was uninjured. C. J. Carlson, the Shenandoah tailor, keeps a goose, of course, but he also raises chickens. He makes fits in his shop, but nature made a mistake in his coop. He has a four-day-old chick with four perfect feet; well, one of the extra feet has but four toes, otherwise the extra pedals are as complete as any chick's legs. They are attached to the body just over the rump and project backward and downward, but not enough down to touch the ground. The chick is lively and healthy as its mates and as the abnormal legs do not interfere with the life functions it will probably continue to live. The mother hen covered fifteen eggs and hatched every one. She evidently tried to get fifteen chicks out of sixteen eggs. The freak may have come from a double-yolked egg.
