LOSS DUE SOLELY TO LATHAM

Blunder of Umpire Costs Omaha First Game Against Saints.

BOTH SIDES BATTED IN GOOD FORM

Pitchers on Their Mettle and Well Supported, but Hits Come Plentifully Through the Entire Nine Innings.

Three thousand people hissed in intense indignation as Umpire Latham by flagrant misjudgment called Rohe safe at home in the sixth inning of the opening game with the Saints Friday, giving the visitors the talley that won the game. This was only one choice bit of Arlie's rank umpiring, but its crucial importance made it stand out beyond the rest. Rohe had singled himself to first all right, and had stolen second. Then Garvin doubled to left field, but Stone had the ball back in, so far ahead of time that Johnny Gonding fairly laid it upon the sliding third baseman's feet, away from the rubber.

"Safe," said Latham, and the game was lost. The decision was so plainly wrong that even Johnny Gonding grew enraged, and Johnny is not a player who asks an umpire for anything. He seized Latham by the blue shirt and shook him fiercely, but "That's my decision," said Latham, and that settled it.

This was the last straw. The locals saw they were up against it again, and they were disheartened. They could not tie the score. It seemed almost useless to try, for Arlie seems to be looking the other way or jumping at conclusions that cost Omaha dear. In the eighth and ninth each the Omahas got a man on base, but he was not batted in. The boys count this the second game that they have won in reality, but lost in the official record during this seance at home, and they are all so deep in the struggle that it hurts them when the more fortunate Cowboys are climbing along. The visitors scored yesterday by bunching their hits. Omaha played an errorless game, and it seemed that the boys had won it clear in the first, when they bombarded Chinn for five singles, meaning three tallies. The Saints fielded like whirlwinds, but made some bad errors, score:
