Corn ruled weak all day. Cables were rather firm, but the foreign markets were dull and affected by the early drop in wheat and heavy receipts were buying for a time, but successed only in st

CINCINNATI, June 3.—COTTON—The cotton market opened weak and lower to 15 points down under a scramble of small holders to unload and a wave of bear pressure, which carried everything before it through the belief in a fine monthly crop statement from Washington urged on the shorts, while the buils were frightened by the severe losses already accrued and by the sheer absence of public support. The downward movement did not stop until July had reached 8.66c and August 8.36c. Around these figures smaller bears turned for cover and sellers purchased summer months for a rally. The Liverpool cables, however, reflected extreme weakness at that point, prices being down 6610 points, while the crop reports and the government & Co. 206 (2.184) from K. C. 206 (2.184) however, reflected extreme weakness at that point, prices being down 6610 points, while the crop reports and the government daily weather chart indicated general prime conditions over the entire belt. Promptly at noon the bureau announced the crop condition average to be $6.1, as against $1.5 the same time last year, and gave a decrease in acreage only of $-10 of 1 per cent. Immediate selling for both accounts ensued and July dropped to $.59c, while August sold at $.34c. From this ruling the market later steadled on a less beartsh weekly crop and weather report from Washington than looked for. Prices advanced 19 points, but later eased off again in the absence of substantial bull support. During the balance of the session trading was less active and fluctuations followed conservative lines. The market closed quiet and steady, with prices net $ to 26 points lower. Total sales were estimated at 350,000 bnles.

CATTLE—There was not a heavy run of cattle here today for a Tuesday, and other markets also had rather light receipts. The trade, however, was not very active, but at the same time there was not much The trade, however, was not very active, but at the same time there was not much change from yesterday in the prices paid, Good stuff sold without much trouble, but the common kinds were neglected.

There was about the usual proportion of beef steers in the receipts this morning and the good to choice grades sold quite freely at good, steady prices. As high as $7.35 was paid and several other bunches sold around $7.00 and upward. The commoner grades changed hands rather slowly, and in a good many cases sellers found it a difficult matter to get what they considered steady prices. As a general thing, though, the market was slow, but about steady on the inferior offerings. Most everything was disposed of in good season. The cow market was also rather slow but about steady on anything desirable. Good dry lot cows and helfers sold at what looked to be steady prices, and most everything answering to that description was picked up in good season. The quality of the offerings as a whole was common, the same as was the case yesterday, and on such kinds the market was slow, with the tendency of prices downward. Cows showing grass have been going down so rapidly of late that it is difficult to tell what such kinds are worth, but they are easily 50c lower than they were the high time of last week.

Bulls, veal calves and stags all held steady where the quality kas good, but common stuff was weak in sympathy with the downward tendency of common steers and cows.

There were very few stockers and feeders and cows.

There were very few stockers and feeders There were very few stockers and feeders on sale this morning, and not many were wanted. The demand from the country so far this week has been very limited, so that speculators will not buy anything unless they can get it at their own figures. Strictly choice stuff has been very scarce of late and that class of cattle are not very much lower, but the general run of stockers and feeders are considerably lower than they were last week. Representative sales:

same as has been the case for some time past. Some of the same sheep that sold yesterday for $5.85 brought the same price today and that was about the only thing on sale that made a good test of the market. As a result the general market may be quoted steady on good atuff, but common kinds were slow sale at any price. Packers do not seem to want the interior grades and for that reason sellers have a hard time disposing of such kinds at what seem to be satisfactory prices.
