TEDDIE IS ONLY A DEUCE

Nobody Seems to Want Him, but He is Hard to Discard.

MAKES FULL HOUSE FOR HIS POSSESSOR

Age Player Makes a Flush and Then Passes, Leaving the Next Hand Full, but Unable to Ante.

A human life is to be had for the asking. The destiny of a child will be given into the hands of the first who is willing to accept it. Mrs. F. M. Benedict, housekeeper and department commander of a double flat at 1702-04 Webster street, has a baby that she doesn't mother, doesn't know, doesn't want, doesn't have time to care for and doesn't propose to keep.

He was left at the door of Mrs. Annie Hartman, a roomer on the third floor of the corner flat, some time between 9:30 and 10:30 Wednesday night. His apparel was clean and fairly good and he was wrapped in his own tiny cloak, with a new milk bottle and other trappings at his side. There was also a note, which reads:

OMAHA, Neb., Dear Friends—Please be kind to little Teddie, who was born on June 22, 1902. His mother was led astray. She is weakly now and unable to take him to the Child Saving institute on Eighteenth and Ohio, and hopes that you will take him there, for she knows he will have a good home there. Pray oblige a heart-broken mother and have mercy upon little Teddie. God's blessing. Goodby.

Passes with a Flush.

When Mrs. Hartman came home and found this accumulation at her threshold she took inventory and concluded there was nothing in it that she had any use for. Promptly she descended to Mrs. Benedict's office on the first floor and deposited the bundle on a couch, advising that the police be notified. Mrs. Benedict, who already carries a considerable burden of woes, acted on the suggestion. The police, however, replied that with criminals in the cells and newspaper reporters in the office, they had all the trouble they could care for and suggested that the county commissioners were the ones to call on. The commissioners were gone hours before, and Mrs. Benedict spent the night in wrathful parade with the wailing infant in her arms.

Early yesterday she resumed her telephoning. The county commissioners were extremely sorry, but could give no relief. They proposed the Child Saving institute. The Child Saving institute's superintendent reported that a tall and weakly woman with such an infant had called the day before and had been refused, because her story seemed untrue.

Hold Full Hands.

Mrs. Benedict was getting wrathy. A number of young women came in from different parts of the house to "hold" the waif of presidential name, but not to ask permanent possession. All pitied him, but none wanted him. Finally, one mentioned the Salvation Army home at Twenty-fourth and Spaulding. Mrs. Benedict took the child in one hand, a small satchel in the other, and went there.

At 11:30, panting and perspiring, she returned with the diminutive elephant still on her hands. The home is full. Every door seems closed against the little chap whose coming into the world was not of his own volition and whose departure from it seems an early possibility if he does not receive very tender care very soon. Mrs. Benedict hints of a determination to call at the office of the city Board of Health, deposit the child on Clerk Barker's desk and let the latter do the rest of the worrying.

FREE FROM DANISH DRAFT

Nebraska Soldier Starts for His Mother Country as an American Citizen.

Deputy Sheriff William Neve, formerly a captain of Nebraska volunteers, has sent Julius S. Miller on his way to Denmark with a mind free from misgivings. Miller served under him in the Spanish war and later went to the Philippines, where he had a long hike with Lawton and was in nearly every fight of consequence in the entire campaign. Since returning to his home in Omaha he has desired to go to his old Danish birthplace for a three months' visit, but feared he would be pressed into military service there. He had had enough of soldiering and appealed to his old captain, who steered him through the process of naturalization in district court. Now he is an American citizen, immune from the power of the Danish government.

FALLING OFF IN BIRTH RATE

Hundred Less Last Six Months Than for Corresponding Half of 1900.

The secretary of the Board of Health has finished compiling his record of births in Omaha for the first six months of 1902, and the figures, compared with those of the first six months of the four preceding years, show a falling off in the birth rate. There were 100 less births during the last six months than during the corresponding period of 1900. The record also shows a decided excess of male over female births during the first halves of 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901 and 1902. The following figures are taken from the records:

	—1902.—		—1901.—
Births—	Boys.	Girls.	Boys.	Girls.
January	81	53	76	50
February	74	72	71	68
March	64	72	83	86
April	61	57	68	63
May	76	56	73	68
June	72	63	63	60
Totals	428	333	434	435

Total for first half of 1902, 811; total for first half of 1901, 859; excess of boys over girls for 1902, 45; excess of boys over girls for 1901, 9.

	—1900.—		—1899.—
Births—	Boys.	Girls.	Boys.	Girls.
January	83	79	78	71
February	80	61	74	60
March	79	83	71	66
April	81	85	67	71
May	67	65	70	56
June	81	69	71	71
Totals	471	439	481	395

Total for first half of 1900, 910; total for first half of 1899, 876; excess of boys over girls for 1900, 32; excess of boys over girls for 1899, 86.

The record shows that there were 437 boys and 381 girls born during the first six months of 1898, making a total of 818 births for the period. The most prolific six months of the time covered by these figures is the first half of 1900, during which 910 children were born, and the least prolific six months was the first half of 1902, when the total dropped to 811.

RIVER WILL STAY IN BED

It is Healthy and Growing, but Will Not Jump from Its Cradle.

"There is no danger to be anticipated from the Missouri river at this point," said Weatherman Welsh yesterday, "and no damage can result here from the present high water save to those who have encroached upon the river bed. As a matter of fact, the water at 7 o'clock this morning was six feet and a half below the danger line at the Union Pacific bridge, where our observations are taken. Moreover, it was one-tenth of a foot lower than on Wednesday morning at the same time. At Plattsmouth it also lowered one-tenth of a foot in the day, while at Sioux City it fell three-tenths. That does not make a very dangerous showing for this part of the river, from Plattsmouth on up. Anyway, the height which the water has reached here in the last few days is nothing remarkable. We have often had it duplicated in years past and no sensation about it resulted on those occasions. There is no reason for any big stir at this time. Our danger line is eighteen feet above low water mark of 1867, when the river reached the lowest point recorded. We are now eleven feet and a half above this low mark, but every additional inch we get requires far more water than the inch before it."

IMMIGRANT BUREAU REMAINS

Mr. Lomax Tells Why Union Pacific Withdrew from Organization.

FIXING UP ROADBED INTO UNION STATION

Underground Piping Being Put In to Drain Flow from Old Artesian Well Into the Missouri River.

General Passenger Agent E. L. Lomax of the Union Pacific, who has just returned from the east, where he has been for several weeks on official business, brings different reports from the immigration bureau from those which have been going the rounds since the withdrawal of the Union Pacific from that organization. Mr. Lomax emphatically denies the persistent statements that the bureau has collapsed or that it is in any imminent danger of doing so.

"The bureau was composed of about thirty-five representative roads and its strength or durability was not menaced by the withdrawal of the Rock Island and the Union Pacific, notwithstanding they were two of the most important members of the bureau and their withdrawal subtracted material strength. It will continue to do business as it did in the past.

"The Union Pacific will make no special effort to get immigrant business. As a matter of fact we do not anticipate that the bureau will allow us to get much of this sort of traffic since we are out of the organization. Nor is there any special anxiety on our part for this traffic under present conditions. We got out of the bureau because of the enormous expenses imposed by membership in the association and what we considered an unfair division of percentages, and I suppose the same causes actuated the Rock Island, but as to that I do not pretend to speak definitely.

"The immigrant business is not what it was before and when the bureau was organized. After the thirty-five roads formed this association and the traffic was divided among them it made a very trivial part for each, too trifling, in fact, to warrant the payment of the heavy expense imposed upon the members. At least this was our view of the case. The Union Pacific by all odds led in the immigrant traffic before this bureau was established and, while we are not concerned over the business now, there will always be a certain proportion of it that will have to come our way."

Mr. Lomax says both the Great Northern and Northern Pacific are now members of this bureau. For some time after the organization of the association, in fact until recently, the Hill lines were not actually members, although they observed most of the conditions of the contract by some tacit agreement with the other lines and the effect was practically the same as if they had been members. Their actual identification, however, with the bureau gives it some additional strength, as these roads hold the key to the situation in the northwest.

Mr. Lomax will leave in a day or two for the west, making a thorough and extended trip over the Union Pacific system.

No More Landslides.

Conditions along the Union Pacific embankment between the Union station and the river bridge show some improvement. No more serious landslides have occurred and some progress is being made in draining the water from the filling, although no effort has yet been made at filling in the great depression which took out the three sets of tracks.

Underground piping is to be laid so as to connect with the main stream from the old artesian well and carry the water off into the river. Superficial water flumes have already been placed in operation to drain the moisture from the embankment in other places and prevent further collapse. The ground is still very soggy.

While the bottoms near the tracks are pretty well under water and one spur track leading back toward the Thomson-Houston electric plant is submerged in places, rendering it useless for the present, the river has not yet overflowed its banks nor shown any indications of it. In fact, the Missouri is not so unusually high for the amount of rain that has fallen. Its registration yesterday morning was 11.5. The water in the bottoms is from the rains.

Trains More Regular.

Trains are running with more regularity yesterday than for several days. The Rock Island road is still unable to use its tracks west into Omaha, but all serious obstacles will be out of the way, it is said, within a few days, and the road will resume normal operation of all its trains. From the east Rock Island trains are arriving in good shape. The passenger traffic just now is exceptionally heavy at both the Burlington and Union stations.

Burlington to Butte.

The Burlington has changed its northwestern route over the Northern Pacific. Instead of running its trains into Helena, as has been the custom heretofore, it sends them into Butte, with connections with the trains from Helena. Butte being about three times the size of Helena the Burlington figures that its business will be increased to this extent by the change. The change went into effect Sunday.

GOLF STICKS OF SULPHUR

What They Are Using at the Country Club and the Reason Therefor.

A waiter at the Country club has the smallpox. As a consequence the delicious odor of the new mown hay and the sweet perfume of the summer girl have given way to the smoke of the sulphur candle and the scent of formaldehyde. Streaks of copperas now mark the tennis court and the holes of the golf links are filled with germ killers. All festivities have been declared off until Saturday, and those members who have rooms at the club for the summer are spending their time comparing arms.

The trouble broke out Wednesday. J. M. Cudahy was to entertain a number of friends at dinner and a dance. The dining rooms and the ball room had passed from the hands of the florists, and the chef was giving his final instructions to his assistants. The guests were beginning to arrive. A waiter was putting the finishing touches on an already beautifully decorated table. Suddenly and, it is believed, with malice aforethought, the waiter broke out with the smallpox, genuine old-fashioned smallpox.

The news spread with as much rapidity as the bumps on the man's face. There was a hasty exit of all guests who did not room at the place, and the dinner was concluded at the Omaha club and the Millard hotel, the guests arriving at the latter place between 10 and 11 o'clock.

Those who are making the club their home immediately called a physician, and until an early hour of the morning a row of men sat waiting their turn for the prick of the vaccine point. Yesterday it is reported from the club—over the long distance 'phone—that those who are still there have no fears. They are using sulphur candles for golf sticks and are going broke tipping the caddies.

The offending waiter was bundled up by his fellow employes and hustled off to his home, where he is doing well.

SWIGERT NO LONGER UMPIRE

President Sexton Removes Young Man Who Had So Much Trouble.

J. Ross Swigert, who has been umpiring the games in Omaha during this series at home, was dismissed by President Sexton yesterday morning. Swigert has been in the service of the Western league since July 4, when he began his career at Milwaukee in the Denver series there. Swigert had heaps of trouble in Milwaukee, but he ended by being boss of the games, anyway, and one day's work cost teams and players $135 there, as much as all the salaries for the day.

In Omaha Swigert's troubles continued, for the Denver team came here with him, and the westerners kept at him fiercely. The trouble which ended in the arrest of Manager Parke Wilson of the Denver team crowned Swigert's difficulties.

Swigert was appointed to take the place of Bobby Cox, who resigned to go with the Eastern league as an umpire. Cox also had his troubles and was glad to seek a less heated base ball atmosphere.

CASING A WATCH.

How Ordinary Watch Works May Be Made More Efficient and How Finer Ones May Be Preserved.

Ordinary watch works may generally be made effective timekeepers by careful and strong casing. The finest grades of watch works require very strong casing to protect their delicate mechanism. The best of all cases for either class is the Jas. Boss Stiffened Gold Watch Case.

This is a gold case stiffened in the center with a plate of hard metal to prevent it getting thin and weak and bending down on the works, as a gold case does after a few years' wear.

The outside plate of gold is very heavy, much more than is ever worn from a solid gold case and much more than can be worn off in a third of a century's hard service. In fact this outside plate of gold is a quarter of an inch thick when the process of rolling down commences. At any rate, the Jas. Boss case is guaranteed twenty-five years, and none was ever known to wear out.

The styles of the Jas. Boss case are very elegant—the same as the finest solid gold cases—beautifully hand carved, superbly finished—very thin or very massive, as fancy may dictate—and in all sizes, for men and women's wear. The price is much lower than that asked for a solid gold case—the reason is that the Jas. Boss case saves you paying for gold that is never seen and never used.

Jewelers everywhere keep a full stock of these elegant cases—they have sold more than 7,000,000 of them in the last 35 years. Ask your dealer to see them, or for the book showing why a Jas. Boss Stiffened Gold Case is better than a solid gold case, write to the Keystone Watch Case Company, Philadelphia.

"My little boy took the croup one night," says F. D. Reynolds of Mansfield, O., "and grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house. I thought he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure relieved and sent him to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup." One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts at once. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, asthma and bronchitis.

COLORED PEOPLE ON PARADE

Knights and Daughters of Tabor Will Perambulate with Paraphernalia.

THEIR ELEVENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION

Chief Grand Orator Traces the History of the Order from the Time of the Taborian Knights of Old.

Between 10 and 11 o'clock this morning the principal thoroughfares of this municipality are to be perambulated by some hundreds of those colored people who hold membership in the International Order of Twelve, Knights and Daughters of Tabor, Grand Temple and Tabernacle of Kansas and Nebraska jurisdiction.

This processional divertisement is to be the salutary feature of the terminating day of the eleventh annual session, which enjoyed inception at St. John's African Methodist Episcopal church, Eighteenth and Webster streets, last Tuesday.

Excepting Wednesday evening, when Rev. Allen Garner of Coffeyville, Kan., chief grand orator, delivered a public address tracing the history of the order from the time of the old Taborian knighthood among the Medes and Persians, 1,250 years before the coming of Christ, and excepting the memorial services from 11 to 12 oclock yesterday, the sessions are all secret.

Line of March.

The parade today will formulate at Eighteenth and Webster streets, move east from Eighteenth to Sixteenth, south on Sixteenth to Douglas, east on Douglas to Twelfth, south on Twelfth to Farnam, west on Farnam to Eighteenth, south on Eighteenth to Harney, east on Harney to Sixteenth and south on Sixteenth to Leavenworth, where the cohorts will be disintegrated that the participants may take the motor conveyances to Hibbeler's park and there regale themselves with innocent frivolities such as strength contests and pedestrian rivalries, in which the feminine element will assist. Some visiting reverends, the mayor of Omaha and James H. Van Dusen of South Omaha are advertised as the speakers of the day. At night officers will be installed.

If the weather be propitious it is intended that the procession shall incorporate not only the band, the uniform rank knights and the Palatine Guards of Omaha, in full regalia, but the grand officers and delegates in barouches.

Yesterday morning there were in attendance about 150 delegates from abroad and today an excursion is expected from Kansas City, St. Joseph, Atchison and Lincoln. The adornment of the church auditorium has been enhanced with the elaborate paraphernalia of the order and in each corner is the banner of the order, on which appears the legend: "In Solo Deo Salus. 333—777—999—444."

Prospective Regime is Designated.

Late yesterday afternoon the officers of the grand temple and tabernacle were elected. They are: Sir Frank Wilson, Kansas City, Kan., chief grand mentor; Daughter Emma Gaines, Topeka, chief grand preceptress; Sir D. L. Taylor, Salina, vice grand mentor; Daughter Bessie Hall, Fort Scott, vice grand preceptress; Sir A. W. Hopkins, Leavenworth, chief grand scribe; Daughter Sarah Williams, Lincoln, chief grand recorder; Sir William Core, Topeka, chief grand treasurer; Sir G. C. Tucker, Omaha, grand presiding prince; Daughter Eliza Scott, Leavenworth, grand queen mother; Sir Allen Gainer, Coffeyville, Kan., chief grand orator; Daughter Hattie Montgomery, Atchison, chief grand priestess; Daughter Maggie Mack, Kansas City, Kan., grand inner sentinel These will be installed publicly at the park tonight.

At the entertainment and reception at Washington hall last night there was given a program which consisted principally of musical numbers and addresses by Chief Grand Mentor Frank Wilson of Topeka and Rev. J. W. Cluke of Omaha.

Valuable Time Saved.

Slight injuries often disable a man and cause several days' loss of time, and when blood poison develops, sometimes result in the loss of a hand or limb. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is an antiseptic liniment. When applied to cuts, bruises and burns it causes them to heal quickly and without maturation, and prevents any danger of blood poison.
