Another Death Added to List and More Property Loss Discovered After Tornado.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., June 12 .- Wire com munication through McLean county is being resumed and additional details of Tuesday night's tornade are coming to light. One more death is added to the list of McLean county victims. Cora Reynolds, 2 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Reynoids, residing east of Saybrook, was struck by flying missiles and her skull fractured. Her mother was seriously injured and lies in a critical condition with little hope of recovery. Another child was picked up and carried to a field some distance away. The residence was completely demolished.

A train of empty box cars was carried three miles, colliding with an eastbound train near Elliott. At Elliott a caboose was turned over and Conductor George Seevens of Rankin was knocked unconscions. He is in a serious condition.

TEAMSTERS MAKE THREATS

Charge Packers with Violating Agree. ment and May Renew the Strike.

CHICAGO, June 12.-The stock yards teamsters again are making threats. They charge that the packers have not lived up to the terms of the compromise which closed the big strike and a call will be issued for a general meeting of the union next Sunday to consider the situation.

The men say that the conditions at the yards are worse than before the strike of two weeks age was railed. They say their positions are in danger; that many of the men have been unable to get work, and that the barn superintendents who were discharged because they refused to take out the strikers' wagons have not been rein-

> > Great Britain.

LONDON, June 12 .- A crowd of several hundred persons, including a number of American sightseers, had gathered outside the house of United States Ambassador Joseph H. Choate, on Carrollton House terrace, when King Edward and Queen Alex andra arrived there at 8:45 o'clock to night to attend the dinner given by Mr and Mrs. Choate. Their majesties came in what is known as a "town carriage," with outriders in red livery. The front of the embassy was decorated with the customary corepation device, a crystal transparency showing the royal cipher. It was surmounted by the Stars and Stripes. The crowd uncovered as their majestics passed in. Otherwise there was no demenstration.

The following is the full list of the guests present at the dinner. List of Guests.

The king and queen, Princess Victoria, the duke of Norfolk, the duke and duchess of Portiand, Lord Rosebery, the bishop of London, Rt. Rev. Arthur F. Ingram, the earl and countess of Pernbroke, Earl and Countoss Spencer, Str. William and Lady Vernon Harcourt, A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury, and Miss Balfour; the earl of Derby, Lady Alice Stantey, the Russian ambassador, Baron De Staat, J. Pierpont Morgan, Whitelaw Reid, special ambassador of the United States to the coronation of King Edward, and Mrs. Reid; Harriet Lane Johnston a niece of the late President James Buchanan, who was appointed United States minister to Great Britain in 1853; John Sargent, the American painter; Mrs. Douglass Robinson, Mrs. W. S. Cowles, sister of President Rosewelt; Lord Kenyon, Sir Stanley Clark, Mr. Choate, Mrs. Choate, Miss Choate, Henry White and Miss White, Mr. J. Ridley, second secretary of the United States embassy, and William Woodward, private secretary of Mr. Choate.

The following were invited to be present

after the dinner:

William C. Eustis, third secretary of the embassy, and Mrs. Eustis; Commander Richardson Clever, the naval attache to the United States embassy, and Mrs. Clover; Douglass Robinson, Major Edward B. Cassatt, the military attache to the embassy; J. L. Baltonstall, formerly Ambassador Choate's private secretary; Mrs. Montgomery Sears, Mrs. Reid, J. P. Morgan, Jr., the Hon, Michael Henry Herbert, the newly appointed British ambassador to the United States; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Lincoln Bayliss, William Wetmore and the other members of the special embassy to the coronation of the king.

Feature of Present Reten. after the dinner:

Feature of Present Reign. The visit of King Edward and Queen Alexandra to Ambassador and Mrs. Choate was one of the most interesting incidents of the present reign, and all London was talking of it tonight. The police had to clear Carlton House terrace of the many spectators who had congregated there, anxlous to witness as much as possible of the remarkable tribute paid by their majesties to the United States.

When King Edward, Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria, with their suites, drove up to Mr. Choate's house the ambassador, Miss White and Mr. and Mrs. Carter met them at the door.

The Americans were plain evening dress Samuel Utterback was seriously injured his suite wore a dress exactly similar to struction. that of the Americans, except that his majesty were across his shirt front the blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter. Greetings had scarcely been exchanged before dinner was appounced and the party became somewhat mixed up. Mr. Choate found himself leading the queen into the dining room shead of the king, who had Mrs. Choate on his arm. Previous to the beginning of dinner, special servants of their majestles, covered with medals, had arrived at Mr. Choate's residence and taken up their places behind the chairs at which

The table was elaborately decorated with merican Beauty roses. Mr. Choate and his wife sat opposite each other at the center of the table, at which forty covers had dressed becomingly in an evening gown of white and black and wore a diamond tiara, sat at Mr. Choate's right hand. On his left sat Princess Victoria, while next to the princess sat Lord Lausdowne. On the opposite side of the table sat Mrs. Cheste. with King Edward on her right and the duke of Norfolk on her left.

In the beginning the international banquet proceeded somewhat formally, but the vivacious humor of the king and queen soon put the guests at their case. Throughout the dinner music was rendered by an excellent band.

Finally Queen Alexandra gave the sign and the ladies rose and retired to the

In an interval between the music the king asked especially for Mrs. Douglass Robmeon and Mrs. W. Their majesties also chatted especially with Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, while the latter's charming daughter, who was too young when she last visited England to be presented at court, was cordially received by both King HOSTS TO KING AND QUEEN Defends Nicaragua Canal Bill and Assails Report of Panama Company.

> FAIRBANKS WANTS TO BUILD WITH BONDS Proposes to Distribute Cost of Construction Over Number of Years, but Alabama Senator Takes Insue with Plan.

WASHINGTON, June 12 .- After considering the London dock charges bill for an hour and a half today, without completing it, the senate resumed consideration of the isthmian canal question.

Mr. Morgan of Alabama occupied the floor for three hours and a half, discussing particuarly the diplomatic phases of the question. From this point he was diverted by an amendment introduced by Mr. Fairbanks of Indiana providing for the issue of bonds for the construction of the canal. Mr. Morgan vigorously attacked the amendment, maintaining the expense of the canal's taxation should be paid out of the treasury current receipts. Incidentally Mr. Morgan again opposed the Panama route and assailed the report of the new Panama company to dispose of the concessions held from the old company.

A resolution introduced by Mr. Carmack of Tennessee, directing the committee on civil service and retrenchment to investigate the discharge from the War de-On motion of Mr. Platt of Connecticut the resolution was referred to the committee on civil service.

Data Being Compiled.

The resolution introduced yesterday by Mr. Culberson of Texas, directing the secretary of war to send to the senate an itemized statement of the expenditures made from the Cuban funds from the time this year, was taken up. Mr. Platt of Connecticut explained that the information was being compiled in the War department and the resolution was sent to the calendar Consideration then was resumed of the London dock charges bill. Mr. Platt of Connecticut remarked that it was difficult to ascertain what was sought by the bill Mr. Nelson of Minnesota explained the provisions of the bill to which Mr. Platt called attention. Mr. Platt further held that the question presented was not a subject of national legislation. The bill went over. Consideration of the isthmian canal project then was resumed and Mr. Hoar formally offered his amendment, of which he gave notice some time ago, in the form of a substitute. The amendment provides that it shall be the duty of the president to cause an isthmian canal to be built by such route as he may select; that he shall obtain all advice necessary, and that $10,000,000 be appropriated to begin the work.

With some heat Mr. Fairbanks insisted that his amendment was perfectly reasonable and proper. He believed it to be in accord with the wisest statesmanship to distribute the cost of the canal over a period of years instead of putting the burden of the entire cost on the people of the present time. He said that if the bill providing for a canal by the Nicaragua route were erected he would offer the same amendment to that. One of his or objections to the Nicaragua canal bill was that it proposed to pay the expenses of construction from the current receipts of July 1.

measure and Mr. Ray of New York against Mr. Mondell submitted an extended argu ment in favor of the bill. The amount of land which might ultimately be reclaimed by irrigation was estimated, he said, be tween 35,000,000 and 75,000,000 acres. He discussed fully the reasons why the states could not undertake the work. The wiedom of national aid in the reclamation of the arid lands of the west, he declared, had been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the people and of both political parties in national conventions assembled. It was estimated, he said, that the pending bill would produce a fund from the sale of public lands of between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000, which would gradually increase. It also was estimated that the cost of bringing the water to the settler would be about $10 an acre; that at the present rate the bill would bring 250,000 acres under trrigation annually.

Mr. Ray of New York opened in opposi tion to the bill. He declared that the friends of the measure had sought to create the impression that the irrigation of partment of Miss Rebecca J. Taylor, a of the free home policy. The scheme, he the lands in the west was a continuation said, would benefit certain states, but at the expense of others. The public lands, he contended, belonged to the people of all the states. This bill proposed to take the proceeds of their sale to develop one section of the country.

Mr. Shallenberger of Nebraska concluded the debate for the day with a twenty-minute speech in support of the bill. He said train in Paris on Tuesday afternoon to go he preferred to see the money spent in of the American occupation to May 1 of the west for the development of our country than in the subjugation of peoples beyond the seas.

AARON BURR'S FIRST LOVE.

Rivalry with General Putnam Over Young English Girl.

Margaret Moncrieffe was barely 15, but shrewd beyond her years and extremely handsome, says a writer in Lippincott's She had remained in New York when, with the rest of the English army, her father, Colonel Moncrieffe, had gone to Staten Island, where he was in command of regiment.

A letter from Colonel Moncrieffe, which was dated from his quarters on Staten Island, stated that the colonel's motherless daughter was in New York alone and unprotected, and begged Mr. Putnam would afford her protection. General Putnam was bluff, unconventional Connecticut farmer. with a warm heart and unsuspicious mind. To him such an appeal on the part of a father seemed most natural, and he immediately ordered his side-de-camp, Colonel Aaron Burr, to call on Miss Moncrieffe and invite her in his name to share their quarters, adding that Mrs. Putnam and his aughters would welcome her as one of the

The beautiful young English girl thus strangely introduced into the household became a favorite with them all. The general was captivated and Major Burr fell desperately in love with her. But in spite of his infatuation, or possibly in consequence of it, Burr kept a watchful eye on the winning creature, particularly as he saw that the general was completely off his guard. Margaret threw herself heart and soul into the pursuits of the household. She took lessons in spinning and weaving from the country maidens, but when left to her own devices charmed her bosts with the facility with which she sketched little water colors that she freely bestowed on anyone who admired them.

The general often made her his companion furing his daily rounds, heedless of Major Burr's jealous giances, for Putnam delighted in her intelligent interest, never heeding her searching inquiries and su-preme would have been his astonishment to learn that she was better informed than himself as to the strength of the defenses, the quality, equipment of the troops, nor could be have believed his eyes had he caught sight of Margaret's notebook, which was filled with the valuable information. which she contrived to send daily to her

Northwestern Copper Mining Co

Saturday is the last day that the stock of this company will sell at 10 cents a share. After that date

The chief objection to mining has been, not that mining properties have failed to produce mineral, but that the officers of mining companies have swindled the stockholders. THE OFFICERS OF THIS COMPANY ARE

AMONG OMAHA'S BEST KNOWN AND MOST CON-

SERVATIVE BUSINESS MEN WHO HAVE NEVER BEEN KNOWN TO ATTEMPT TO GET A DOLLAR

DISHONORABLY. If they attempted fraud in the management of the company they would lose more in their
