

HON. T. F. MADDEN

FORMER MAYOR OF ST. IGNACE, MICHIGAN.

Relates an Experience Which, He Says, Taught Him a Valuable Lesson.

"I have had an experience which taught me a valuable lesson," says the Hon. Thomas F. Madden, former mayor of St. Ignace, Mich., to a reporter the other day. "It was while crossing the Gulf of Mexico," he continued, "in an attempt to recover my health that the suggestion came to me. For twenty years I had been a sufferer from indigestion. It tortured me. I could not eat a hearty meal and even the lightest food distressed me. I consulted with possibly eight different physicians, but grew worse all the time. "This chronic indigestion brought on a whole train of other troubles. I became nervous, suffered from violent headaches and biliousness and I think I would have given every cent I possessed to find relief. But I became more miserable and finally despair I determined to take a southern trip.

"On the steamer bound for Galveston I chanced to see an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and the argument struck me forcibly that a medicine which made good blood must be a cure for stomach troubles. As soon as we landed I purchased a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they gave me almost instantaneous relief. If it had not been for them I think I should have starved to death. I grew constantly better and in a short time I was cured. "It is now over a year since these pills cured me. My stomach is sound and my digestion is perfect. I can eat heartily of the richest food, my nerves are quiet, my blood good and I feel well and strong. I have been made a well man by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

The Hon. Mr. Madden's address is St. Ignace, Mich., and he is willing to corroborate the statement given above. The power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in the vast number of diseases due to impure blood or to derangements of the system has been demonstrated in thousands of instances as remarkable as his. No one who is suffering rightfully neglect this way to restore health.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sold by all dealers or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 (they are never sold in bulk or by the hundred) by addressing Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

SPLIT IN NATION POLITICS

Two Divisions Spring from Choctaw Convention and Double-Header Ticket is Named.

SOUTH MALESTER, I. T., June 13.—The national convention of the Tusahoma party of the Choctaw nation split over the selection of a permanent chairman and the followers of Governor G. W. Dukes bolted the convention and nominated Hon. T. W. Hunter of Choctaw for governor.

The other faction named ex-Governor Greenmire for governor. Both men will make a hard fight. The Greenmire convention accepted the supplemental treaty now pending in congress as its platform. Mr. Hunter will oppose the treaty.

TRAGIC END OF THREE LIVES

Minnesota Farmer Shoots Mother and Brother and Then Kills Himself.

ELBOW LAKE, Minn., June 13.—John Fox, a farmer living near here, shot and killed his mother, Peter, and his mother today, and then shot himself dead.

He probably was demented, as one of his brothers went insane last spring when another member of the family committed suicide by blowing off the top of his head.

Jealousy Causes a Tragedy.

TRENTON, Mo., June 13.—Ralph Lord, a local character, at midnight shot and killed Mrs. Arvilla Worrell, of whom he was jealous, and then shot himself through the lungs. He will die.

American Influence Getting There.

An army officer who has just returned from the Philippines says the native women are imitating the American women, school teachers and wives of army officers, in the matter of dress, personal adornment and manners. During the last year a great change in this nature has been observed among the native women, who have been thrown into contact with the "Americans."

The Philippine women now insist not only upon having more clothes, but better clothes, and the result is a marked improvement in their average personal appearance.

A year and a half ago this officer passed through a village in Luzon. In the house where he lodged was a girl of 10 to 12 years who smoked big, black cigars and apparently enjoyed them. Visiting the same village a few months ago the officer called to see his friend, the native family. He found the girl, now a little larger, of course, and also very much better dressed.

"You are not smoking, I see," he said to her. "No, sir," she replied. "Well, try one of these," he said, offering her his cigar case. "No, thank you, sir," replied the girl in fair English, "no no smoke now. American women no smoke."

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A pretty girl with big soft eyes can teach a man anything in the world but common sense. After a man has gambled in matrimony Wall street and horse racing are tame spectacles.

The trouble with great moral forces is that they don't take care of the rent and the butcher's bill. The bachelor who dreams of slippers and an open fire comes to rubber boots and juggling in glory for the kitchen range.

Ferry and Thrust.

Columbus (O.) State Journal: "I'm so sorry I was not at home when you called yesterday," gushed Mrs. Hipperkrit, who, to tell the truth, was at home. "I was so afraid you would be," replied Mrs. Crusher, who had seen Mrs. Hipperkrit through the window.

TOWN WIPED OUT BY FIRE

Alexander City, Alabama, Effaced at Loss of Nearly Million Dollars.

ALEXANDER CITY, Ala., June 13.—Alexander City, a place of 1,500 inhabitants, was wiped away today by fire, the loss reaching at least $750,000, which the insurance will not begin to cover. The fire originated in the foundry and spread from building to building until the entire town was ablaze.

The place has no water works and all the terror-stricken people could do was to save what belongings they could and then flee from the awful heat.

The depot of the Central of Georgia railway was burned with all its contents. The telegraph office, two hotels, postoffice, saloons, practically all the stores and eight residences, together with numerous law and other offices, were destroyed.

The railroad has established its telegraph lines under a tree, and appeals for help and for food are going out.

The tracks of the Central of Georgia are so badly warped that the passenger trains east and west tonight will have to transfer.

Big Philadelphia Fire.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—Fire today destroyed the novelty leather factory of H. M. Rosenblatt & Co., a four-story brick structure, at Second and Oxford streets, resulting in severe injuries to a dozen persons.

The John Moffett public school opposite the leather works was damaged, three dwelling houses adjoining the factory were destroyed and nine others were slightly damaged.

The rapid spread of the flames gave rise to rumors that a number of the employees had met death in the burning factory, but these reports proved to be erroneous.

There were many sensational and narrow escapes, most of the 400 men and women employed in the factory saving their lives by leaping from the windows into nets held by firemen.

Katie Scheidell, aged 15 years, was carried down a ladder by a policeman. She was badly burned and her condition is reported as serious.

Others severely injured are: George Herbert, aged 47, back injured. John Snyder, aged 22, shoulder dislocated and leg fractured.

August Schroeder, aged 45, leg fractured. Samuel Trankerman, aged 25, burned about body.

Several others, including a police sergeant and two firemen, sustained severe injuries and were overcome by heat and shock.

The fire originated in a small annex known as the celluloid room. It is believed a spark from crossed electric wires flew into a quantity of celluloid. The fire caused a panic among the employees, especially those on the upper floor, and for a time the wildest excitement prevailed.

Firemen and policemen, however, prevented the panic-stricken workers from leaping until nets were spread to receive them. Mr. Rosenblatt estimates his loss at $150,000, partly covered by insurance, and the loss on the other properties is estimated at $15,000.

LOOK TO END OF VIOLENCE

Authorities Are Hopeful Over Withdrawal of Deputies from Street Cars.

MODIFIES THE STRIKE SITUATION

Sheriff's Action Restores Quiet, but State Troops Remain on Duty and Some Arrests for Outbreaks Are Made.

PAWBUCKET, R. I., June 13.—Action which the authorities hope means the beginning of the end of the reign of violence incident to the street railway strike was taken today by High Sheriff Hunter C. White removing his deputy sheriffs from the street cars. He did this on representations made to him that the deputies accomplished no good purpose, but incensed the crowds into violence.

After the withdrawal of these men the city became quiet. The 1,500 troops ordered by Governor Kimball yesterday are still on duty, but if conditions warrant they will be withdrawn gradually, the first installment to leave tomorrow. There was no rioting during the day.

Seven men were arrested for misdemeanors committed on Pawtucket avenue, the route of the cars from Providence to this city. The lines of the Pawtucket City system of the Union Traction company were not in operation and the lines in Central Falls, Cumberland and Albion, suburban towns, were tied.

Shooting Winds Up Quarrel. When the first car of the Pawtucket avenue line reached the city today it was guarded by companies of militia and troops of cavalry, with machine guns trailing along. The car was escorted safely past the point where the attacks of yesterday were made.

The military authorities today issued orders to take notice of every infraction of peace and to arrest all who refused to obey their commands. Persons found shouting, placing obstructions on the tracks or otherwise misbehaving were arrested at sight, and if any pronounced demonstration was made by a mob the orders were to warn the assemblage and then shoot if the injunctions were not heeded.

The boy who was shot in the neck by a deputy yesterday was still alive this evening. This afternoon Mayor Fitzgerald ordered all the saloons closed as a precaution against trouble tonight.

More Peaceful in Coal Region.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 13.—For the first time this week there was no demonstration in the vicinity of the Lehigh Valley company's colliery at Duryea, Pa., today. The efforts of the strike leaders to have the men keep the peace have been successful, and there was no gathering of idlers at the colliery to annoy the workmen.

The Lehigh Valley company has followed a policy of keeping guards in the background, so as to avoid any high tension, but the attempted shooting of its division superintendent on Wednesday night has caused it to change its method. Last night and today extra coal and iron police were sent to the colliery and they were distributed around the mine in conspicuous places. It is the company's intention to take no more chances of having its employees injured.

An attempt was made late last night to start up the pumps in the collieries of the Susquehanna Coal company at Nanticoke, Pa., the effort was foiled by the engineers quitting work, almost to a man. There is a very large number of armed coal and iron police in that vicinity, which fact has caused much uneasiness there.

The strike drags along without any change. Information from all parts of the strike affected territory shows the situation to be quiet today, but serious talkers is a very large number of armed coal and iron police in that vicinity, which fact has caused much uneasiness there.

Nonunion Men Are Warned. TAMAUCA, Pa., June 13.—All last night the Panther Creek miners were in a state of excitement. Large delegations of striking miners visited the homes of the nonunion men and warned them not to go to work in the morning. Today it is claimed the pumps at five of the nine collieries in the valley are not running. The striking men here are endeavoring to induce all tradesmen to go out. An appeal has been made to the carpenters, machinists and molders. Feeling is at very high tension and the people are in a state of apprehension.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 13.—Pasturage has been obtained at Coleraine, this county, for more than 2,000 more acres on the Schuylkill coal mines. Twelve hundred already have arrived and 2,400 more are on the way. The quarters here were engaged for all summer.

PITTSBURGH, June 13.—There will be no strike of iron molders in this city. The joint conference between the employers and men having reached a satisfactory ending. The molders receive 10 per cent advance in wages and a minimum wage rate of $3.20 a day. The terms of settlement were not given out.

Fire Bosses May Quit. WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 13.—At a meeting of the fire bosses to be held late this afternoon it was decided whether they would voluntarily decide whether this branch of the mine employees will quit work.

COOL FOOD. For Hot Days. Better health comes with less meat and fat during the warm weather.

By proper and pleasant diet you can prepare the body for summer and feel from ten to twenty degrees cooler than your neighbor.

Another Wreck Victim Dead. CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 13.—J. L. Tomkins, of Nashville, an express messenger helper, is dead as the result of injuries received in a wreck on the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway, this making the number of fatalities four. The cause of the wreck was the negligence of Webb was erroneous. He will live. It is thought the other injured will also recover.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Mary Denton, a colored woman, was arrested at 10:30 last night on suspicion of stealing a pair of shoes from a store. She was held for $150 while he was in her place on Capitol avenue.

Anna Adams, who appears to be about 32 years of age, lies in the city jail on a charge of petty larceny. She was arrested at 10:30 last night on suspicion of stealing a pair of shoes from a store. She was held for $150 while he was in her place on Capitol avenue.

SAILORS' YARNS THAT ARE YARNS.

Skill of Seafaring Men in Drawing the Long Bow.

Landmen are queer folk, in the opinion of the "jolly, jolly mariner." They won't believe a sailor when he tells the truth about the queer things he has seen, reports the New York Times, but when he draws upon his imagination they sometimes believe everything he says. At least this has been the experience of one veteran skipper.

"It reminds me of the story of Jack and his old Scotch mother that used to be told when I was at sea," he said the other day, discussing this perversion on the part of the landlubber. "I had just returned from a cruise around the world, and at the supper table was telling about his experiences. He told about the flying fish, and his mother gently rebuked him for trying to deceive her. He spoke of whales and porpoises, and the old lady shook her head and said that, as for her, she didn't believe a word of it."

"So it went on until Jack, in a spirit of mischief, told her that when the ship was in the Red sea they had pulled up anchor and had found tangled in the flukes some of the chariot wheels of Pharaoh and his army."

"Oh," said the old lady, "certainly I believe that, for it's in the bible." "Captain Kelley, the noted whaler, once told me of a similar experience. He was retelling some of his adventures to a group of store loafers, when a tall thin fellow rose from his cracker barrel and asked: 'Mr. Kelley, tell us how big is a whale, anyhow?'"

"The captain tried to give him some idea, and a murmur of incredulity went around the circle. "How big is a whale's mouth?" asked another.

"The law is fourteen or fifteen feet long," replied Kelley. "There was a general unbelieving laugh. "How much lie can you get from one?" was next asked.

"A good whale will make about 240 barrels." "I didn't believe it. They weren't to be fooled that way simply because they were countrymen. "The captain finally grew reckless. "Well," he said, "I'll tell you of a little experience I once had off the coast of Peru. We'd sighted near the shore a big whale when something happened. The mother whale lit out with her tail, the boat was stove in pieces, and I found myself sailing through the air toward the shore."

"I alighted in the top of a cactus tree, where I thought myself at least safe from the whale. But diesel me the whale, when she came up to the boat and put her eye, turn about and slice that cactus tree off nicely near the base with her powerful tail, leaving me up there without any way to get down."

"The captain paused, and there was a general chorus of 'Go on. That story makes me feel a little more reasonable," said one of the auditors."

HIS NERVE FAILED HIM.

Melancholy Story of a Man with Explosive Headgear. The man looked head-god and guilty, relates the Washington Post.

He walked up the steps of his home with his shoulders sort of hunched forward. There was a furtive, haunted expression on his face.

On his head there was a $20 Panama. He had paid $20 for it that afternoon. That is why he looked guilty.

During all of his previous married life he had been staking himself to lids of the $28 brand.

But he had been aching and hungering for this $20 Panama for a long time. In a moment of recklessness he had bought it for himself.

But as he went up the steps he looked mighty head-god and guilty. He knew that when he broke the news to his wife there'd be something doing, and quick, at that.

But he had firmly made up his mind on the way up in the car that he'd boldly tell her that he had dug $20 for the hat, and take what was coming to him.

She was upstairs when he let himself in the front door. He braided himself as he heard her descending the stairs. He felt that his time was coming pretty swift. As he got to the bottom of the stairs, however, all of his nerve foisted out.

"Why, what a pretty hat!" she exclaimed, picking the hat off the rack as she reached the hall. "How much?" It was now or never with him.

It was the chance of his life to assert himself and make a stab at picking it up and running away with it.

But his knee shook beneath him and the hot beads began to pour from his forehead. "Three-a-half," he replied, weakly, and then he tossed in bed all night trying to dope it out how he'd explain for the expenditure of the remaining $16.50 that he'd paid for the Panama headgear.

ROOSEVELT FOR CUBA

into relations of varying intimacy by the Spanish war. Porto Rico and Hawaii have been included within our tariff lines to their great benefit, as well as Cuba, and without any of the feared detriment to our own industry. The Philippines, which stand in a different position, have been granted substantial tariff concessions.

Certain Special Obligations. Cuba is an independent republic, but a republic which has assumed certain special obligations as regards her international position in compliance with our request. I ask for her certain special economic concessions in return; these economic concessions to benefit us as well as her. There are few brighter pages in American history than the page which tells of our dealings with Cuba during the past four years. On her behalf we waged a war for which the main spring was righteous indignation against oppression and we have kept faith absolutely.

It is earnestly to be hoped that we will complete in the same spirit the record we will begin and show in our dealings with Cuba that steady continuity of policy which is essential for our own and our English in foreign affairs if we desire to play well our part as a world-power.

Cuba Needs Our Help. We are a wealthy and powerful nation; Cuba a young republic, still weak, who owes to us her birth, whose whole future, whose very life must depend on our attitude toward her. I ask that we help her as she struggles upward along the painful and difficult road of self-government and independence. I ask the aid for her, because she is weak, because she needs it, because we have already aided her, and that she should have the aid of a kind which a self-respecting people can accept, be given to Cuba, for the very reason that we have given her such help in the past.

Our soldiers have won her freedom, and for three years our representatives, civil and military, have toiled unceasingly, facing disease and death, with the most fatal type with patient and uncompromising fortitude, to teach her how to use aright her new freedom.

Never in history has any alien country been so completely under our protection and integrity of purpose, such wise judgment and such a single-hearted devotion to the country's interest. Never in history has any alien been given all possible chance to use to the best advantage the freedom which Americans have already granted her.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT. White House, June 13, 1902.

Deadlock is Likely. The situation in the senate regarding the Cuban reciprocity bill today indicated a continued deadlock. There was no conference between the opposing factions, and members of the committee on Cuba said they did not know as one would be necessary. It was stated that the Cuba committee would report the reciprocity bill after a caucus of republicans and let the beet sugar men take the responsibility of passing the house bill if they so desired. It was generally known that the president was to send in a message on the subject and during the early part of the session a great deal of interest was manifested in what the executive might say.

LIVE TOPIC FOR SENATORS

Straight Reciprocity Men Take New Hope, but Opponents Are Still Unmoved.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The president's reciprocity message gave senators a live topic of conversation today, but so far there is no apparent change in the situation. There was a disposition on the part of the leaders on both sides of the controversy to claim, when speaking publicly, some advantage from the message. The straight reciprocity men urged that the effect would be to cause at least some of the beet sugar republicans to abandon their opposition. They contended that many of them had misunderstood the attitude of the president and now that this had been made clear there could be no longer excuse for opposing straight reciprocity measures. The message, they argued, would clear the atmosphere, render the president's attitude unmistakable and therefore bring opponents within the party face to face with the fact that in continuing their opposition they are antagonizing the official head of the party.

"We have known all the time where the president stood on this subject and have told the republican opponents of reciprocity just what the facts are," said a leading reciprocity senator. "They are bound to accept our assurances and professed to have had expressions from the president to the contrary. The message confirms all that we have said to them. It clears the atmosphere and necessarily the result must be beneficial for a reciprocity bill."

The beet sugar traders declared at the close of the day that the message had caused no loss to them and that all those senators who had stood with them yesterday are still with them. They also as-
