RECEPTION TO SOLDIERS

Formal Welcome is Extended to the Visiting Philippine Veterans.

GENERAL JACOB SMITH HAS A DEFENDER

President of the Society, General Hale, Gives a Soldier's View of the Critics of the Army.

The meeting in the casino at Lake Manawa last evening, which was in the nature of a public reception to the visiting soldiers was attended by nearly 4,000 people. Every seat in the large amphitheater was taken and hundreds were forced to stand. The building was appropriately decorated. The gathering was a most enthusiastic one and this was fully demonstrated by the liberal applause which greeted every speaker at the slightest allusion to any of the famous generals who commanded in the Philippines.

Occupying seats on the platform were Governor Cummins of Iowa, Governor Savage of Nebraska, the members of their staffs, General King, General Hale, General Metcalf, Colonel Frost, Chaplain Walburn, John N. Baldwin, Mayor D. G. Morgan, Ernest R. Hart, chairman of the reception committee, members of the citizens' executive committee and others. The members of the local chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, occupied the boxes, which were effectively draped with the national colors.

The program opened with a medley of national airs by the Fifty-first regiment band which responded to an encore by playing "A Hot Time," which was followed by the address of welcome on behalf of the state by Governor Cummins, who was introduced by Mayor Morgan.

Governor Extends Welcome.

Governor Cummins said he was peculiarly fortunate in being able to extend a welcome in a dual capacity—first as commander-in-chief of the military of the state of Iowa and secondly as the administrator of the civil affairs of that great commonwealth. Continuing, he said in part:

The Spanish war is yet too new to fully estimate its immense proportions. Another generation must pass, and the generation of brave American women must live and pass away before we fully appreciate the debt of gratitude we owe to the boys who fought for the flag under the palms of the Philippines.

With the crowned potentates of European countries bowing in bended knee to this great country, is it strange that the great commonwealth of Iowa, that the men and women of this great state gather together to greet the boys of the Philippines? I cannot let this occasion pass without trying to convey to you, to you men of the Philippines, the indignation that we have all felt at the slanders which have been hurled by the enemies of this country at the men who serve their country in the far-off Philippines.

I want you to know that whatever may be the necessities of warfare or whatever may be the requirements of military service, the men and women of this country believe it was the duty of the boys to sustain the honor of this country, to sweep the island, if necessary. I am not blindstitionary but I want you to know that we at home, if it had been necessary to leave nothing but the pines to salute the stars and stripes, from the Pacific waves to Bataan, would feel that you had not done your duty.

In concluding Governor Cummins paid a tribute to the boys of the Fifty-first Iowa and in again extending a welcome to the visiting veterans said the hospitality of Iowa was as boundless as its love for its soldier boys. The governor was most enthusiastically applauded at the close of his address.

Baldwin Speaks for City.

Following a medley of southern airs by the band, John N. Baldwin delivered the address of welcome on behalf of the city of Council Bluffs. Mr. Baldwin was outspoken in his defense of General Jacob Smith and he was repeatedly interrupted by the vociferous applause of the soldier boys. He said in part:

From the earliest colonial times down to the present the citizen soldiers of America have excited the wonder of the world. They come from the farm and the shop and the office and the store and marched into battle without preliminary drill and without target practice, and yet they steadily emerged victorious from the most unequal conditions, against disease, night and stealth by day, against barbarism, cruelty and brutality. They marched by day over almost impassable roads, through streams, jungles and thickets, under the glare of a sweltering tropical sun, and by dawn or at night with the earth for a couch, a fire bridge for their protection and a pillar of an outspread sky for their canopy. They kept their cause in their hearts and the flame of battle in their eyes. Ever eager for the fray and eager for the conclusion. Courage was their safeguard, honor their watchword, success their goal. They fought without murmur or hesitation and returned veterans and with them and no better or braver army ever fought under the American flag.

Such a splendid army needs must have magnificent commanders and it did. It is with pleasure that we greet the distinguished generals of that army, some of whom are with us tonight. Mackenzie,

SAVE YOUR STOMACH.

The condition of the stomach bears the same relation to one's health that the foundation does to the house. Without a good foundation, the house cannot stand. Without a good stomach, the health must fail.

Digesting will make and indigestion will break the walls of the stomach. Perfect digestion will build and sustain, while poor digesting will tear down health's foundation. The reason for this is that the stomach must receive and prepare all food for entrance into the blood, and from the blood into the tissues. If the stomach is not in perfect condition, the nourishment will be improperly prepared—imperfectly digested, and, instead of the health-giving and strength-increasing properties of the food being contributed to the tissues, stagnation ensues, the blood becomes impoverished and poison is forced into the system.

The weakest organ of the body gets most of this poison, because, for want of strength, it is less able to resist it, and so a consequence disease begins to show itself first in one of the weak organs, which is usually a very important one. It may be the lungs, liver, kidneys or heart and in the case of women, it may be one of the organs peculiar to their sex. Such symptoms as shortness of breath, coated tongue, pains in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, fullness after eating, bowel complaint, sleeps in the mouth, sallow complexion, constipation, diarrhoea, dysentery and sour belching are all symptoms of indigestion.

Kodol relieves every symptom of indigestion and restores the stomach and digestive organs to perfect health. This famous remedy has effected a permanent cure in thousands of cases of chronic dyspepsia, as well as ulceration of the stomach and other serious stomach diseases.

Kodol represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with tonic and reconstructive properties. It is absolutely harmless, perfectly palatable, never doing any harm, always doing good.

This famous tonic is prepared in the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, whose facilities for the manufacture of medical preparations are unequalled anywhere in the country.

who succeeded the overpowering commander, Otis, and with distinguished skill, courage and bravery served against the Filipinos from the beginning of the insurrection. Wheaton, always in the thick of the operations, courageous, dashing, sweeping the country on all sides of Manila as Sheridan swept the rebels with his cavalry in the Shenandoah valley. Funston, the artillery executor of difficult and dangerous plans and movements. A volunteer from the start to the finish. Volunteered to cross the Rio Grande in the face of the fire of the entrenched enemy. Volunteered to march into the wilderness, and after a long and trying search returned with Aguinaldo and with the broken back of the rebellion. King, Grosvie, Bates and others who have made a splendid record, serving their country ably, faithfully and fearlessly, and are justly entitled to the esteem and affection of the American people.

Mr. Baldwin then paid a tribute to General Hale.

Boldly Defends Smith.

In extolling General Jacob Smith and condemning his critics and the treatment he had received, Mr. Baldwin concluded by saying:

This old and courageous soldier, who had won his stars by magnificent service, the stars that gleamed with the light of duty well performed, glowing the Pacific waves, longing to view again the country whose flag he had defended in two wars, with thoughts of home and kindred far away, approaches the harbor of San Francisco. Standing upon the deck, with his loving wife at his side, with the exultation of his hopes now close at hand, an officer leaves the pilot's boat, climbs up the side of the ship and delivers a sealed package. It is opened and then and there he knows what the grocery hardware wife he was on the sea, that he had been dismissed from the army.

The heart of the American people went out to him in all its fullness and sympathy as they pictured his gray head bowed and crushed under that blow. God only knows what he was thinking of, planning for the future to do, and one of the things will be to make this wrong right.

At the close of Mr. Baldwin's address the male chorus consisting of I. M. Treynon, Ned Mitchell, L. Pryor, W. S. Rigdon, C. P. Lewis, C. E. Atchison, Maurice Waller, T. B. Lacey, Frank Eurbaugh, C. S. Haverstock, C. W. Caker, Horace Haverstock, under the direction of W. L. Thickstun, entertained the audience with singing "Hark the Trumpet." For an encore "The Star Spangled Banner" was given, the entire audience standing during the singing.

The presentation of the banner by the Council Bluffs chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to Camp John L. Moore, Iowa Society, Army of the Philippines, followed. The presentation was made by Mrs. Victor H. Bender, regent of the chapter and was accepted on behalf of the camp by Captain Maher.

Generals King, Metcalf and Frost were in turn called upon and made a few remarks expressing their extreme pleasure in being able to greet their old comrades.

Governor Savage Speaks.

Governor Savage of Nebraska then addressed the meeting:

It was your valor that gave us the Philippines. You went there on a mission of mercy. It is in wearing the uniform and bearing arms your last thought was of violence. Patriotic and loyal Americans that you are you undertook to meet the exactions of a soldier in the service of a nation whose last thought is war, but a nation that when war is unavoidable has no soldier that will not sacrifice everything else in observance of a military command. To your credit and to the credit of American citizenship let it be written into the history of this struggle that every man of your ranks who fell fell with his face to the enemy, and those of you who survived observed that last injunction which enjoins an American citizen, uniformed or ununiformed, to respect society's laws and be a [illegible] assumed from your hands control of the Philippines. Those islands are ours and forever shall exercise supervision over them. Call it expansion if you will, or call it by any other name, our title is clear and our dominion beyond dispute. The Filipinos will be given independent government just as soon as they are eligible. Meanwhile they will enjoy just the same form of government that we enjoy—a form of government representing the highest achievement of the world's best genius and statesmanship.

General Hale Speaks for Army.

"The Army of the Philippines" was the topic upon which General Irving Hale spoke.

After reviewing the organization of the society of which he is the head, General Hale on behalf of the organization expressed his high appreciation of the welcome and hospitality extended by the people of Council Bluffs and those of the "sister city across the river" Omaha. He said:

"The Society of the Army of the Philippines, like all military associations rests upon a triple foundation—comradeship, patriotism and history. The primary attraction which draws us together is soldierly comradeship, that strong tie which grows from campaigning together with all that the word implies—drinking from the same canteen, sharing the same hardships, facing the same dangers, contending with a common enemy, marching and fighting together under the same flag. It binds together regulars and volunteers, regiments of the various states, officers and soldiers. There is no more need to talk about opposition between the regular and the volunteer—but it exists principally among those who have never campaigned together. Between the organizations of the two armies which served side by side in the Philippines and had time to learn each other, exists a strong bond of mutual affection and respect. The volunteer admires the regular's thorough knowledge of his profession, discipline, and unswerving matter-of-course loyalty to duty. The regular admires the volunteer's intelligence, energy, enthusiasm, and the readiness with which he acquires the essentials of the art of war. In courage and patriotism they are equally magnificent. In fact, all United States soldiers are volunteers of greater or less length of service, and whatever their ancestry or nativity, whether they came from the north, south, east or west, whether white, black or with the blood of the Indian in their veins, they are all Americans.

The greatest mission of our military societies is to keep alive the spirit of patriotism. It reminds the people that there is something in life besides the machine and the maelstrom getting the almighty dollar and reawakens them to what they are prone to forget in their dreaming—the meaning of the words country and flag.

After reciting the difficulties and hardships that the army had to suffer in the Philippines, General Hale concluded by saying:

Army Outlives Critics.

And yet there are men in this country of ours who sit in the luxury of their homes and legislative halls and hold up their hands in holy horror, condemning the whole army and the administration, because here and there a few acts have been committed which are not strictly in accord with social etiquette or ameliorial courtesy—which may never have been known to be violated in the ragged edge.

The fear is sometimes expressed that an account of these attacks on the army it may be difficult for the country to obtain soldiers in another year. There is no danger of this. In every war through which the United States has passed the army has been slandered and abused, yet its soldiers live in the history of the nation and in the hearts of millions of people to such a degree that the name of a signal one of its treasures dies, even if this were not so, the country would never lack for patriotic men to follow the flag, taking their chances on the sir-grave in the star as well as the bullets from the front, and finishing there and all the other dangers and hardships of war as magnificent to the light of the motto of the soldier, "duty, honor, country."

GETTING READY FOR THE FRAY

Committee Goes to Fusion Forces May Be Turned Loose Soon.

Manager Scott, who is fishing out glad hands at the fusion headquarters at the Dellone and getting in shape to lend out cutnumbers among the honest yeomanry of the state, said yesterday that probably by September 15 the senatorial guns would be unlimbered and the battle would be on. Several parties have applied for places as stenographers at the headquarters, and as soon as a sufficient number have been secured Mr. Scott expects to go to work. At present he is spending his time rearranging the furniture in the rooms and getting in shape to begin organizing his forces for the fray.

PERMANENT CAMP GROUND FOR MILITIA

Telephone Company Seeks Injunction to Restrain Strikers from Maintaining a Boycott Against It.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, Aug. 13.—(Special)—Announcement is made of a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts to be held at Ames Thursday, August 21, at which time it is expected the matter of selecting a successor to the late President Beardshear will be disposed of. A number of the members of the board are understood to favor leaving the presidency to manage the college as had been planned if Dr. Beardshear's illness had continued long instead of ending fatally. Others against that the college is in that condition where it is important that a president should be selected at once and be placed in full charge, and they contend that from the large field of available they ought to be able to select one who will fill the bill. Several new candidates are under consideration by the board. Henry Wallace, editor of a farm paper here and a veteran in agricultural education, is being considered. His selection would be a triumph for those who contend that the agricultural interests at the college should be considered above all else. Another who is an active candidate is Prof. S. H. Sheasley, superintendent of the West Des Moines schools, an active school man who occupies the same position now that was occupied by Dr. Beardshear when the latter was made president. Prof. C. F. Curtiss of the chair of animal husbandry of the college, is most likely to be selected. He has a national reputation as an expert judge of fine stock and has devoted himself to the agricultural studies at the college. There are a number of other names under consideration and the board may decide upon going outside the state for a college president.

For a Permanent Camp Ground.

Governor Cummins and Adjutant General Byers are both pronounceedly in favor of the state of Iowa securing permanent camp grounds near Des Moines for the use of the Iowa National Guard. Governor Cummins in an address to the men of the Fiftieth regiment at Oskaloosa, after he had visited and inspected the camps of three regiments of the state guard, spoke freely and strongly in favor of the plan of a permanent camp ground and expressed his belief that it should be at or near the state capital. Adjutant General Byers has expressed himself as in favor of a camp ground for the state near the United States army post here.

Telephone Suit on Trial.

Before Judge McHenry in the district court today occurred the hearing on the application of the Iowa Telephone company for a restraining order to prevent the strikers and their friends from removing telephones and carrying on a boycott against the company. A temporary order was issued by Judge McVey some days ago. Today Judge McHenry decided that so far as it related to the taking out of the telephones there was no evidence that any of the strikers or labor leaders had assisted in the taking out of telephones. On the boycott question some evidence was taken and arguments presented. The defense takes the ground that the Iowa company has no right in the city anyway, that the council had declared forfeited its franchises and that it therefore is in the position of a trespasser in the city. This question is regarded as an important one and places the Iowa company so far as its business in Des Moines is concerned in a bad position.

Speed Entries Closed.

The speed entries in all the leading trotting and pacing classes of the Iowa state fair closed today and Secretary Simpson is receiving many of the entries.

Fatal Affray Near Ramsey.

James Sims a farmer living near Ramsey, was shot and killed at an early hour this morning. According to the story told by Mrs. Sims and the son who did the shooting, Sims came home drunk last night and made threats against the life of his wife. She ran to the home of a neighbor terrified. This morning she returned to her home, thinking the husband would be sober and sensible, but he was still drunk and again threatened to kill her. He rushed upon her with an uplifted knife when the son interfered. A fight ensued in which the father threatened to kill both members of the family. The son drew a revolver and killed his father. Both shots penetrated the head. The young man was wounded but not seriously. The same thing came near occurring several years ago and it has long been known that Sims was a dangerous man when drunk.

Captain Hull May Rest.

Captain J. A. T. Hull of this city is chairman of the executive committee of the National congressional committee, and he should have gone to New York are this to assume charge of the campaign for the national committee, but he has been in poor health ever since he went to the Philippines on a tour of inspection a year ago. He has been resting as quietly as possible and it may be that he will have to give up his work on the congressional committee entirely.

HEARS ABOUT YOUNG WATKINS

Mayor Moores Receives Letter from Home of Sheufeld's Son-in-Law.

If Philip Doremus Watkins of Montclair, N. J., is a hypnotist the mayor of that town does not know of it, and has written a letter to Mayor Moores to say so. The letter is in reply to a letter of inquiry written by Mayor Moores. Watkins is the young man who recently met Miss Maude Sheufeld on the train and, after an acquaintance of three hours, married her at Salt Lake City. Mrs. Watkins, nee Sheufeld, is the daughter of Henry Sheufeld, antiquarian and bookseller, of Omaha. The fact that no word has been received from her since her marriage strengthens Mr. Sheufeld in the belief that she was hypnotized by Watkins and married against her will.

"His family ranks high in this community," writes Mayor D. D. Duncan. "His grandfather, a man now 90 years old, but of remarkable vigor of both mind and body, is still the head of a large grocery firm here, and is among the most highly respected of our citizens. His father is also a very worthy man. As to Philip Doremus I know him only as a school boy, but I can safely say that in his studies he gave no evidence of abnormal or even unusual mental power.

"Since acquiring his majority he has been mixed up in one shady transaction. He was charged with having secured the signature of a Chicago man to a worthless check of $2,000, though whether he employed hypnotism to accomplish this I cannot say."

The strike is in sympathy with the Philadelphia workers and is to be confined to the American Bridge company. It will have no effect on the independent concerns.

STRIKERS LOOK FOR TERMS

Believe Union Pacific Has Plan for Settlement Under Advisement.

NO CONFIRMATION FROM HEADQUARTERS

General Manager Dickinson Says No New Move is Pending and All Orders Are "Running Along Smoothly."

Union Pacific strikers profess to be looking for some negotiations of settlement from the company, possibly the last of this week, possibly not until next week, but at any rate within a week.

"The company must call the strike off and get its shops into operation. The time has come for action and it is up to the Union Pacific to take the lead," said Vice President Wilson yesterday. "I unconsciously believe plans for an advance of terms are being shaped by President Burt and his associates and that we will be given a conference very soon."

No confirmation of this report, theory or belief is possible from the official sources of the Union Pacific. General Manager Dickinson was asked yesterday if there were any new plans under consideration and said there were not. "There is nothing new in the developments that I know of; everything is running along smoothly," was his statement.

The strikers base their theories upon alleged deficiency in the motive power of the road, which they declare is becoming more serious each day and which the company cannot survive much longer.

Yesterday Superintendent of Transportation Buckingham, Division Superintendent Baxter, James Turtle, general foreman at the Omaha shops, and H. L. Huntley, principal assistant engineer, left for the west to make official investigations and inspections of the system and the condition of affairs. Mr. Baxter and Mr. Buckingham have spent a great deal of time during the last few weeks out on the road, as has also Superintendent of Motive Power McKeen, who is somewhere between here and Denver now.

Claim Offers Are Made.

Strike leaders claim that the Union Pacific has made tempting offers to several former shopmen during the past few days to accept positions as inspectors in the shops. It is said that salaries ranging from $100 to $150 a month have been advanced, but rejected by the men, who avow their intention of remaining on a strike until the fight is settled and all are back to work.

Considerable interest has centered around sixteen handy men in the roundhouse at Council Bluffs. These men manifested a desire and intention of quitting their places and joining the strikers. They are union men and the strikers are opposed to their coming out, as it would increase the financial obligations of the organizations to which they belong without adding any resources or affording any material strength.

"We can win better with these men at work," said Vice President Wilson, "and for that reason they have been induced to stay with their places until there is some indication that [illegible] as strikers are needed."

The company yesterday morning imported twenty-five more nonunion men from the east into the Omaha shops. Strikers claim that some of the recruits deserted upon their arrival.

A commotion which produced considerable amusement occurred at the local shop yards Tuesday night. It is said plans had been laid to give the workmen in the shops an evening of vaudeville entertainment and to this end a set of musicians and funny men was sent down. Strikers on picket were quick to discover them as they attempted to enter the yards, however, and the plans there and then were frustrated, the vaudeville show turned aside and the nonunion men, who had gathered in groups about the gates awaiting the stage people, disappointed.

The strikers offered no violence, but prevented the banjo and tambourine artists from entering the gates and the newcomers, who evidently were not aware of the picket line, seemed perfectly satisfied to cancel their engagement under the circumstances, but there were unmistakable manifestations of disgust and disapproval within.

PLUMBERS MEET IN OMAHA

Begin International Convention Monday to Last Throughout Week.

The journeymen plumbers of the United States and Canada will hold their annual convention in Omaha next week. The opening session will be held Monday and the entire week will be consumed, meetings being held daily in Labor Temple.

At this convention will be represented every local plumbers' organization in the union and "the Dominion," therefore the great bulk of this trade. It is expected that about 125 regularly accredited delegates will be in attendance, but this will not comprise the entire number, as scores of plumbers not delegates will likely be here. Matters of the utmost concern to plumbers everywhere are mapped out for this convention.

The local plumbers have a special committee appointed to look after the arrangements for the convention and this committee held a meeting last night at Labor Temple to perfect plans, which are to insure the success of the international gathering so far as lies within the power of the Omaha tradesmen. The local plumbers are thoroughly awake to the importance and significance of so great a gathering and are doing their utmost to facilitate its success.

FIFTEEN PHARMACY GRADUATES

Omaha College Turns Out a New Detachment of Medicine Makers with Diplomas.

The second annual commencement of the Omaha College of Pharmacy took place yesterday evening in Seward Street Methodist church. At 8 o'clock the graduates, fifteen in number, marched up the aisle of the church and the exercises began with an invocation by Prof. Edmund Thary. Rev. Dawson made the address of the evening, referring to pharmacy from the point of a layman, telling many humorous anecdotes relative to the profession and giving the young men advice in regard to future work. A. G. Curtis made the valedictory address for the class, after which Prof. J. L. Kendal presented the diplomas with remarks on the standing and practice of the profession of pharmacy. After a short intermission for congratulations and the exhibition of cases containing remedies compounded by the students during the year's work, the party adjourned to the supper rooms of the church for the banquet. Covers were laid for seventy-five and the tables decorated with flowers and candelabra. Prof. Edmund Thary was toastmaster. During the evening Messrs. J. H. Schmidt, E. L. Wilson, C. L. Stillman, W. W. Kimball and Nils P. Hanson of the state examining board were called on for remarks. E. P. Williams, Attorney Whipple, N. B. Van Meter and several of the students also responded to toasts. The party did not rise from the table until after midnight.

BLANKET INDICTMENTS FOUND

Ex-Chief of Police Ames and Others of Minneapolis Are Now Charged with Conspiracy.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 13.—Ex-Chief of Police Ames, ex-Detective Norbeck and Irwin Gardiner have been arraigned on blanket indictments charging conspiracy.

Joseph Cohen and Mayor A. A. Ames were absent and could not be arraigned. The first indictment did not include Norbeck and Gardiner, but was against Ames and Cohen, charging them with conspiracy for having agreed to commit the crime of extortion from persons keeping unlawful resorts within the city.

The new indictment embraces the names of the mayor, Fred Ames, Norbeck and Gardiner. The date of this conspiracy was fixed at October 1, 1901, at which time the persons named are accused of having conspired to commit the crimes of extortion and bribery.

It is claimed that there were thirty-five women who were to pay between $15 and $20 per month for protection.

FARM MACHINERY COMBINE

Manufacturers of Harvesting Machinery and Farm Implements Going Into a Trust.

AKRON, O., Aug. 13.—Hon. George W. Crouse, president of the Aultman-Miller company, makers of the Buckeye mower and reaper, said today in regard to the combine of harvester manufacturers:

I cannot say positively that the Akron company will join the combination, but I think there is no doubt but that we will enter it. I know very little about the matter at present, further than the fact that the combination has been incorporated. It will probably include all of the larger concerns interested in the manufacture of harvesting machinery and farming implements in the country.

We will probably be called on by a representative of the company in the near future, with a proposition for us to go into the new company, and there is hardly any doubt but that our concern will soon become a part of the big combination.
