

ESTABLISHED JUNE 19, 1871.

OMAHA, SUNDAY MORNING, JUNE 29, 1902—TWENTY-FOUR PAGES.

SINGLE COPY FIVE CENTS.

JOY IN LONDON NOW

English People No Longer Worried About Condition of the King.

DANGER IS NOW PRACTICALLY PAST

Announcement Causes Great Rejoicing Where Sorrow Reigned Before.

STAND OWNERS WANT WAR PARADE

Proposed to Have an Attraction with Lord Kitchener as Central Figure.

MANY AMERICAN WOMEN DISAPPOINTED

They Would Have Constituted a Brilliant Feature at the Coronation Had Their Plans Been Fulfilled.

LONDON, June 28.—The following bulletin regarding the king's condition was issued from Buckingham palace at 11 o'clock to-night: "The king has passed a comfortable day and his strength has been well maintained. The wound occasionally causes discomfort."

"The king has passed a comfortable day and his strength has been well maintained. The wound occasionally causes discomfort. (Signed) BARLOW, 'LAKING.'"

LONDON, June 28.—At 10:45 o'clock this morning the following bulletin was issued from Buckingham palace on the condition of King Edward: "The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

"The king had a good night and his improved condition is maintained. We are happy that we are able to state that we consider his majesty's condition as one of immediate danger and the general condition is satisfactory."

DOCTORS TAKE GLOOMY VIEW

French Savants All Declare Conditions Are All Against His Final Recovery.

(Copyright, 1902, by Press Publishing Co.) PARIS, June 28.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—The pessimism which predicted King Edward's death a year ago now refuses to discuss the prophecy, saying that he abides by his prediction, but that the circumstances are too painful to permit him to enlarge upon the sad condition of the king's recovery.

Mme. Ocedon, the actress, when King Edward last visited Paris, predicted that he would govern large peoples, but would never see a crown, when this seemed a foolish contradiction to newspapers which had started to re-exploit these prophecies. He has been compelled by public opinion to desist, protests having been made against the use of newspapers to encourage weak-minded persons to believe in frauds.

From the physicians, members of the Academy of Medicine and surgeons in the hospitals, when interviewed upon the subject of King Edward's condition, unanimously declared against his recovery. The operating upon the king, they say, was performed during an acute crisis without due preparation of the body. Dr. Lucas Champernier says such cases show a death percentage of 85 per cent. "It is a well known fact," he said, "that King Edward is a sufferer from diabetes, a circumstance which would operate seriously against his recovery."

Dr. Pozzi told the correspondent that the fact that the king was alive five or six days after the operation is no security against a fatal termination.

FOLLOWING DRAWING OF RAPHAEL

Proof Discovers that Frescoes in Saint Angelo Castle Were Designed by Him.

(Copyright, 1902, by Press Publishing Co.) PARIS, June 28.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—According to dispatches, the restoration of the castle of Saint Angelo at Rome has caused some important discoveries. Quite in the top of the tower, in a room adjoining the apartments of Paul Farnese, have appeared, after cleaning, the frescoes of Pierin Del Vaga, with the history of "Cupid and Psyche."

Dr. Ernest Steinmann, on studying these paintings, has succeeded, so it is said, in demonstrating with certainty that they were made according to the engravings that Coxe had copied from the drawings prepared by Raphael to complete his cycle of the adventures of Psyche for the loggia of the Farnese that remained incomplete because of the death of the master.

The frescoes of the castle of Saint Angelo are precious because they reproduce precisely the series of adventures of Psyche in heaven that were to serve to ornament the ceilings of the beautiful villa of the magnificent Agostino Chigi.

Pierin Del Vaga also painted the history of Cupid and Psyche in the Doric palace known as the loggia of the Farnese. From the models of Raphael that he prepared he knew so well how to reproduce in the castle of Saint Angelo.

PRINCE IS IN ROUGH SHOTS

Coronation Participant Dragged by London Toughest Who Attempt Blackmail.

(Copyright, 1902, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, June 28.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Every influence has been employed to hush up an unfavorable rumor affecting one of the royal envoys to King Edward's coronation.

Prince Francis Joseph Braganza, an Austrian Hussar officer, and as a Coburg, here with Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne.

The prince, who is only 23, dined on Thursday evening at a fashionable hotel restaurant. When next heard of he was lying, drugged or drunk, in a low house on the south side of the river, in the hands of four men, who were attempting to blackmail him. All the men were arrested, the police not knowing the rank of the victim.

They were arraigned Thursday morning in the Southwark police court. All the reporters were excluded from the court by the magistrate. The proceedings being held in secret. It is believed the blackmailers were let go without bail to give them a chance to abscond before the next hearing. All the London papers, except the Morning Leader, consented to publish nothing about the affair.

REID'S CARRIAGE TOO MANY ENVOYS' DEMAND WOULD HAVE BROUGHT NUMBER IN PROCESSION TO LUCKY THIRTEEN.

(Copyright, 1902, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, June 28.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—The White-Law Reid, special envoy from the United States, was to be provided with a carriage in the king's procession after that set for the coronation.

To the consternation of the court officials, the king's superior insisted that the carriage, it was found that this addition to the procession would make it consist of thirteen carriages. To their further dismay, the director of the royal mess, Buckingham palace, reported that only four horses remained available which would make it a carriage with four horses.

The chronicle told that White-Law Reid, as envoy from the United States, was to take the back seat in the carriage in which the special envoys from France and Turkey were to ride.

The king ordered that a carriage be provided for Mr. Reid alone.

FRENCH TO KEEP THEIR HEADS

President Loubet Resolves that Life Imprisonment Shall Be Extreme Penalty Hereafter.

(Copyright, 1902, by Press Publishing Co.) PARIS, June 28.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Tremendous mass meetings were held this week in the labor exchanges throughout France to advocate the abolition of the death penalty.

President Loubet, who has always been so much affected by execution that he can not sleep for days before or after its occurrence, is heartily in favor of the reform. It is said that he has promised himself that until the measure is adopted he will follow President Grevy's example by refusing to sign any more victims to the guillotine and commencing the sentence in each case to life imprisonment.

Training Ship at Queenstown. QUEENSTOWN, June 27.—The United States training ship Monongahela, which left Newport, R. I., June 4, arrived here today.

CUBA IN SAD PLIGHT

Financial Condition of the Island Such as to Cause Great Alarm.

LOOKING TO ROOSEVELT FOR RELIEF

In Case He Can Accomplish Nothing Island May Turn to Europe.

NOTHING TO PREVENT SUCH ACTION

As Temporary Measure of Relief Scrip May Possibly Be Issued.

CONSERVATIVE ELEMENT OPPOSES THIS

Some Relief Would Be Afforded If Tangle Over Contracts for Public Works Could Be Straightened Out.

(Copyright, 1902, by Press Publishing Co.) HAVANA, June 28.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—The economic situation in Cuba has really become alarming and the most serious consequences are expected if some measure of relief be not speedily put into practice.

At the present moment Cuba, with all the wealth of its soil, is straitened and paralyzed by the holdup at Washington, hope of the senate taking any favorable action has been abandoned and President Roosevelt is looked upon as the Good Samaritan who will help Cuba in its hour of affliction.

The attitude at Washington is keeping a great deal of willing capital out of the island for the present, and the influx of capital for the development of the large estates is really being stopped. The conservative element in Cuba has really in a perplexing dilemma. The reconstruction of the country cannot be accomplished without foreign financial assistance. Even the local business men have become pained by a financial crisis, and the country has begun to stagnate, all of which adds to the great economic tension.

There is some talk of overtures being made to England for reciprocal measures, and it is understood, if such steps be taken, the representatives of the English, French and German governments will all submit favorable reciprocity propositions to Cuba. The trade of these three countries has always been heavy with the island and it would be to their interests to maintain and promote the long-standing relations. There is nothing in the English, French and German proposals which would violate the Monroe doctrine. It is believed here that if President Palma should begin negotiations with some of the European powers it would have a very salutary effect upon the Washington politicians.

Talk of Scrip Issue. If all other measures of relief fail there is talk of an issue of scrip being made, duly authorized by the government, the issuance being intended only as a temporary relief while Cuba can negotiate a loan or a favorable treaty, or both, as the latter will invite the former.

The conservative element has been approached on the subject of such a step, but, as they have nothing better to offer, they may have to vote for it if the issue is forced. This mode of paying the Cuban army was talked of several weeks ago, and the idea seems to be growing that it would probably be a relief if put into general practice. It is believed that the cities and counties in the southern states have had to resort to such measures until recently. The county commissioners would issue scrip in payment of all public works, school maintenance, etc., and at each meeting of the board would take up as many as ten or twenty thousand dollars of the scrip. The condition of the treasury would permit.

If the plan be put into operation here the payment of the warrants will probably be guaranteed at the end of three or five years from the date of issue, when they will be redeemed at par, with interest. The latter feature is the main improvement of the methods employed in the states and will prevent the depreciation of the paper. It is thought this will give the country a breathing spell and will relieve the extreme tension which now threatens to disrupt all business and even endanger the government itself.

Something Must Be Done. It is argued that it may be a hardship on the government and the people that the step should be given much serious deliberation in order to achieve the best results. The adoption of the measure, under the conditions are now such that something must be done promptly, and this seems to be the only solution. During the life of the warrants the agricultural conditions of the country could be fully resuscitated, made healthy and profitable. With such an accomplished task before him, a man, broken in health and with a broken spirit, would be comparatively an easy task.

If the squabbling over the sewerage contracts ever ceases so that the contractors can get to work, it would be one step toward relieving the financial strain, because it will give great many employments to the idle people. It would be expended in Havana and more than $1,000,000 in Cienfuegos. A new system of water works is to be installed at the latter place. The present system is advertised for auction on August 22. The city was recently offered $135,000 by New York parties, but the offer was refused.

Santa Clara is also expected to make extensive public improvements in order to give employment to the needy. Unfortunately, none of this work will be inaugurated until the fall, and the dull summer months certainly put a rather dismal aspect on the idle people.

Last Friday sugar sold at $1.45 a hundredweight, a price unknown before, and on Saturday a lot was put up for a bid, but no buyers were to be found at any price. The price of sugar generally ranges from $1.75 to $2.10 per 100 pounds.

ALLIANCE TO BE CONTINUED

Treaty Between Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy Renewed in Same Form.

(Copyright, 1902, by Press Publishing Co.) BERLIN, June 28.—The treaty providing for the prolongation of the alliance between Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy was signed in Berlin this morning by the imperial chancery, Count von Buelow; the Austrian ambassador, Count von Szelegyvari; and the Italian ambassador, Count Lanza di Duca. The alliance was renewed in its original form.

WILLIE ASTOR IS IN LOVE

Forces an English Girl to Choose Between Untitled Lucre and Untitled Title.

(Copyright, 1902, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, June 28.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—With the consent of his father, William Waldorf Astor, young Waldorf Astor has made a formal proposal for the hand of Lady Edith Villiers, daughter of the earl of Clarendon.

Lady Edith is not particularly good looking, but is a very charming girl. She has been about much with her brother, Lord Hyde, one of the best known young men in society. It appears that Lady Edith has also received a proposal from a suitor who has no claim to such huge wealth as the Astors, but who possessed a title. There is a story of a mother of the bride who will choose of these, who are a courtier, or whether she will choose either. Unlike his father, young Waldorf Astor is an American citizen. He does not follow the example of his father and renounce his citizenship here. He was officially recognized as an American citizen, because he was recognized by Surrogate Thomas in New York City as a trustee of the vast John Jacob Astor estate.

The young man has, however, lived in England ever since he was a boy and is very English in his ways and ideas, socially and politically. He is an ardent huntsman, who very nearly won an inter-varsity point-to-point steeplechase last year. He has recently taken up with politics and is a follower of Lord Roseberry. He was very anxious to volunteer as a soldier and go to the Boer war, but his father refused to allow him to do so. He was keenly disappointed, because all his college chums enlisted and he realized that he lost caste among his associates.

Young Astor was born in New York City, but knows little or nothing about his native city. He is a handsome, athletic fellow, who is a great friend of the son of Lord Roseberry and it was in that way that he became interested in politics. Francis Hyde Villiers, C. B., an uncle of Lady Edith, was at one time prominently mentioned as the probable successor of the late Sir Julian Pauncefoot as ambassador to the United States. He has been assistant under secretary of state for foreign affairs.

Broken Hearts Are Stilled. Aged North Carolinians Commit Suicide Where They Woored in Switzerland.

(Copyright, 1902, by Press Publishing Co.) PARIS, June 28.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—The tragic suicide of the two American, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn, formerly of North Carolina, at Ouchy, on Lake Geneva, last week, is the talk of the American colony here. A long letter written by Vaughn, explaining the motive of the double suicide, was at first favorably received in the colony, but was later retracted, both being well born, but a couple of days ago, when the couple sought death.

It was a pitiful story of hard luck, intertwined with tragic romance. Thirty years ago they were married in Switzerland and rented the same cottage in which they were found dead. Their bodies were discovered in their former bridal chamber. After their marriage, both being well born, they spent two years in Europe and later returned home. Though natives of North Carolina, they moved to Portland, Ore., and there Vaughn embarked in various business enterprises, which prospered.

Finally, broken in health and spirit, the aged couple left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom, was now a ruin. The Vaughns had no money, and they were left without a cent in the world and with just enough money to keep them from starvation, came to Europe. They sought rest in Switzerland, the scene of their romantic courtship. The modest ivy-clad cottage which they had occupied as bride and bridegroom,