

Contagious Blood Poison

Is the name sometimes given to what is generally known as the BAD DISEASE. It is not confined to dens of vice or the lower classes.

otherwise coming in contact with persons who have contracted it. It begins usually with a little blister or sore, then swelling in the groins, a red eruption breaks out on the body, sores and ulcers appear in the mouth, the throat becomes ulcerated, the hair, eye brows and lashes fall out and, as the blood becomes more contaminated, copper colored spots and pustular eruptions and sores appear upon different parts of the body, and the poison even destroys the bones.

S. S. S. is a Specific for this loathsome disease, and cures it even in the worst forms. It is a perfect antidote for the powerful virus that pollutes the blood and penetrates to all parts of the system.

FAIR MANAGERS SATISFIED

Attendance on First Two Days Most Encouraging in Its History.

FISHERIES BUILDING A POPULAR ONE

Report of Referee in Smyth Case Against Union Pacific Coming Up in the Supreme Court.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LINCOLN, Sept. 2.—(Special.)—"We are more than pleased with the attendance at the fair thus far," said Secretary Furnas tonight.

The fisheries building, located near the railroad entrance and within a few yards of the headquarters and agricultural buildings, continues a center of attraction. It is a small building, but by careful management of the crowds fully as many people are enabled to pass through as in any of the larger ones.

The fisheries display is under the charge of Fish Commissioner O'Brien and Game and Fish Commissioners Simpson and Carter. The facilities for keeping the fish are better than before, for the water supply is larger. "We don't claim any credit for this exhibit," said Mr. Carter, speaking for himself and Mr. Simpson. "It is all due to O'Brien. He knows more about fish than all the other men in the department."

The University of Nebraska is there with an exhibit of wide interest. The dairy school occupies a large portion of the dairy building, showing improved methods of dairying. In the agricultural building the state farm makes a practical demonstration of the results of experimentation and education in agriculture.

NEBRASKA CROP CONDITIONS

Temperature Slightly Below and Rainfall Above the Normal.

UNFAVORABLE FOR SECURING CROPS

Corn Grows Well, but Matures Slowly and Needs Hot, Dry Weather—Some of Early Planted Beyond Frost Damage.

Crop bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture, Nebraska section of the climate and crop service of the Weather bureau, for the week ending September 1, 1902:

The past week has been cool and moist. The daily mean temperature has averaged two degrees below normal.

The rainfall has been above normal in the southeastern part of the state, where heavy thunderstorms occurred, with rain from one to more than three inches. In the remainder of the state the rainfall was below normal, ranging from none to about half an inch, but while the amount of water measured was small, the weather was cloudy and damp, with some fog.

The moist weather of the week was unfavorable for haying and threshing and some hay was discolored and damaged by rain. Grain in shocks and in some places is beginning to sprout. Warm dry weather is needed for both haying and threshing. The wet weather of July and August has caused both to be much behind normal advancement at this time of year.

Corn has continued to grow well, but has matured very slowly. Some early planted corn is matured sufficiently to be beyond damage from frost. The late corn is filling well and promises a large crop, but much of it will require three weeks to mature.

The soil is in excellent condition for working generally and much plowing has been done the past week. Very little seeding has been done. Pastures continue good.

Southeastern Section. The continued wet weather has retarded most of the work in the southern part of the section. The rainfall was very heavy and while it was less near the Platte river, the moist, cloudy weather and some light rain, interfered nearly as much with work. Threshing and haying made very little progress.

Corn continues to grow and matures very slowly. Some early planted corn is now sufficiently mature to be beyond injury by frost. The late corn is filling splendidly, but most of it will require three weeks of favorable weather to mature.

The soil was in good condition for plowing most of the week and generally the work progressed nicely. In places, however, the soil was too wet to work well for several days of the week. Very little fall seeding has been done.

Pastures continue in exceptionally fine condition for the season. In places, they promise a large crop, but there are but very few plums.

Northwestern Section. The moist, cloudy weather has been unfavorable for threshing and haying, and considerable hay has been discolored by rain. Shock threshing has progressed slowly, and some grain has been damaged.

Corn continues to grow well, but is maturing very slowly, and frost before the last of September would make a lot of soft corn.

Sugar beets are doing well, but need warm, dry weather.

Fall plowing is progressing well; the ground is in excellent condition for seeding. Pastures are good and cattle are looking fine.

Central Section. Wet weather has delayed haying and threshing. Much hay has been damaged by rain.

Corn continues to grow well and promises a large crop if unharmed by frost. Sugar beets are doing well, and fall plowing is progressing nicely and some little seeding has been done.

Southwestern Section. The rains of the last ten days have helped to plant the corn in the eastern and western portions of the section and it now promises a fair crop. Considerable early planted corn was damaged by frost. In other portions of the section corn is in excellent condition and promises a large crop.

The rains of the last week have retarded haying and threshing, but have plowed the ground in good condition for plowing. Potatoes are doing well. Pastures are good. Some alfalfa is being cut and a large amount of hay is being made.

Western and Northwestern Sections. In the eastern portion of this section damp weather has retarded haying and threshing, and in the western portion haying has progressed very slowly. Pastures are in fine condition and stock is doing well. Corn is late and much of it will require three weeks to mature.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—The annual convention of the Missionary district of Laramie, including the western part of Nebraska and a part of Wyoming, is in session in this city, the services being held at St. Stephen's church. The delegates from about number thirty-two, and represent the principal missionary districts throughout the Laramie jurisdiction. The sessions are presided over by Bishop Graves.

The reports from the various districts are of an encouraging nature, great progress being made. The jurisdiction reports property held by the church valued at nearly $250,000.

At a business meeting held yesterday, Rev. Louis A. Arthur of St. Stephen's Episcopal church of this city proposed the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted: Resolved: That this convention at its present session, on Labor day, a day now generally observed as a time for the consideration of the relations of capital and labor, desires to put on record its belief formally expressed, that the final solution of our present industrial problems is to be looked for in the practical application of the principles of the gospel, and a realization of the apostolic injunction, "Bear ye one another's burdens."

An informal reception was given the members and friends of the Laramie convention of the Protestant Episcopal church last evening. A fine electric display was arranged for the occasion by the city electrician, Mr. Barrett, and refreshments were served. There was a large attendance.

WORK UP AN INDIAN SCARE

Drunken Halfbreeds Do Some Shooting in Town of Napier.

MARSHAL WIRES GOVERNOR FOR ARMS

Trouble Starts Over Refusal of Saloonkeeper to Sell Liquor to a Few Drunken Halfbreeds—No Danger of Uprising.

STUART, Neb., Sept. 2.—(Special Telegram.)—Because the saloonkeeper refused to sell six half drunken half-breed Indians more liquor at Napier last Saturday morning, they became angered and fired a volley of shots on the street, but no damage was done. They left immediately for the reservation and there has not been an Indian in the town since. Timid people in that vicinity were wrought up to a stage of excitement bordering on a panic. Napier is near the reservation and the Indian settlement on Ponce creek. A three days' carnival closed there Friday night. One of the attractions was an Indian war dance. About 200 Indians were in camp there, but they had departed for the reservation Friday evening. The town marshal telegraphed the governor for arms, but it is asserted that he was worse scared than hurt, and that it was entirely unnecessary.
