First Week in September is the Date Belected for the Affair.

PLANS ARE ONLY IN EMBRYO AS YET

City Will Be Asked to Grant the Use of First Avenue from Pearl to Sixth Street for the Purpose.

The Elks' carnival will be held during the first week in September. This was decided upon at a meeting yesterday morning of the committees having the matter in charge. According to present plans, the carnival will be held on First avenue in front of the Elks' clubhouse and in the spacious yard at the rear of the house. The city will be asked to grant the right to occupy First avenue from Pearl street to Sixth street during the carnival.

As the meeting yesterday was the first general session of the sub-committees, the plans for the carnival have as yet only been outlined, but from this on will be rapidly perfected and the committees will meet every Wednesday at the clubhouse.

The executive committee in charge of the arrangements is composed of H. A. Searle, chairman; E. A. Troutman, secretary; W. J. Davenport, Victor E. Bender, W. A. Maurer, B. M. Sargent and H. H. Van Brunt, treas-

Truce in Saloon Fight.

Colonel Beck, having declared a truce in his fight against the motor company pending a decision by Judge Scott of the superior court in the injunction proceedings, the saloons outside the fence at Lake Manawa were open yesterday and doing business. The motor company up to date has stood pat and refused to grant the request of the saloon men outside the en-closure that it place a gate in the fence to enable visitors at the resort to patronize them if they so desire.

Judge Scott has intimated that he will hand down his decision today, and if favorable to the petitioners, the motor company will be compelled to take down the fence on the north side of Manawa park, and this will open the public thoroughfare in front of Colonel Beck's saloon and the Country club, operated by William Rogers. In the event of Judge Scott's ruling being adverse to the petitioners, Colonel Beck asserts that he will then fall back on the mulct law and ask the courts to enforce it at Manawa.

All Are Invited.

The Retail Grocers' association extends hearty invitation for all those engaged in other pursuits to join them in their picnic next Thursday, June 26, at Jeffries' Bluffs. (From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, June 22 .- (Special.) -- Dr Mackin of Ossian, who has been delegated by the State Board of Control to make the inspection of county and private insane hospitals in Iowa, has nearly completed his work, having examined the Polk county hospital last week, and will go to Dallas county this week for inspection, which will complete the work. Dr. Mackin was for a number of years in the state hospital at Independence as an assistant physician. He reports that the county and private hospitals have made many imrovements since they have been placed partially under the supervision of the Board of Control, that their appliances for the safety and comfort of the insane are far superior to what they were and the management is generally more in accord with modern methods. The board adopted regulations for the county hospitals and in nearly every case they are living up to these regulations. The Polk county hospital, which is the largest county hospital in the state, now has 103 insane patients, but there are a number of these county hospitals with from forty to fifty patients all the time. Dr. Mackin has visited the new state hospital at Cherokee and declares that in the matter of appointments and perfection of detail it will have no equal anywhere in the country. When it is opened a number of the insane now in county and private hospitals will be transferred to the new hospital or there will be room made for them in the three other state hospitals.

ending with 1900, as compared with 1901. The average home value of all coal mined and sold during this period was $1.45 per ton, while a press bulletin recently issued by Charles D. Walcott, director of the United States Geological Survey, says that for the year 1901 "the increase in the value of the anthracite product received at the mines showed a gain of $37.48.193, or more than 31 per cent over that of 1900. The average price for the market anthracite coal—that is, the coal shipped to market or sold to local trade—was $1.87, the high-cest figure obtained since 1883."

In other words, while, according to President Olyphant, 13 cents per ton represents the operators' increased cost of production in 1901, 39 cents per ton—as compared with 1200—represents the increased value of the product to the operators. In view of the fact that this enormous increase in the selling price of coal has been exterted from the consumer by the coal trust, can any one say that the demands of the miners for a small portion of the increased wealth their labor has produced are unreasonable or unwarranted?

Submits Other Testimony.

Further evidence of the ability of the coal mine operators to pay increased wages is found in the sworn testimony of Mr. John Markie, managing partner of the G. B. Markie Coal company. This firm operates three mines in the Lehigh region and is known as an independent operator. In the supreme court of Pennsylvania, in re Markie against Wilbur (Pennsylvania State Reports, page 200), "John Markie was sworn and during his testimony swore that he was appointed superintendent or manager by the articles of copartnership at a salary of $15,000 per year and that under his management, from 1890 to 1894, inclusive, the partnership made large profits of over $1,000,000." During the five years referred to by Mr. Markie the government reports show that the home value of coal produced by the anthracite coal companies was $1.51 per ton. If the G. B. Markie company could make a profit of over $1,000,000 in five years when the selling price of their coal at the mines was $1.51 per ton does it not seem reasonable to suppose that the larger companies—whose cost of production is necessarily less—could make a sufficient profit in 1991, when the home value of their coal was $1.57 per ton, to enable them, without detriment to their business, to pay the anthracite mine workers the small pittance asked for by them?

In his annual report to the directors of his company President Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, says in substance:

"The year 1901 will pass into history as one of the most satisfactory, if not the banner year for the anthracite coal interests of this country. The tonnage mined, purchased and handled was much greater than any previous year in the history of the company. The rate per ton per mile earned on coal hauled was 8.01 mills. The present outlook is favorable for an indefinite continuance of these favorable conditions." Further evidence of the ability of the coal

Quotes from Newspapers.

The Commercial and Financial Chronicle, commenting upon the report of President Olyphant of the Delaware & Hudson railroad says: "The average of anthracte selling prices for 1901 must have been 30 to 40 cents higher than in 1800, and the profits of the coal mining operations of the Delaware & Hudson in 1901 was $1,-40, 307."

the Delaware & Hudson in 1901 was $1,-401,307."

Fresident Baer, the recognized spokesman of the Coal trust, made the statement that he was ready to submit the books of the coal departments for our examination, in order to prove that wages could not be increased. This proposition, on the surface, appears reasonable, but when dissected and analyzed it is positively absurd. Eighty-five or ninety per cent of all coal produced in the anthracite regions is from mines owned and operated by the various coal-carrying railroads; the freight charges for hauling a ton of anthracite coal one mile are three times as great as those of other roads for hauling a ton of bituminous coal one mile, and as a consequence the other roads for hauling a ton of bituminous coal one mile, and as a consequence the coal departments, while actually earning enormous profits on a legitimate business may and do appear to be losing money, for the reason that the railway departments absorb the profits of the coal departments by charging the coal departments by charging the coal departments exorbitant freight rates. They thus rob Peter to pay Paul. It cannot be said, in extenuation, that there is any peculiar necessity for this triple charge on hard coal, for all other kinds of freight-very much more troublesome to handle and more perishable—are carried at a far lower rate.

The men were not taken to the penitentiary at all but have been paroled.

Too Cold for Crops.

The temperature all through Iowa was almost low enough this morning for froat, but none was visible in this part of the state. The records of the weather bureau show that there has been no such period of protracted cold weather in lowa at this season of the year for many years and that the effect of the cold and rains has been disastrous to the crops. It is feared that should extreme hot or dry weather follow in July the crops would be in no position to survive and there would be great loss.

Iowa State News Notes.

The school board of Sloux City has been wrestling with the question of styles of penmanship in the public schools. The chief criticism to be made is that those who attend the schools longest write the poorest.

John Mullady of McGregor has refused 4,000 for a pearl. Al Relser scid one for $1.299. Many smaller ones were found the last week. Len Adams sold one for $5.00 Shelis bring a good price. corded.

This recital of facts disposes of the operators' claim that they cannot afford to pay living wages for faithful service and unceasing toil amid surroundings constantly fraught with the swavest danger. Record of Fatalities.

Record of Fatalities.

The reports of the mine inspector's bureau of the state of Pennsylvania show that during the last decade the average yearly fatalities in the anthracite coal mines were 437, and that for the year 1801 there were 437, and that for the year 1801 there were 437, and that for the year 1801 there were 437, and that for the year 1801 there were 437, and that for each german is killed and more are seriously injured; it means that for each day the mines are in operation more than two persons have sacrificed their lives and more than five persons have been injured. Indeed, it is a matter of record that eight times as many men and boys are killed and injured annually in the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania as were killed and injured annually in the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania as were killed and wounded from the American ranks in the Spanish-American war in Cuba. Yet, if one were to credit the stories that appear in the columns of the daily press it would seem that the men who daily risk their lives working in the bowels of the earth were a lawless class, who have no conception of the duties of American citizenship; that they have been grossly maligned is proved by the records of the police courts and the testimony of the chiefs of police departments in the four largest mining communities in the anthracite fields—namely, Scranton, Wilkesbarre, Hazelton and Shamokin. The reports of these cities and the statements of the burgesses and the chiefs of police prove that there has been less infraction of the law and fewer arrests during the time the strike has been in progress than for a like period preceding it; in fact, a person passing through the coalide/ds and mining towns of northeastern Pennsylvania would not know that a great industrial context is in progress, but for the presence of a perfect army of coal and fron police, who proudly display their revolvers and rifles and flaunt their authority in an effort to overswe peaceful strikers or provoke them to acts of violence.

strike. It is evident that the real purpose of the coal operators is to destroy organization among their employes. If by any chance they should succeed in their design—which is not at all likely—another labor organization will spring from the ruins of the United Mine Workers of America, and the contest for living wages, for humane conditions of employment, for better education, for higher citizenship will go on until the men who produce coal, the originating motor power which drives the wheels of commerce and industry, the product that is so essential to the welfare of society, the mineral which is the very foundation of our national prosperity, shall receive for their labor sufficient compensation to relieve them of the necessity of sending their boys and girls of tender years and frail physique to the mines and mills, there to destroy their youthful vigor to assist their under-paid parents to maintain their familles.

Conscious of the great responsibility resting upon us, apprehensive of the danger threatening our commercial supremacy should the coal miners of the entire United States become participants in this struggle, we repeat our proposition to arbitrate all questions in dispute; and if our premises are wrong, if our position is untenable, if our demands cannot be sustained by facts and figures, we will again return to the mines, take up our tools of industry and await the day when we shall have a cause to claim the approval of the American people.
