Equalization Lightning Strikes at Random and Hits Many Retailers-No Session

Today.

The County Board of Equalization has deferred until Monday morning any action on the assessment of the Omaha Bridge and Terminal company and the Beit Line railway. At yesterday afterneon's sessiou it was developed that the former has been assessed at $64,000 on its personal and real and the latter at $165,000. These were facts of which the members of the tax committee of the Real Estate exchange had not a clear understanding, they say. The forenoon session did not develop much that the board considered helpful, but in the afternoon John R. Webster, who represented the Terminal company and who was extensively quizzed, also concerning the Belt railway, gave what a member of the committee said he considered a very fair statement

John R. Webster's Statement.

He said, among other things, that the actual value of the company's property this side the middle of the Terminal bridge is $350,000; that it has out $1,000,000 of bonds on which interest had defaulted eight years, but on which the company is now paying interest by borrowing, as the earnings are not sufficient to pay both this interest and the running expenses. He was understood to say, also, that the bonds are worth about 75 per cent, or $750,000, of which a trifle less than one-half is property assessable in Nebraska, as a trifle less than one-half the company's holdings are in this state.

Attorney Orr of the Missouri Pacific appeared with Tax Agent Heigleman for the Belt line, but gave little evidence after Mr. Webster had spoken in the afternoon, and none, a member of the board said, that would influence the decision materially. Another Grist of Increases.

During the rest of the day and at the night session the board disposed of the Assensors' Raised

Concerning the Mets Assessment. Through a confusion of the actual valuation and assessed valuation figures for the Mets Brewing company, a wrong impression has gone out since the meeting of Tuesday night. The actual assessment total was given as $8,900, but the valuation on which the company will pay taxes, unless the board will revise it, is only $2,-
