PACKING HOUSE BUSINESS

Census Bureau.

EXTENT OF INDUSTRY IN UNITED STATES

Huge Combine is Shown by the Statistics, Which Prove the Centralfaation of the Hog Killing During Late Years.

There has been a phenomenal growth in the elaughtering and meat packing industries of the country, as shown by a bullethe issued by the census office recently, says a Washington special in the Chicago Tribune. The capital now invested in the packing business is $189,198,264, as compared with $3,482,500 in 1850, the number of establishments at present being 921, as against 185 fifty years ago.

The number of wage earners increased from 3,276 to 68,534; the wages paid from $1,231,536 to $33,457,013; the cost of materials the value of products from $11,981,642 to $785,562,433. The average amount of capital invested per establishment grew from $18,824 in 1850 to $205,427 in 1900; the average yearly earnings of the wage earners grew from $376 to $488, and the average value of products per establishment rose from $64,796 to $852,945. The growth was

While there is a large increase in the number of establishments in existence in 1850 there are 2,000 fewer today than there were ten years ago, which is conclusive proof that the enormous packing concerns have absorbed a great many of the smaller

Causes which contributed to the growth of this industry are the settlement of the western country and the consequent expansion of territory devoted to stock raising; the extension of railroads and the increased facilities of communication; the methods devised to insure preservation of ment, such as improved methods of curing and the introduction and improvement of mechanical and chemical processes of refrigeration, rendering summer packing poseible; the utilization of every part of the animal and the adoption of labor-saving

Cincinnati Once the Center.

During the ten years covered by the eighth census taken in 1860, the center of the meat industry was at Cincinnati and in the Ohlo valley. The average amount of capital invested per establishment increased from $18,824 to $39,221, or 108.4 per cent, while the average value of products per establishment increased from $64,766 to $112,675, or 75.5 per cent.

From that time concentration in definite centers was a marked feature of the growth. The effects of the industrial crisis of 1857, with its wholesale reduction of wages, is seen by the difference in the average yearly wage paid in 1850 and 1860. In 1850 it was $376, which decreased to $202 in 1860, a decrease of 46.3 per cent. The winter packing in eight principal western centers grew from 720,500 hogs in 1850 to 992,310 hogs in

During 1890 and 1900 Illinois led every state in the union in the value of the products in the packing industry. In 1900 this amounted to $287,922,277, as against $212,-291,382 in 1890. The amount of capital invested in Illinois in 1900 was $71,229,262, as against $40,807.115 in 1890. A table giving a comparative summary for 1880, 1890 and 1900 of those cities that in 1900 showed a production to the value of $1,000,000 and over shows that the product of Chicago alone reached a value of $258,527,949 in 1900, or 32.7 per cent of the total value for the They contain fields, forests and plains, local attractions had been provided and United States; in 1890 this ratio was 26.3 | where the herds of the cattlemen have 3.6 per cent.

Chicago's advance in value of products during these ten years was $52,921,547, or 26 per cent. The number of establishments steadily decreased, falling from seventy in 1880 to fifty-seven in 1890 and thirty-eight in 1900. Kansas City stood second in value of products in 1900, gaining during the decade $33,860,579, or 84.8 per cent. Of the value of products in the United States Kansas City furnished 9.4 per cent in 1900 and 7.1 per cent in 1890, a gain of 2.3 per cent.

Unfortunately the figures upon which to base such a comparison for South Omaha are not available. The industry had no existence in 1880 and the figures for 1890 were not published separately. The total production for the state of Nebraska for 1890 however, of which South Omaha constituted a part, was $28,941,144, which was exceeded in 1900 by $38,948,605 by South Omaha alone. South Omaha is Important.

In 1900 South Omaha produced 8.6 per cent of the total value of the product of the United States. In number of establishments Baltimore ranked first, with seventy three establishments, followed by Philadelphia with fifty-eight and New York City with fifty-two, while Chicago, with thirtyeight, stood fourth. In the order of capital invested, wages paid and number of wage earners the relative rank of the cities foilowed closely the same rank as under the value of production. The widest varia- han, General Agent, 111 Adams St., Chitions occurred in the average amount of capital invested and average value of product per establishment in the different cities. South Omaha had the largest average inrestment, of $2,609,570 per establishment; Kansas City's average capitalization per establishment was $1,889,325; Chicago's, $1,-766,785; South St. Joseph (with St. Joseph), $1,040,180. In the average value of products per establishment South Omaha led, with $11,314,968; Kansas City had $9,223,-$71; Chicago, $6,750,736, and South St. Joseph, including St. Joseph, $5,940,995.

Business of Great Proportions. The preparation of animal food products at this point has come to be one of the greatest industrial and commercial enterprises that have been evolved by the American people. This has not been due to accident nor wholly to the alert and business-like qualities of Chicago's citizens. It has been chiefly because of Chicago's location. Nature located Chicago to be a gateway of commerce. As early as 1673 Joliet saw that if a canal were cut through half a league of of Illinois (Lake Michigan) Into the St. Louis river (the Illinois, including the used from $9,451,096 to $683,583,577, and Desplaines). A city possessing such a location, between the lakes and the great west, was naturally early seen to be a gateway of commerce, and Chicago became the center for the vast systems of transportation that converge there today, and that include more than one-half of the railroad systems of the United States.

The Union stockyards were founded in 1865, when 320 acres of land was purchased, and the yards opened in December, 1865. This plant is now worth at least $10,000,000, and on the square mile of land upon which the yards are located are the slaughtering and packing houses that in 1900 reported a capital invested of over

More than 50,000 men found employment in and about the yards in 1900, in the packing establishments and in the service necessary to the handling of the stock. Within the stockyards are 200 acres of yardage, twenty miles of street, twenty miles of water troughs, seventy-five miles of drainage and water pipes and 150 miles of railroad track, which is the property of the stockyards company, which also owns and operates the locomotives.

Some Figures Furnished by the Government These cities did not assume importance Tax Commissioner Finishes Revision of the Records Today.

ADJOURNED COUNCIL MEETINGS POSSIBLE

May Be Held in Order that Appropriation Shall Be Available at Earliest Possible Date After July 15.

Tax Commissioner Fitzgerald and his clerks will complete the revision of the records of the tax levy for 1902 today. When the Board of Review completed its session it was found necessary to make a number of changes on the original sheets as turned in by the tax commissioner, but the changes did not reduce the valuation below $16,000,000. All of the alterations made by the board had to be recorded and prairie boats could pass from the lake the records copied for the use of the council and a copy made for the city treasurer. From the figures turned in by the tax commissioner the council will decide upon the amount of levy to be made. The mayor and members of the council are of the opinion that it will not be necessary to levy more than 9 mills. This levy will bring in the full amount allowed by the present city charter.

In case the levy and appropriation ordinances are not ready for the meeting of the council Monday night it is possible that adjourned meetings may be held during the week in order that the appropriation may be used as soon after July 15 as possible.

With the appropriation of $41,000 for interest'in a separate bill there will be suffident money to pay the running expenses of the city without borrowing money from the local banks.

Additional Schoolrooms

Arrangements are being made by the Board of Education for the erection of two additional rooms at the Albright school and three rooms will be added to the High school annex. It is asserted that with the addition of two rooms at the Hawthorne school, two at the Albright and three at the High school annex, the number of rented rooms will be greatly reduced. Members of the board say that the rental for outside rooms is entirely too high and that it will be much cheaper in the end to provide additional accommodations now. As oon as the plans are prepared the board will advertise for bids for the work. It is cossible that some steps may be taken at the next meeting of the board to determine what will be done with the proposition to construct one of the wings of the proposed High school building.

That River Road. Today Mayor Koutsky and a number of members of the council will call upon Herman Kountze in connection with the opening of a road to the river. As stated in The Bee of yesterday, the road through the Kountze property is closed and it is impossible for wagons hauling garbage to reach the river. The mayor hopes to make some arrangements with Mr. Kountze for a road for a term of years or else secure the dedication of a strip of land from the Burlington tracks east to the river. In case suitable arrangements can be made the city in all her diversified interests. They con- will expend about $200 in repairing the road and the bridge, which was recently

Before he opened court Judge Berka and Prosecutor Thomas decorated the court room with the national colors.
