While English has the better of the Omaha delegation, Abbett is ahead in South Omaha, having the right to expect fortythree votes out of the fifty-one allotted to that city. Admitted Peculations.

Beginning of Trial in Criminal Court of Timekeeper Rowley, Accused of Padding Packing House

Pay Rolls.

Martin Rowley's struggle for freedom be gan in criminal court Friday morning with Judge Baxter on the bench and a special jury in the box. The defendant has been in the county jail since early last April, when he was arrested on a charge of embezzling $4,800 of the funds of Armour & Co. while acting as that company's general timekeeper at its packing house in South Omaha.

The county attorney, in stating the state's case to the jury, said that he intended to show that Rowley had secured the money by making out special pay checks to fictitious persons and then endursing the same and cashing them, the roll being so large and the company's confidence in Rowley so complete that the peculations were not discovered until after they had been going on for many months.

During all the days of his confinement Rowley has steadfastly refused to make any statement or talk of his case, and the outline of the defense by his attorney was awaited with interest Friday morning, but after the county attorney had finished the former said: "We waive statement to the jury, your honor," and his course remains as much in the dark as ever.

Some vital change will take place in the strike situation at the boilermakers' shops of the Union Pacific within two or three days. This statement, which appeared in The Bee yesterday morning, has been officially confirmed. Up to date no steps have been taken to fill the strikers' places and the shop is still in idleness, but this state of affairs cannot last long and it has been authentically stated that material developments will come about within the next few days. What these changes or plans will be is not known outside of the private offices of the Union Pacific officials who have the strike matters in hand. The strikers and officials have had no conference within the past few days and there is therefore no mutual understanding between them. Neither is there any disposition apparent upon the part of either to give in. Each side is convinced of the justice of its claim. One feature of the strikers' proposition that is particularly displeasing to the company is the situation at Armstrong, Kan. It is stated that those bollermakers were given a voluntary in-
