

JAMES NEW GOLF CHAMPION

Chicago Player Downs Yale Man in Forenoon and Afternoon.

GOLFERS ARE DRENCHED IN THE RAIN

Byers Plays Well in the Beginning, but Young Pittsburger Proves to Be Unreliable on the Greens.

GLENVIEW GOLF COURSE, Ill., July 19.—Louis N. James of Glenview, a 19-year-old boy, today won the highest golf honors that can come to an amateur in the United States by defeating Eben M. Byers of the Allegheny Golf club of Pittsburgh, Pa., in the final of the annual championship tournament. His victory was decisive, as shown both by the medal scores and the hole play. He finished four up and two to play, with a spectacular putt of at least ten yards over the uneven, water-soaked surface of the seventh green, and even before he had finished his ball out of the cup he was grabbed by his wildly cheering clubmates and hoisted on their shoulders.

James' medal score was, morning, out 45, in 39; afternoon, out 44, in 31, for seven holes. Byers was, morning, out 42, in 45; afternoon, out 44, in 32, for seven holes.

The young champion won his laurels on the greens. Both drove beautifully all day. Occasionally a ball would go wrong, but this was due more to the slippery condition of the tees than to faulty form. There was little to choose in this respect, but when James used his cleft, his midiron or his putter, his shots were so true as to excite enthusiastic comment from "Willie" Smith, Auchterlone, Leslie and other veteran professionals, who gained the name of the sand dunes of Scotland. Time and again he laid long approach pitches dead for the hole and only once or twice during the long, trying contest did he fail to negotiate his putts. Tall and slender, with the fragile limbs of an overgrown boy, he used every ounce of his weight to the best advantage in his drives and brasses and seldom failed to cover 200 yards from the tee.

Where Byers Lost.

Byers lost the game on the greens. At Yale and in the east the young Pittsburger gained the reputation of being unreliable in his short game, unstable at times, and without fully lacking in accuracy at others. Today was his off day. Three times he had short putts to win the hole, and twice, had he putted down from short distances, the hole would have been halved. In every instance he failed. He missed the cup four times, but as former champion Travis said when Byers defeated him, "it is not what a man ought to do at golf, but what he does, that counts," and in the delicate play on the greens Byers was found wanting.

Probably a golf championship was never decided under such unfavorable conditions. Part of the morning play was during a rainstorm that was almost a deluge. Occasionally the rain would let up a little. Then it would let down a great deal more, and great pools of water formed on the already thoroughly soaked course. The play was entirely over the first nine holes of the eighteen-hole course, several of the greens of the last nine being entirely under water.

The gallery that followed the two contestants was probably the largest that ever witnessed a golf game in this country. Undeterred by the storm, society turned out in full force, and fully 1,000 golfers, a third of them women, trudged through the driving rain behind the players.

Competed to Drain Course.

A large body of workmen were busy early this morning working on the first nine holes of the course, draining off the casual water of the greens and putting the course in as good condition as possible, but last night's heavy rain had so thoroughly soaked the already sodden ground that their efforts were of little avail.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions, a fair-sized gallery was present when play was called and followed the play closely.

James was 3 up at the end of the morning play. The medal score:

The first eighteen holes, match play, for the amateur golf championship between E.

M. Byers of Pittsburgh and Louis James of the Glenview club resulted two up for the young Chicago golfer. Starting out unsteadily, James came into his true form on the in-journey and now overcame a lead of two holes which Byers had secured on the out-journey, but put the Pittsburger two to the back. James' play during the latter part of the contest was almost perfect golf, as his medal score of thirty-nine, three strokes under bogey, shows. He shows marked superiority in his short approach and his work on the greens, winning several holes by better than par work with his irons. Byers was rather unsteady on the greens. He missed several putts that he should have negotiated and also badly topped one of his drives. This was due, however, to his foot slipping on the soft tee.

Part of the game was played in a hard rainstorm that quickly filled the course with miniature lakes and even gathered on the greens, both players using lofting irons several times where a putter was the conventional club. Several hundred golf enthusiasts waded over the course behind the players, and when the second round began a gallery as large as that seen on the opening day followed the contest in the final struggle for golf supremacy.

The medal score for the afternoon play:

Byers: Out 42, in 45 ... 87
James: Out 44, in 31 ... 75

SUES IN NAME OF THE FATHER

Yeiser Takes New Tack in Matter of Clancy Case Against Barker Hotel.

John O. Yeiser has taken another tack in the litigation growing out of the accidental shooting of the Clancy boy by a porter at the Barker hotel January 15 last. He now sues George S. Barker, Administrator William E. Rrdick and the Barker company for damages for the father in the sum of $32,857.

In federal court he sued for $50,000 damages for the boy and Judge McPherson took the case from the jury because, he held, the porter was not in the discharge of his duties. This case is appealed to the court of appeals and Yeiser will put in the interval by suing the same defendants at the father, M. F. Clancy, in district court, his petition relating that the porter was in the discharge of his duties because Sam Bauman, a clerk, had instructed him particularly to keep the boy out of that particular room.

In his petition Clancy relates that the bullet destroyed the boy's left eye and two convulsions of the brain and that therefore he (the father) is entitled to $15,000 for loss of the child's society and services, $1,000 for mental strain and the dread and fear of the child becoming mentally deranged; $5,000 for the extraordinary education that it will be necessary to give the child; $1,500 for the loss of his wife's society while he was touring with a burlesque show and she was here attending the boy; $1,500 for doctor's bill, $90 hospital bill, $75 drug bill, $150 hotel bill and $225 for professional time sacrificed by being absent from the theater.

MUSICAL FESTIVAL TICKETS

Coupon Books Now Ready and Committees Named to Push the Sale.

The active work of preparing for Omaha's third annual musical festival has commenced, and the committee in charge is confident that it will surpass the two previous festivals. Coupon ticket books are now being sold. Each book contains twenty tickets and is sold for $5, making the price of admission 25 cents. After the festival begins the price of single admission tickets will be advanced to 35 cents. There are no conditions whatever attached to the coupon tickets—a book can be used by one person or by twenty, and the tickets will be good at any concert.

These committees will have charge of the sale of ticket books: Lawyers and office buildings—T. J. Mahoney, W. A. De Bord, M. F. Funkhouser, Charles E. Ay, F. Campbell; retailers, C. G. Pearson, G. W. Hoobler, J. A. Johnson, O. D. Kiplinger, R. C. Peters, Johnnie district, J. F. Carpenter, A. C. Smith, W. S. Wright, C. H. Pickett; manufacturers, J. R. Lehmer, J. A. Sunderland, James L. Paxton, D. J. O'Brien; banks, F. H. Davis, F. T. Hamilton, Alfred Millard. Elmer's Royal Italian band is the one engaged for the festival.

MEN CONFIDENT OF WINNING

Union Pacific Blacksmiths Insist that the Company Will Submit.

GENERAL PRESIDENT SLOCUM'S OPINION

Head of Blacksmiths' Union Says the Fight is as Good as Won and that Piecework Will Be Abandoned.

"Our fight is as good as won; it's only a question of a few days until the Union Pacific will announce its readiness to settle this strike," said John Slocum, general president and organizer of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, last night, in discussing the strike situation.

Mr. Slocum, whose home is in Moline, Ill., spent Saturday in Omaha consulting with blacksmiths who are on a strike and others engaged in the fight with the Union Pacific. He came up from Kansas City and St. Louis, where satisfactory adjustments have been made on the Missouri Pacific lines whereby the blacksmiths get a general increase in wages of 10 per cent.

"The company simply cannot get skilled men in its shops, for they are not to be had anywhere in this country and the officials of the Union Pacific know it as well as better than anybody else. I will guarantee that of the several hundred men they claim to have at work in their Omaha shops and other shops over the system, there is not a single thorough and competent workman," he continued.

Why He Feels Confident.

"I know what I am talking about when I say that skilled blacksmiths, machinists and boiler-makers are not to be had, for I have had orders myself since this strike began for hundreds of blacksmiths and could not fill them, and I know that the other crafts are in similar conditions. I could place 200 blacksmiths today if I could get them. Where would you go to get skilled blacksmiths for a railroad shop? You can't get them out of ordinary blacksmith shops. There is a vast difference between a railroad blacksmith and any other."

"We have but one demand, you might say, and that is that the company must not introduce piecework. This is one thing the blacksmiths will never submit to. Piecework is out of the question with us and the Union Pacific Railroad company cannot force it upon us. We could not earn living wages under that system, for reductions in the pieces of work would be made whenever the company saw that men were making more than ordinary wages. I'll warrant that they have not a man in their employ now who could earn a decent day's wages under the piecework system."

"They may say what they please, but this piecework proposition is wrong from first to last and it will be proven so before long. The strike will be settled soon and settled in favor of the strikers. The company cannot get skilled men and it cannot run its shops without skilled men. That is the whole matter in a nutshell."

Efforts for Harmony.

Mr. Slocum said he found upon his arrival here that the blacksmiths, boiler-makers and machinists are not working in strictest harmony. The exercises being planned for July 25 and 26 were to be for the financial benefit of helpers of the machinists, who are not thoroughly organized and the blacksmiths helpers, who also are not thoroughly organized, were to get nothing out of the fund, although they were asked to contribute. He set a movement on foot looking to the co-operation of all interests and the plan will be acted on today by the other unions at a meeting at Labor Temple.

Mr. Slocum goes west, visiting all the towns where there are Union Pacific shops. On his return to Omaha within a week or so he will see an interview with President Burt. Only at Omaha and Armstrong are the blacksmiths out. At none of the other places have they been asked to accept the piecework.

The Omaha blacksmiths will hold a meeting this morning at 9 o'clock in their hall at Sixteenth and Cumming streets. They were addressed Saturday at their hall by President Slocum.

What the Machinists Say.

The machinists claimed Saturday night that thirteen nonunion men had left the Union Pacific Omaha shops during the day and that seven had gone out at Cheyenne. S. H. Grace insists that no union men have gone out of Omaha to accept work in

Passed Gravel Stone as Large as a Pea

Roversford, Pa., April 19th, 1902. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—I had been a sufferer from kidney trouble for about 8 years with pain in side, back and head, about 4 or 5 months ago I commenced to try a bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. To my surprise I experienced a decided relief before I had taken half of the bottle, and one morning passed a gravel stone as large as a pea, which I still have in my possession and will be pleased to show to any one who doubts the efficacy of this wonderful remedy. One month ago, finding some of the old symptoms returning I purchased a 50c bottle of Swamp-Root at Dr. Morley's Drug Store, and before I had taken one-fourth of it I found in the vessel which I had voided during the night, a teaspoonful of small gravel stones, and said, the passing of which was immediately followed by relief.

JESSE S. BUTTERFIELD.

I am well acquainted with Mr. Butterfield and know that the above statement is true in every particular.

DR. MOREY, Druggist.

For a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by mail free, write Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

any other shop. He says all these men are accounted for by checking them up in allotting their strike benefits and that if any had gone he would become aware of it in this way. This statement is made by Mr. Grace in contradiction of a statement from Union Pacific headquarters that several union men have applied for work and been sent out to other shops and more will be sent.

Hobos Are Bothersome.

Strikers are beginning to feel the necessity of guarding against impostors from the "Knights of Rest" fraternity. Of late gentlemen of leisure have drifted into the city somewhat numerous and found their way to Labor Temple, where they represent themselves as mechanics and seek alms of the strikers and in many cases get it. Saturday morning during a meeting at Labor Temple a stranger carrying his baggage in a small knapsack snatched into the hall and stood in the rear for some time until asked to step forward and identify himself. He then stepped forward, but refused to disclose his identity. The strikers became suspicious and as some of them claimed to have seen the gentleman at the shops recently his ejection was decided upon. Later he was taken into custody and is now at the police station. There he gave his name as W. H. Livingston. It is not believed that the man had any mission in the hall other than to ingratiate himself into the good graces of the strikers, although a different motive has been assigned to him by some of the strikers, who insist that he had been sent to obtain information.

Forty New Workmen.

Forty men, the largest single importation of nonunion workmen made by the Union Pacific into Omaha since the strike began, arrived yesterday morning from St. Paul and Minneapolis. They were brought across the Missouri river bridge on a regular passenger train from the north and sent down into the yards to the shops by means of a switch engine without being molested. Strikers, however, had anticipated this movement and had pickets in the yards to prevent the men if possible from going in. The car was under the protection of railroad guards and reached its destination in safety, with all its crew aboard.

Strikers assert that the company's records showing forty men on this train are incorrect and that just half the number came in. Furthermore the strikers say that ten of those who have been at work in the shops last Saturday and joined the union forces. S. H. Grace, the machinists' leader, received a letter yesterday from Denver stating that a nonunion man has sat in his lot with the strikers there. He also says that a delegate from the union at Armstrong has been dispatched to Ellis and other Kansas towns with a view of breaking the ranks of the men at work in the various shops. Officials of the company say the force at Armstrong being complete and matters having settled down to a normal basis, the company has released its force of guards there.

An official of the road says that numerous Omaha strikers have applied for work in other towns on the system during the last few days and that several were sent out and more may be thus accommodated. This is regarded as a significant break in the union ranks. The strikers refuse to admit that any of their number have gone to work in Omaha or other places, and more than that, that none will until all do.

TO INVESTIGATE THE ENGINEER

County Commissioners Have Another Poor Farm Case to Look Into.

Charles Rustin, engineer at the county hospital, is to be "investigated" by a committee of the county commissioners. At Saturday's meeting of the board Harte moved that such step be taken because City Auditor Rustin had called attention to the fact that Rustin had been absent some time from the hospital, leaving a freeman, who is unlicensed as an engineer, to do his work.

Connelly was prompt to second this motion. He gave the opportunity to say that Rustin had been disconcerted, had been buying supplies without consulting Superintendent Oest and had been otherwise offensive. The motion carried, and if the committee reports against Rustin he is to be re-elected and another man.

The board has appointed William Poppleton, Martin Quinn, Ed Keefe, L. Doherty, Dan Gracov, W. H. Olmstead, Henry Ludington, John Hill and James Hill to run the county's side-graders, furnishing their own horses, for $12 per day. An inquiry from O'Keefe elicited the information that this is $2 per day more than was paid last year, but he was the only one who voted against it.

The board has been notified by Allen T. Gow that he withdraws, without prejudice, his claim for $1,400 for services as referee in the several cases of Moore against the County of Douglas. O'Keefe wished the notice referred to the county attorney, fearing "there might be some catch in it," but Mr. Gow says it is merely the result of his being tired of waiting for his money. He has sold the claim to W. H. DeFrance.

PIONEER A. D. JONES IS DYING

Unconscious Since Saturday Morning, with No Hope for His Recovery.

As the result of a fall Monday afternoon A. D. Jones, a pioneer citizen of Omaha and the man who made the original survey of the townsite, lies at the point of death at his home on Wirt street.

Mr. Jones attempted to walk up stairs and fell from a step, breaking his shoulder blade. Since Saturday morning he has been unconscious and the attending physicians give no hope for his recovery.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Saloonmen Propose to Keep Open the Back Doors on Sunday.

ONLY REGULAR POLICE WILL BE ON DUTY

Mayor Will Make No Special Effort to Enforce His Sunday Closing Orders from Anti-Saloon League.

Some of the South Omaha saloon keepers propose to keep their places of business open today.

It appears that legal advice has been obtained and the opinion is that the mayor's sweeping closing order cannot be legally enforced unless all of the provisions of the Slocum law are included. What the liquor dealers propose to do today is to clean and lock their front doors and draw the shades. The rear doors will be open for those who care to enter. It is understood that an agreement among those in the combine is to the effect that no minors will be permitted to enter, neither will beer in cans be sold to anyone. Mayor Keutsky when asked about this matter admitted that he had heard rumors to this effect, but said that such action is without his sanction. "I shall do all I can with the force at my command to carry out my Sunday closing order," said the mayor. "I shall not, however, ask the night force to do double duty, as I did a week ago; neither shall I swear in any special policemen, as I do not consider the increased expense to the taxpayers warranted. If any of the members of the Anti-Saloon league desire to have a saloon keeper arrested for violating the closing order I shall direct him to apply to the police judge on Monday morning and swear to a complaint."

Some of the members of the Anti-Saloon league have applied to the mayor, asking that they be sworn in as special policemen for the day, in order that they might watch the saloons to better advantage. The mayor declined to do this.

Wins Important Suit.

In the test case of the C. P. Adams company to determine whether or not the peddlers' ordinance of the city is valid, Judge Estelle has decided that the ordinance is constitutional and that arrests made under it are legal. Some time ago one of the Adams company's agents was arrested for peddling in South Omaha without a license. Before the day of trial was reached a writ of habeas corpus was served upon the chief of police, ordering him to produce the defendant before the district court and show the legality of the ordinance under which the arrest was made. For this reason the prosecution in the police court has been abandoned. The habeas corpus case was continued from time to time and was not finally brought up for final hearing until last Thursday. It was then argued all day by the attorneys for the different parties and Judge Estelle took the case under advisement until yesterday morning.

This case has the effect, it is claimed, of legalizing all of the license tax ordinances of the city, around which there has been so much doubt for a long time. Bank Statements.

In compliance with a request from the comptroller of the United States treasury, the three national banks doing business in South Omaha issued statements as to their condition at the close of business on July 15. These statements show that on the date mentioned the total deposits in the three banks amounted to $4,585,525.25. Loans to the amount of $1,700,579.25 are reported. The surplus and undivided profits amount to $429,473.04. Cash on hand and sight exchange, $2,849,672.15. The last call from the comptroller was made on April 30, 1902. Bankers say that the showing made at this call is remarkable for this season of the year and tends to show a steady increase in business.

Twentieth Street Open.

Twentieth street through Syndicate park is now open, the grading having been completed a day or two ago. This street can now be traversed from Omaha to Albright. The gate at the north end of the park has not been opened yet, but it is expected that it will be today.

Mr. Her has promised to come down today and inspect the grading and if the work is satisfactory it is expected that he will at once open the gate and the controversy about a roadway through the park will be at an end.
