

FROM WASHUTB TO FORTUNE

Tolling Omaha Woman Probably Only Heiress of Rich Californian.

HAS GLIMPSE OF CLOUD'S SILVER LINING

Eccentric Old Man, Believed to Be Her Father-in-Law, Dies at Los Angeles and Leaves Large Amount of Cash.

Yesterday's mail carried to the public administrator at Los Angeles, Cal., a letter that may be the means of taking a wealthy Omaha woman from the slavery of the wash tub and placing her in a home of her own, with real lace curtains at the windows, real Brussels on the floor, real china on the table, real silk on her figure, real ice in the refrigerator and real joy in her heart.

She is Mrs. Charles Hill, Jr., and for years she has lived and labored in a little brown house that is numbered 742 Bancroft street, but that sits back behind other houses, obscure, decrepit and as forlorn as the lonely woman herself.

Death came to the old man suddenly and when he was alone. The coroner investigated and found in a belt about his body $2,000 in bills and a few dollars in silver in the pockets of his trousers.

She says that she and Charles Hill were married thirteen years ago near Grotna and that her husband was then prosperous in a small way. Later his health failed, he could not hold any position requiring constant attention and finally was forced to stop work as he could find, when well enough, about the railroad yards.

When the son became insane, his wife, finding the scanty purse fast emptying, determined to appeal to the father for aid, but her husband's mind was too far gone to permit of his assisting in the hunt and she was never able to locate the Californian, who had been described to her as a moody man who talked little and wrote less.

The letter was never answered, but the husband often mentioned to the paper under the name of how he was enjoying his life of ease in California. The wife and mother had died in Dakota years before and there were no other members of the family.

When the son became insane, his wife, finding the scanty purse fast emptying, determined to appeal to the father for aid, but her husband's mind was too far gone to permit of his assisting in the hunt and she was never able to locate the Californian, who had been described to her as a moody man who talked little and wrote less.

Since then she has heard nothing significant until her brother came with the paper containing the account of the death of the eccentric Californian. She has placed the affair, with a picture of her husband, in the hands of her attorneys and gone back to her humble home to wait, to hope—and to be brave if nothing comes of it.

THE POISE

Of a woman in perfect health attracts the eye at once. Such a woman is all too rarely seen. The most of women bear scars of suffering on their faces which no smiles can hide, and often the very carriage betrays the womanly weakness which oppresses them.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It cures womanly disorders and diseases; brightens the dull eye, rounds out the hollow cheek and gives strength for wifely duties and maternal cares.

My health is the best now that I have been for four years, writes Mrs. F. M. Morris, of Iowa. I was so weak and nervous that I could not do any work at all for a long time.
