TWO POLICEMEN ARE MADE DEFENDANTS

Officers Who Arrested Nonunion Men on Charge of Vagrancy Will Be Sued with Their Bondsmen for Damages.

The fight between the Union Pacific and the strikers has at last extended, incidentally, to the courts and a legal skirmish of considerable interest is promised. The Union Pacific has instituted action against two policemen, Michael McCarthy and William T. Devereese, who arrested and placed in jail S. F. Sweeney and Henry J. O'Kane, two nonunion men employed in the Union Pacific's shops at Council Bluffs, on charges of vagrancy and suspicious characters. The officers' bondsmen are named, including as defendants.

"These men, Sweeney and O'Kane, had come over from Council Bluffs to Omaha to send some money home to their wives, and returning they were overtaken by these officers at this end of the Council Bluffs bridge and arrested. The officers asked them their business and they told them they were at work for the Union Pacific and explained their mission," said Judge Judge Baldwin of the legal department of

'What have you to show that you are workingmen? said the policemen, and the men showed them their hands and offered to take them to the Union Pacific headquarters and prove their statement by us, but this was not allowed them. The officers incisted that they were vagrants and took them to the station, where they were confined in cells. That was 2:30 Thursday afternoon and they were kept there without anything to eat until Friday morning, when Men Had Money. "Prosecuting Attorney Thomas in looking over the morning's grist, discovered the cases against these men and exclaimed that they were not vagrants and should not be locked up, for on their arrest one of them produced a gold watch and $2.38 in cash, they were released.

Now, we mean to prosecute these policemen, their bondsmen and the captain to the full extent of the law and see that these men get their rights."

and the other had $1.65 in money.

This was the statement made by Judge Baldwin to a reporter for The Bee. The papers he placed in the hands of Mr. Thomas and they were filed at once, suit to be proceeded with without delay. Judge Baldwin says attorneys will be employed to defend the nonunion men and the case will be carried to the ultimate end of law.

But the case of Messrs, Sweeney and O'Kane does not end here. After their release from fall they went to the Union Pacific headquarters to get money to pay their attorney fees and get something to eat. What follows was described by Judge Baldwin and Superintendent McKeen and John C. Vizzard, assistant special agent of the Union Pacific:

The men were attacked between Ninth and Tenth on Farnam by four strikers-W. W. Richelieu, F. R. Scoles, H. E. Possoth and W. A. Noble. Sweeney being a very large man was allowed to make his escape from the assailants and his diminutive companton, O'Kane, was pounced upon, knocked down twice and soundly beaten. These facts are all perfectly well known to the railroad officials, and the guilty parties will be dealt with as they should be. These men, Sweeney and O'Kane, are intelligent serve and will get protection that the law entitles them to."

Judge Baldwin made this statement in "These men who have left our employ had a perfect right to strike. We do not deny them that privilege, and they have a perfect right also to win this strike if they can by peaceable means, but they have no right to resort to violence, and when they attempt to win their fight by such tactics the law must call a halt. It is an admission of weakness to resort to violence and they profess to be, why is it that they feel the necessity of making brutal attacks

"Now, while the shopmen had the right to strike, on the other hand, the men who took their places had a right to go to work and they must be protected in the exercise of that right and we mean to see that they are protected. These men tell us that they wanted to go to work; that they were men of families and needed the work, and we had a right to employ them. There are two sides to this question and one side is just as grave as the other. The strikers who are guilty of violent conduct are men acing not only the safety of the men they threaten and attack, but their own interests, for they lose public sympathy and respect the moment they take up such methods as these. "The strikers who surrounded these two policemen and egged on the arrest of these two men precipitated a very bad movement, one which may result badly indeed for them and all parties concerned."

Strikers Deny Accusations. The strikers deny the accusation against them and say that some of them were not within thirty-five feet of the men claimed to have been assaulted,

"Aside from making this denial we do not care to discuss the matter," said W. W. Richelieu, "but we are not worrying over the matter at all. We will be in po lice court at the proper time and will be prepared to meet the issue."

Strikers last night asserted that eix nonunion men had left the Omaha shops during the evening. Except for an executive meeting of the machinists the strikers vere not doing anything last night. The charges made by the Union Pacific officials against the four men accused of assault created considerable comment, the general tener of which indicated the disapproval by the strikers as a majority of violent

STRIKE REACHES THE COURTS cine officials yesterday morning. Superin tendent McKeen said that another party of thirty or thirty-five nonunion men had been imported and gone to work in the Omaha shops. The officials declare that steady and unbroken progress is being made by them and that they are gradually subduing the strikers in their fight.

Information comes from Sidney that the Union Pacific shop force there is largely increased and that the men are working with no fear or danger of being molested, as public sympathy is generally on the side of the railroad. Since that shop and round house, which was closed down over a year ago by the company, has been reopened, it is said that sentiment has gradually drifted toward the company until now it is almost unanimous on that side. In the round house and machine shop together there are from fifty to seventy-five men, including machinists, five setters, boilermakers and handy men, according to the company's figures. Regarding a rumor that the blacksmiths had importuned the Union Pacific officials to withdraw the order of piecework and allow them to return to work, this statement is made:

We did not ask the officials of the Union Pacific company to take us back to work or to withdraw the plecework order and we would return to work, nor did we make any other overture for surrender. We are against plecework first and last, and want to see the company recede from its determination to enforce that system in its shops, but we would not go back to work even if the order was withdrawn unless our entire force was reinstated and our full demands recognized and granted.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Sunday Closing of Saloons Comes in for Further Heated Debate.

MAYOR MAY RECEIVE PETITION TODAY

Many Residents Want Orders Modified So as to Permit of Side or Rear Entrances Being Left Open.

Considerable interest is being manifest in the presenting of a petition to the mayor asking that he rescind his Sunday saloon closing order. A couple of dozen petitions have been in circulation all over the city during the week and hundreds of signatures have been obtained.

It is understood that those who have the matter in charge intend to present the petitions to the mayor sometime this afternoon or tonight, and urge at the same time that the saloons be allowed to keep the rear doors open on Sunday. The report has gone out that the mayor practically agreed that if a petition containing 5,000 names was presented to him he would be willing to permit the rear doors of sa-loons to be open. Some of the liquor dealers who have large investments and the brewerles are getting decidedly warm about the action of the mayor and all kinds of rumors are flying about.

A committee of the Anti-Saloon league will, it is reported, wait upon the mayor today and urge him to stand his ground and enforce the order he has issued. five liquor dealers who were arrested last Sunday will have a hearing in police court on Wednesday, July 30, unless a continuance is granted. In case a fine is imposed the cases will be appealed to the district

More Littertion.

Yesterday another step was taken in the Max Rosenthal solicitors case. About noon Deputy Sheriff Roach served Chief of Police Briggs with habeas corpus proceedings issued by Judge Lee Estelle. The hearing will be held today. Rosenthal was fined $20 and costs for violating the solicitors' ordinance, and as he neither paid the fine or appealed the case in the time allowed him by Judge King, he was again brought into court to explain., Mr. Rosenthal's attorney announced to the court that be proposed to procure the release of his client on habeas corpus, and so the court permitted Rosenthal to go about his bustness. The proceedings will doubtless bring up the question of the validity of the ordinance, as Rosenthal proposes to fight the case and endeavor to find some flaw in the ordinance.

McCleary Case Settled. Yesterday J. M. Kenney withdrew his omplaint against W. B. McCleary, recorder Workmen, and immediately afterward Mc-Cleary, who had been detained at police headquarters for a couple of days, was given his liberty. Chief Briggs says that the complaint was withdrawn.

DOOLEY'S BLUFF COSTS TEN Man Who Flourished a Revolver is Fined After Pleading Guilty in Police Court.

Charles Dooley, who was arrested Thursday morning, charged with carrying concealed weapons, and who claimed to be a guard in the employ of the Union Pacific Railroad company, was fined $10 and costs in police court. The revolver which was taken from Dooley was held at the police station at the request of William Canada, chief of the secret service of the railroad company. Several strikers were on hand to testify against Dooley and said that he flashed the revolver on several occasions and threatened to shoot. He pleaded guilty, but told the court that he had been threatened and that was the reason he carried the revolver. It is said he was recently discharged by the railroad company.

HOPE FOR HUSBANDS.

An Iowa Woman Required by Cour to Pay Alimony.

Judge Sherwin of the supreme court of Iowa, recently decided that a wife may be required to pay her husband alimony on securing a divorce from him for his cruel treatment. The case is that of McDonald against McDonald, 90 N. W. R. 603 (In.) This wife owned a farm of 200 acres, worth $30 an acre. She had accumulated this property as the result of her own work and management, practically unaided by her husband. There remained a mortgage of private monopoly as he hated a monarchy. $1,600 unpaid. The husband drew a pension of $360 a year, but had not further income and was unable to work. He sought the for camp No. 227, Ancient Order of United divorce for her alleged misconduct, but the woman was exoperated by the trial judge, W. N. Treichler, and was granted a divorce because of her husband's cruel treatment of her. She was required to pay $1,500. McCleary raised enough money to settle alimony to her husband, which was afterwith the lodge and as soon as this was done | ward reduced to $750 by the supreme court on appeal.

From this platform Mr. Bryan and Senator Carmack addressed an audience of at least 5:000, BATH, Me., July 25 .- William J. Bryan and his party reached here at noon. No arrangements had been made for a reception here, but a crowd of 1,000 assembled at the station. Mr. Bryan addressed them briefly and in his speech feelingly alluded to the late Arthur Sewall, who was the vice presidential candidate in 1896 on the ticket with Mr. Bryan. A handsome bouquet of pinks was sent to Mrs. Sewail, the widow of Arthur Sewall, by Mr. Bryan. Senator Carmack also spoke briefly.

Mr. Bryan discussed taxation, the money question, trusts and imperialism. He raised as a measure for needed reform in taxation a tariff for revenue only and an income tax. He said that the money issue was by no means dead and that he hated a Taking up the question of imperialism he snid:

In defense of our national policy three reasons are urged:
First. There is money in it. Those who urge this should show that it will pay. I would not put human life and blood against all the trade of the Orient.
Second. That we are in it by God's will, God never told us to go to the Philippines to make a war of conquest.
Third. That we are in it because we cannot get out of it. I denounce a doctrine whereby a nation or man can go so far as to be unable to retrace his step. We had no business to make a war in the Philippines, as there was no occasion for war. Had we treated the Pilipinos as we did the Cubans there would have been no war. I want the same moral victory in the Philippines as in Cuba.

In his address he referred to the leading issues which the voters of Maine should consider between now and election day. He said that Congressman Littlefield, thinking that the republican party had done wrong, along with Congressman McCall of Massachusetts, had voted against him on party measures.

Mr. McKinley's last speech, he said, was a confession that the high tariff must be lowered.

Mr. Bryan said he was glad to come to Maine because the democrats of this state are not afraid to stand up for the Kansas City platform and let the whole world know that they are willing to abide by the principles of that platform. He then went into a discussion of the questions which he regarded as important. He spoke against the gold standard and charged that that system of finance was created by the republican party while it was committed to the doctrine of international bimetalliam.

MOTHERS MUST GUIDE

Should Watch the Physical Development of Their Daughters. Earnest Words From Mrs. Pinkham to Mothers.

Every mother possesses information of vital value to her young daughter. That daughter is a precious legacy, and the responsibility for her future is largely in the hands of the mother. The mysterious change that develops the thoughtless girl into the thoughtful woman should find the mother on the watch day and night. As she cares for the physical well-being of her daughter, so will the woman be, and her

When the young girl's thoughts become sluggish, when she experiences headaches, dizziness, faintness, and exhibits an abnormal disposition to sleep, pains in the back and lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude, and a dislike for the society of other girls, when she is a mystery to herself and friends, then the mother should go to her aid promptly. At such a time the greatest aid to nature is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It prepares the young system for the coming change, and is the surest reliance in this hour of trial.

The following letters from Mrs. Southard are practical proof of Mrs. Pinkham's efficient advice to young women.

She has been taking iron for three mouths but is no better. In the morning she vomits, some days she cannot keep anything on her stomach until twelve o'clock. If she tries to do anything she gets faint. Has headache all the time, is as white as marble with great dark rings under her eyes. Please write and tell me what to do as I am discouraged with the doctor."—Mas. Chas. Southand, Phoenix Mills,
