

FIGHT ON MANNING THE SHOPS

Contest Between Union Pacific and Strikers Centers on Penitentiaries.

ALL BLACKSMITHS LIKELY TO GO OUT

Company Determined on Piece System and Men Resolved Against It—New Employers Come and Go.

The contest between the Union Pacific and the strikers seems now to center chiefly upon the manning of the shops. The company continues to import nonunion workmen with apparently little effort, and the strikers are devoting their time largely to reducing these forces after they arrive.

Strikers asserted also last night that during the eleven nonunion men had left the shops at Cheyenne. They claim to be making inroads on the company's forces in this way each day, but officials of the Union Pacific invariably contradict these statements and say their forces in all the shops are daily increasing.

President John Slocum of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, who is still in the city, expects to confer with President Burd and Superintendent McKee of the Union Pacific today if possible regarding certain interests of the blacksmiths.

All Blacksmiths May Quit.

It may be only a question of time until all the blacksmiths in the Union Pacific shops go out on a strike, that is, if the company will not agree to a new system of manning the shops.

But things are very liable to undergo a vital change soon, as an official of the company says it is only a question of time until the Union Pacific will announce a general enforcement of the piecework system, and the blacksmiths have already sworn their determination never to accept piecework.

"Piecework has been decided upon by this company, and, as a matter of fact, it is to become general and not apply to part of our shops only," said an official yesterday morning.

Officials vehemently deny the reports of desertions in the strike yesterday. "We are having no trouble at all in getting all the men we want," said an official of the company.

New Men Come and Go.

The importation by the Union Pacific of thirty-one new men from the east and eleven from the south, has caused a desertion of ten and the alleged intention of practically the entire number to desert upon their arrival in Cheyenne, to which point the men are destined.

"We have had no trouble at all in getting all the men we want," said an official of the company. "We have another large number under employment in Chicago and they will be here in due time. Why, don't you know we could hire enough foremen to do all our work," he said jokingly.

"We also say that these reports about our attempt or intention to introduce the contract system into our shops are entirely incorrect. There is simply nothing in them."

The 8 Hour Day

Which the working man has fought for and succeeded in obtaining is something the wife has no share in. Her day begins before his and ends long after it, as a rule, and many a night her rest is broken by the baby's fretfulness.

The healthiest woman in the world is one who has a large number of good places open to competent foremen and likewise have a number of applications from very capable and reputable men who have served in these capacities for such roads as the Burlington and many eastern lines.

"We have conducted no strike arrangements with any such as yet, but negotiations are pending in many cases and it is not at all improbable that within a few days we will have several excellent shop foremen at our disposal."
