NEW YORK, Sept. 7 .- In a specially constructed mortuary chapel on the upper deck of the steamer St. Louis, which reached dock today, were the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair, victims of an automobile accident in France. The chapel was draped heavily in black, caught up in broad bands of white ribbon and rare floral offerings were banked around the bier in great profusion. The caskets were consigned by Henry de Bourniel to Hermann Oelrichs. They were removed to the Grand Central depot and placed on the palace car Ben Wyzis, which was attached to the Chicago Special, which left at 6 o'clock. It was not known to the passengers of the ship that the bodies were on toard until noon on Eriday, when the ship guest of the railroad men, but today Chat- ernor's island, upper Boston harbor, blew up working in conjunction with the board of was a little more than twenty-four hours governors of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben in from Sandy Hook. Even after the ship docked and the bodies rich to confer with him in regard to the reception at Hasting , and the latter reached any one except the immediate relatives who came to claim the bodies to enter the chapel.

It was after 9 o'clock this morning when two plain black bearses, with closely drawn curtains, drove on the dock, followed by an ordinary public carriage. In the carriage were Mrs. Herman Oelrichs and Mrs. William Vanderbilt, ir., sisters of Mr. Fair. They were met at the pier by Dr. William T. Wilson of Philadelphia agents of the New York Central railroad, and Colonel Jay, who attended to the details of having the bodies removed to the lower floor of the pier, where they were placed in the second cabin waiting room. It was asserted by the quartermaster who stood guard at the gang plank that William K. Vanderbilt, fr., was also on the pier and was on the ship at the time the bodies were taken off, but if so he did not join the others in the waiting room, nor did he go to them from the pier when the bodies were taken away.

An undertaker from Trinity chapel took charge and in the presence of the two sisters the plain pine boxes were moved. Inside these boxes was a wrapping of heavy lead, hermetically scaled. This was opened and the caskets removed. Each body rested in a plain casket of maple, unpolished and unadorned with trimmings of any kind save four broad bands of silver, which were bound about each shell and riveted in place.

The caskets were borne in the hands of dock laborers, called from the gang which was already at work breaking out cargo from the ship to the waiting hearnes. Mrs. Burke. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 8.-Thomas Burke is dead at his home here, with his head almost severed from his body, and his wife is in a dangerous condition from either knife or razor wounds inflicted by Matthew Alexander, colored, who has been employed around the house for the last five years.

Alexander entered the room in which Mrs. Burke was sleeping with her 13-year- sinking of the gunboat Crete-a-Pierrot by old daughter at midnight, while her husband lay asleep on a couch on the other side of the room. CAPE HAYTIEN, Hayti, Sept. 7 .- The unboat Crete-a-Pierrot, which was in the service of the Firminist party, has been sunk at the entrance of the harbor of Gonaives by the German gunboat Panther. Details of the occurrance are lacking. The crew of the Crete-a-Pierrot left it before it went down.

The German gunboat Panther arrived at Port-au-Prince September 5. It was announced from Cape Haytien September 3. that the German steamer Markomannia, Captain Nansen, belonging to the Hamburg-American Packet company, having on board arms and ammunition sent by the provisional government to Cape Haytien, had been stopped September 2 by the Firminist gunwould be demanded. "The Foreign office agrees with the view held by the representative at Port-au-Prince," said the dispatch, "that the action of the Crete-a-Pierrot was piracy," but it was not then known whether satisfaction would be demanded at once or the result of the revolution in Hayti would be awaited.

Will Await Minister's Report

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 .- The destruction of Crete-a-Pierrot without doubt will be made the subject of an official report to this government by United States Minister Powell, who is now at Port-au-Prince. Pending the receipt of that report there is, in the opinion of the officials here who have kept in touch with affairs, little likelihood of any action by the State department, and, indeed, judging from the character of the instructions transmitted through the Navy department to Commander McCrea of Machins, there will be little disposition to question the justice of the treatment accorded Admiral Killick. The United States naval officer was specially instructed to prevent interference with commerce and in the execution of those orders he was obliged to warn the rebel admiral that he must not search foreign shipping clas Machias would use tion has been received of the destruction of its force against him.
