Omaha in Second Place with a Good Chance of Getting First.

RACE FOR PENNANT BECOMING FIERCE

Record of Shutont Games Shows How Desperately the Teams Are Working on the Windop Series This Season.

In the dust. For the second time this season another club than Omaha is leading the league. To the outcome of four of the hardest fought games of the present season this result is Colorado Springs made two runs in thirty-six innings in its last Omaha series, and won two games. That combination is not likely to occur again in a lifetime of ball playing, but it cost Omaha the lead. Milwaukee has been playing pennant ball ever since the spurt started, but the Angels are on the road now and are certain to drop a few, while Omaha will be receiving at home, and has splendid prospects of hitting another winning streak. Twenty-two days still intervens before the close of the senson, and a lot of things can happen in that Hard cost will be just as cheap this winter whether Omaha wins or not, and the price of gas is not likely to vary any, but the furnaces will run longer and the gan blaze later into te night if the team does come out shead, for then the fans will feel like sitting up and talking about it. And Papa Bill Rourke he feels so good over the patronage he has had during the summer that he has about decided to go into the show business this winter. If he can figure out some way to adapt the old Omaha uniforms to the costuming of the chorus, it is likely he will make the venturs.

How feroclous the winding up games all over the country are may be gauged by the fact that during the six days ending with Friday eighteen shutouts had been registered in the four big leagues. Five of these were 1 to 0 games, one was 2 to 0, four were 3 to 0, two were 4 to 0, one was one 8 to 0, two were 8 to 0, and two were 10 to 0. Here are the statistics for a remarkable series of shutouts:

Winter Campaign Plans Take On Shape and Promise Much Sport.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE NOW TALKED ABOUT

Omaha League Divides Its Season and Will Play Two Champtonship Terms During the Coming Winter.

Two bowling leagues are now the prospect for the coming winter in Omaha. The latest scheme promulgated by the rollers is to inaugurate a commercial league in addition to the Omaha Bowling league. The new organization would, it is planned, follow lines similar to those of the base ball league which has been carried on among the commercial houses for some years. The leading firms will have representation with a team of bowlers, the league membership to be limited to nine clubs It is confidently asserted that far more ease will be experienced in securing a regular, faithful and reliable bowling team from each house than has been the case with the base ball teams. It will require only half as many men and far less equipment. In addition to that feature the bowling contests in the league will always be at night, while base ball games required afternoon attendance, a thing difficult for the mployes of the wholesale houses. At night their work will never conflict.

Should this addition of a new bowling league be consummated the result would doubtless be greatly to the advantage of the game in Omaha. It has been a much considered problem since last winter how the eport was to grow much more here, it having made such phenomenal strides during the years of 1900 and 1901. This new league seems to come as a happy solution. It would certainly concentrate and extend the bowling interests of a large number of commercial house employes. Many who have in years past been more or less devotees of the game, but who have not indulged in any special spurt of enthusiasm over it, will thus be enrolled on the lists of the ardent ones. The lack of organized competition in the past has been solely responsible for their rather desultory attachment to the sport, and the new league will furnish this incentive.

The plan is of further interest in that it means, if carried out, that there will be developed here shortly a new line of stars. The old guard has had things its own way will tussle for one of the halves, and ex- now for quite a spell. Each year there is a bunch of bowlers who take practically all Center Lane, who graduated last spring in the high honors, and their names remain the collegiate department, will resume his the same from season to season. They are studies at the Medical college and thus will the best in the present league, and they rebe eligible for playing this year. Captain main so. But a new league will mean forty or fifty new bowlers rolling oftener than ever before in their lives. The three games a week will not in themselves be so much, but, finding themselves in a league, open to plunger, at fullback, and that assortment them will wish to make a good showing of material leaves the team already pretty and will practice for it. Practice makes well framed up, with the school year still perfect, and in pursuance of this maxim the new longue should not be many weaks weeks in the future. So Creighton men in existence before a new generation of feel rather jubilant over the prospects for Emerys and Reads and Denmans and Harttheir team and hope to cut a little swath of leys should spring up. When that time comes the teams of the new league should course, means they will get them. The Both manager and coach are determined first will begin in October and run probably forty-two games. The second will commence after an intermission of two weeks and be equally as long.

It is said that the captains of most all the teams in the Omaha Bowling league will be changed this year. The personnel of the quintets will remain much the same, practice will commence on Monday, Sep- but the former leaders will take places in tember 8, at which time all candidates are the ranks and let some other veteran have a try at captain. Turn about is fair play, and doubtless in a few years more some of the teams will have preserved their integral parts so identically from season to season that every man on them will have been captain at some time or other with every other man under him.

> Some bowlers are saying that it will be a hard matter to secure material for the nine teams planned. This is scarcely believed, despite the fact that a few of last Wood Hartley has announced himself as one who will stay out of the league proposition, and it is said that C. Conrad will do likewise. The dropping out of a few men should not be felt to any extent. There were surely enough good ones bowlwere not in any club, and these will be back. It should not prove difficult to replace the men who drop out, and then some bowlers do not think that any of the enthusiasts will do so when it comes down to play. They will not believe that Wood Hartley or anyone else will stay

All these things and many more will be settled at a meeting of the Omaha Bowling school are placed on the second and third league, which is soon to occur. September 20 is the day set, and at that time all these questions of two seasons or one, of schedule, of the number of teams and of this Camp does not endear himself to the west and that, will come up for consideration. by these tactics. With such teams as those It is easy to say now what most of the bowlers wish in regard to these things, but it cannot be predicted what they will finally decide to do, though their course in out ever seeing a game in the west. Other most of these matters would seem to be cut and dried at this early date.

The opening of the alleys around the city has started the game off in earnest already, for the weather is so coof that people relish bowling now, as they usually do not until October. One fact noted by the alley keepers is that there are many new faces this year. This, they say, is a sure indication of a lot of new material, for the old ones come in slow but sure, while those who have but recently become fascinated with the game wish to get to work as soon as they are allowed on the alleys. The summer resort plays no small part in building up the bowling patronage for the following winter, for more people learn to roll for the first time in such places than in any city alleys Wherever you go now for a vacation you find the bowling alleys a prominent factor in the entertainment and many people will learn the game for fun when they would not think of going into a bowling resort in a city and showing off before a lot of cracks while endeavoring to get on to the tricks of the sport. At a summer resort everyone is in for everything and if anybody proposed bowling all are agreed on doing it So it often happens that some man or woman who never picked up a ball before will do so while on his or her vacation and will develop a fondness for the game and an aptness in it that he persistently stays by and cultivates when he returns to the city for the winter. Even the alleys in the resorts about Omaha have seen many beginners learn to play and then improve this summer, and it is a cinch that some of them will be seen bowling in the regu-ages unequaled, but if allowed to pass may never present themselves again, and what were once golden opportunities develop into blasted hopes whose recollections mock in your distress. The occasion may be small and apparently of little importance at the time, but ultimately of great harm. Nothing but censure will come to the man who constantly neglects. The scratch of a pin has produced lockjaw and death.

A little strategy executed at the right time has changed results in immense battles and made new history where a little delay would have cost thousands of lives and reversed important conditions. Opportunities of vast import, fortunes of magnitude and lives by the hundreds are sacrificed in one way or another every day through indifference or neglect. In the treatment of disease it is much easier to prevent than to rectify, though much better to rectify than to neglect. Beautiful farms have grown up in weeds, the fences destroyed, wells caved in. buildings reduced to rulns, and the property flually sold for taxes on account of sickness, and that sickness due wholly to a little neglect. Factories have been closed, stores have changed hands, businesses have been discontinued and fortunes have been spent on account of disease, where "a stitch in time would have saved nine." If a man is physically weak it is the mistake of his life to neglect his condition, and it requires no logical process of reasoning to show that anything worth doing at all is worth doing well and promptly.

Not many high scores have yet been rolled in Omaha, as the play is but a week or so old, yet that of Miss Louise Goerne is so notable as to merit especial mention. She threw 168 at ten pins a few days ago, and public scrutiny and criticism, everyone of this is a great record for so early in the season. Miss Goerne held last year's record for women at this game, with 220. The bowlers are casting their eyes over the high scores left over from last season and they will begin going after them soon. Here are the city scores at the various games which will be the moving spirit in no little flerce bowling this winter:

Field Club Men to Have a Little Handicap Affair of Their Own.
