FATE OF ARCHDUKE JOHN

Nephew of the Emperor of Austria Probably Lost at Sea.

MOTHER STILL BELIEVES HE IS ALIVE

His Beautiful Wife, Who Was an Actress, Not Abourd the Ship, but Her Fate to Also a Mystery.

Herald, C. P. Wychgel of Washington, superintendent of a dredging company, with offices in this city, has in his possession a letter which would appear to prove almost beyond doubt that Archduke John, nephew of the emperor of Austria, who mys-teriously disappeared in 1890, while on a voyage in South American waters, lost his life at sec. For twelve years stories that the archduke was still slive have come from various parts of the world. In 1877 an irreconcilable quarrel occurred between the emperor and his nephew, who was imperial archduke of Austria, royal prince of Hungary and grand ducal prince of Tuenany. The duke was deprived of all his offices. His rank as a soldier was taken from him, his name was stricken from the army list and he was forbidden to appear at court-this despite the fact that no one more than his imperial upole admired his talents and force of character.

It was at this time in Vienna he met a singer whose beauty was attracting attention throughout Europe. After continued success abroad she came to this country. and made her debut at the Thalia theater, in the Bowery, then the home of comic opera. Soon afterward she married the duke in London.

Efforts of friends to settle the quarrel at court were futile and the archduke, assuming the name of Johann Orth, bought a vessel in England, assumed command, and, with his wife, sailed for South America. The ship was reported at Ensenada, near Buenos Ayres, and never has been heard from since. Nevertheless, recurrent re-ports that Johann Orth still lives have, itis said, buoyed up the aged archduchess in a Tuscan castle, and she never has believed her son to be dead.

Superintendent Wychgel says that while he was, in 1890, superintendent of a dredg-Mails for China and Japan, via Vancouver and Victoria, B. TRENTON, N. J., June 16.—The patent infringement suit of the Rodgers Ballant Car company against the Pressed Steel Carcompany was discontinued in the United States circuit court today. The suit was brought because of an alleged infringement of a dumping device. Counsel for the Rodgers company wanted the suit dismissed without prejudice, but this was opposed by counsel for the Pressed Steel Car company, who insisted that there had been no infringement, that they were still manufacturing and intended to continue manufacturing the device that was alleged to be an infringement. Counsel for the Rodgers company had stated that the reason for discontinuing the suit was that the Pressed Steel Car company had cessed the manufacturing. Judge Kirkpatrica in allowing the discontinuance would not allow the suit to be discontinued without prejudice. This ends all litigation on the subject.
