This scarcity of fuel was expected at the few plants using anthracite coal, but has come as a shock to the coke furnaces, for the Connellsville ovens have steadily maintained a weekly production or 250,000 tons.

Bound to Blow Out the Gas. Gus Beck, a little German, who has been staying for zome time at the Burlington hotel, has aroused much interested speculation among the guests of that caravansary during the last few days by repeatedly blowing out the gas in his room and being saved from asphyxiation. It is not known whether suicide was his object or something else, but at any rate his plans miscarried. Last night he put out the gas twice, and when the hotel clerk interfered with his plans he became enraged and attacked that functionary with a base ball but. He was locked up by the city authorities.

Russell Brokerage Company Used.

The discovery has been made that five checks bearing the names of Milton Rogers' Sons and of the Russell Brokerage company and either drawn to and indorsed by William Burdick or William Bereaford, and which have been cashed in at a total of $73, are forgeries. Two of the checks bear the name of the former company and are for $15.50 and $8.50, respectively, and the others on the Russell company are for $14.75, $15.75 and $18.50. Of the latter three the first, drawn on the Merchants' National bank, was cashed by the W. R. Bennett company; the second, drawn on the First National, and the third, on the Omaha National, were cashed in Council Bluffs. The checks on the Milton Rogers company were drawn on the Merchants' National and Omaha National banks, and were cashed by a Douglas street saloon keeper and in Council Bluffs. The checks used in Omaha were dated August 22 and those used in Iowa were of one day later. The fraud was not detected until the checks came around in the order of banking bustness. The paper was not drawn on the banks where the companies do business, but one of the Rogers' checks came to the Omaha National, where it was detected. The police know who the forger is, but refuse to give out any hint as to his identity. It is known, however, that he is not

STREET CAR MEN'S UNION Will Meet Tonight to Act on List of

Applicants for Memberahip. Local lodge No. 288 of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes, the new organization of street railway men, will hold a meeting tonight at Labor Temple for the purpose of completing the organization. There are now 224 members and a long list of applicants is on hand ready to be added to the rolls tonight. The charter closes at this meeting and it has been the desire and purpose to get in all the employes possible before this is done for the mutual benefit of the men and the association.

A prominent street car man said last night: "We are not going into the union with the thought of striking. We are actuated by higher motives. Self-protection in the future impels us to band ourselves together. We have been behind the times. We see that organization is necessary to the preservation of our own interests. While there may have been some trivial grievances our situation under our present employers was not such as to warrant alarm, but we think we see ahead a danger signal and we want to be prepared for the crisis. We don't know what disposition will be made when the change in ownership takes place. If we could feel the same degree of safety to our interests that we feel under the present management there certainly would be no cause for apprehension. I believe that the men on these lines would strike just as quick over the removal of Superintendent Tucker as they would for any personal grievance. We hope Mr. Tucker will remain in his present position under the new management. His relations with us have been pleasant and profitable."
