out in the state. Where, two months ago, almost exclusively local, we now receive a dozen inquiries or more a day from banks and others in the state, asking about prospective loans. So far the greater part of the increased demand has been met from the excess of the legal reserve held by the banks, and unless there is a demand which we do not anticipate we will be able to handle the business without having to call for outside money.

"As a result of the present condition the deposits of the banks show a decrease, while the loans and discounts are probably greater than they have ever been in the history of the city. Nebraska is doing business largely with Nebraska money, and with a few years of good crops and fair prices we will be entirely out of the hands of the money lenders of any other state.

"While, as I said, there is never any extraordinary demand for money to move the crops in this section of the country, our demand is far more steady and regular for agricultural investments than the demand in the states where it appears greatest at the time the crops are harvested."

those who use it. In all the territory covered by these books the net rate is as low as paid for ordinary mileage and in some districts half a cent a mile lower. The scrip is also ac-cepted in payment of charges for excens baggage (on which a refund of 20 per cent is made) and does away with a cumbersome lot of mileage and baggage tickets, one book enabling the holder to cover about twenty-five roads in a very large territory. Herein lies one of the most valuable features of the plan and one which is being thoroughly appreciated by travelers. The Burlington, Elkhorn and Union Pacific officials are working earnestly to secure the general adoption of this system by the Omaha jobbers and it is thought the latter will soon put it into use in their CREOR.
