Cheyenne Expects Trouble.

Cheyenne has become the most important center of the Union Pacific strike activities. The company is hiring men and putting them to work there and some vital developments are looked for at that point within the next twenty-four hours. The company and strikers are contesting bitterly for every foot of ground, and while the tide now seems to be drifting toward the company's side, the strikers declare their confidence in the ultimate outcome.

General manager, executives and Superintendents have gone to Cheyenne to keep personally in touch with the situation. As was stated in a special dispatch in The Bee this morning, the company had up to last night secured 150 men who were 100 on the payroll at once and be ready to begin work at any time. The strikers had received no official information as to this up to noon today, but one of the leaders said they did not doubt the accuracy of the report, as they had been advised that the company was shipping men into Cheyenne. He said a carload had gone out within the last twenty-four hours, and that they looked for the company to make an effort to start the shops there with the normal force. Some of these men are said to be from the strikers' own ranks and those who formerly were employed in the shops.

"There certainly will be trouble out there at Cheyenne," said a striker this morning. "The officials really intend to keep these men to work. Here in Omaha I do not believe the men will ever be forced to violence, for we are determined to fight this thing out peacefully, and if we cannot win it that way, then we will give in before we resort to other methods, but at Cheyenne it is different. There is a more bitter feeling there and the men are not naturally as easily restrained."

None of the Union Pacific officials would make a statement this morning as to the conditions here in Omaha, but the strikers claim that no men have gone to work and that the situation remains about like it has been for the past few days.

Reports from Armstrong say that seven blacksmiths and ten machinists, nine union and one non-union, have struck. One man, the strikers' say, is at work in Grand Island, and all the forces remaining in the strike camp are Evansville. The strikers here say they expect different reports from Evansville by night. A strong influence is being brought to bear upon the men there to join the strike.

Busy at Labor Temple.

Labor Temple is the scene of busy operations. It is the headquarters for all the local strikers and from there close touch is kept on the entire field west and south. Neither the machinists or boilermakers had any particular developments to announce this morning, but the men are still on the picket line.

The strikers here say they expect different reports from Evansville by night.

A strong influence is being brought to bear upon the men there to join the strike.

Empire is Well Represented.

The contingent present represented all parts of the British empire, with the exception of India whose troops will be separately reviewed tomorrow. The Canadian detachment numbered 600 men and was the largest body on parade. The smallest detachment consisted of three natives of the island of St. Lucia. Borneo, Ceylon, Fiji, the West Indies generally, Cyprus, etc., the gold coast of Nigeria, Uganda, and other remote colonies were represented by native troops in clothing of striking variety, while straight from the fighting line in South Africa were details from the Canadian scouts, Kitchener's horses and contingents from a number of local levies raised during the war.

The queen's appearance while on her way from the palace to the Horse Guards was greeted with cheers, which increased in strength as the spectators noticed that the orb of the last week had but little effect on her majesty's health and noted the absence of any signs of anxiety as she cheerfully acknowledged the congratulations of the public at the uninterrupted progress of the king.
