

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN

Baldwin of Iowa Takes Active Part in Congressional Fight.

MERCER MEN RELY LARGELY ON "BOODLE"

They Assume that Voters Are for Sale and that They Can Buy Election of Delegates in Sixth Ward.

As the fight for the republican congressional nomination proceeds the non-republican candidate becomes more and more desperate and in his frantic efforts to secure some of the delegations from the city wards he has called John N. Baldwin of Iowa, general counsel for the Union Pacific, to the ranks of his active workers.

Baldwin has been particularly busy of late among the voters of the First and Second wards who happen to be in the employ of the Union Pacific, but his efforts are not likely to bear any fruit on primary day, when every voter has the privilege of a secret ballot, and the opportunity to resent the result of being told by his employer how to exercise his inalienable rights as a citizen.

Another indication of weakness and desperation on the part of the Mercer managers is their announcement that each and every delegation they put out in Omaha will be backed by plenty of money.

Mercer has had some of his cronies in congress write him letters telling him how delighted they will be if he is returned for another term or even given a life tenure of his place as the representative of the Second Nebraska district.

NO WOMAN ON THIS BOARD

Washington Pension Authorities Turn Down Physician Proposed by Thurston County People.

Because all of the physicians of Thurston county are of the same political faith it has been decided by the secretary of the interior to abolish the pension board of that county and order all applicants for examination to the most convenient board outside the county.

The long established practice of the pension bureau has been to make these examining boards nonpartisan, or bipartisan at least. The pension board of Thurston county was thus organized until the odd physician either removed from the county or changed his political belief. A successor for this man was looked for without success until one of the other members of the board thought he had solved the problem by securing the appointment of a female physician who could be said to have no political affiliation.

The work of the Thurston county board was peculiar in that its members probably examined more Indians for pensions than any other board in the United States. During the civil war a large number of Omaha Indians enlisted in the Nebraska state service and were employed to fight the Sioux and other hostile aborigines on the plains, while the male population of the state was at the front.

RATIONS FOR SMALL ARMY

Commissary Has Good Baked Task Before Him at Fort Riley.

ARRANGING SUBSISTENCE FOR THE TROOPS Enlisted Men Will Be Cared For by the Government and Officers Will Feed with Some Contract Caterer.

Near 350,000 rations will be consumed at Fort Riley during the coming period of the maneuver division there. That will provide food for the enlisted men only. The 500 officers who will also be present will make way with another portion, but that's at their own expense.

Captain Hugh J. Gallagher, commissary, United States army, who has been appointed by Major General Bates chief commissary of the maneuver encampment, was yesterday morning ordered to proceed to Fort Riley at once in connection with those duties. "My special mission on this trip," said the chief commissary, "will be to arrange for meals for the large number of visiting officers, detached from any command, who will be present. All the rest of the provisioning is now completely provided for. The government will of course continue to feed the regular soldiers, just as always. Those commands coming from other posts to Fort Riley will bring their rations. Meanwhile there is a considerable number of rations always on hand at Fort Riley, or sufficient for three months' feed for the 1,200 men there. Then the 3,000 state militiamen who will be there will be sold their rations by the government. I have ordered a large extra supply there, as well as use of national guardsmen. This costs the government nothing, as food for such troops is bought by their respective states from the government at cost.

To Feed the Officers. "Finally, there comes the officers. Of course, the officers of the United States army will pay for their own mess, as will all private and public officers who are there with commands. But in addition to those there will be present state officers from all over the country. Each state has been invited to send men to the maneuver division to gain military knowledge and experience from the instruction there given. Most states have responded, and some with large details. Indiana, for instance, plans to have seventeen officers of the guards present.

That means anywhere between 100 and 250 unattached officers on hand, and they must be fed. My plan is simply to have some caterer handle the whole thing, providing food, utensils, service and all there will be some awaiting the Fort Riley Wednesday to make propositions."

A caller of prominence at headquarters of the Department of the Missouri yesterday was Brigadier General John Chase, adjutant general of the state of Colorado. He was in conference during the morning with Major General Bates and Colonel McClernand, adjutant general of that department. General Chase came to Omaha from Colorado to complete arrangements for the battalion of Colorado infantry which will attend the maneuver division.

AWAITS PRESIDENT'S PLEASURE Ak-Sar-Ben Governors Unable to Arrange Details Until Given Further Information.

Until they hear again from President Roosevelt the Board of Governors can make no further arrangements for the reception of the chief executive and his party than those already announced, which were but tentative, as the train may not arrive upon schedule time and the schedule may be altered from its present form. A telegram from Deadwood yesterday said: President Roosevelt has put his stamp of disapproval on the proposed cowboy race from Deadwood to Omaha and the race has been abandoned. In addition to the president's disapproval there have been several protests from humane societies. Following is the telegram received from the chief executive's secretary: OSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Captain Seth Bullock, Deadwood, S. D., referring to the proposed horse race from Deadwood to Omaha, the president would not be willing to have it take place unless it were possible to exercise the discretion which condition in which the horses would come in, and as this would be impossible, he asks you to say in his name that he requests the race not to take place.

Omaha and Winnebagoes Are Soon to Get Money from Home, Millard is Told.

According to advices received by Senator Millard the payments to be made to the Omaha and Winnebagoes Indians under act of the last congress will be some time this month.

A letter from Washington says that the secretary of the interior has given the necessary authority for the payment. In regard to the money to be paid to the Omaha and Winnebagoes, assisted by a special agent from Washington, will pay the money. Because of the fact that Agent Mathewson is bonded in a sum less than $100,000 remittances will be made to him in not exceeding $20,000 or $25,000. If all of the necessary preliminaries have been taken the payments will begin within ten days and continue without interruption until all of the funds have been distributed.

This money comes from funds belonging to the two tribes but held by the government at Washington. It was ordered paid out to them under the belief that it would permit the recipients to stock their farms and develop the lands along the theories of President Roosevelt for the amelioration of the condition of the Indians. The fact that the payment was ordered created considerable excitement among the Indians and not less among the white people residing on and near the reservation. Merchants and traders have been awaiting the payment for months, stocks having been increased and goods purchased which are believed to be particularly attractive to an Indian who has money. Horse traders and bootleggers have been waiting for the payment ever since it was ordered, and United States marshals say that it will require more than the force at the command of the Omaha to restrain the liquor traffic which will follow the distribution. In anticipation of the payment, which was expected a month or more ago, pow-wows were advertised and several were held, while others will follow the payment. The distribution of these funds is much to the legitimate business interests of Thurston county as well as to the farmers and residents predict at least a brief increase trade boom.

HARD COAL THIRTEEN A TON

Dealers Meet and Agree on Big Price for Scarce Article.

SEMI-ANTHRACITE PRICES GO UP ALSO Advance in Railroad Rates Responsible for Rise on Wyoming and Arkansas Products—Soft Coal a Little Cheaper.

Anthracite coal is $13 per ton in Omaha. This is the result of the meeting of the local coal dealers' association Monday, but it means little to the average consumer and less to the larger number of coal dealers. Inquiry yesterday shows that some of the dealers are refusing to accept orders for hard coal, that others accept the order with the understanding that they are to be filled piecemeal, and that but one company is taking orders without restriction. This company is comparatively well fixed on hard coal, but its manager says that the time may come when it will have to restrict delivery on orders.

Anthracite coal was not the only fuel that was given a boost by the meeting. Semi-anthracite, the Arkansas product, which has sold at $15.50 since its introduction in Omaha, is now quoted at $9 and $9.50. Sheridan coal, which is sold at $5 and $5.50, now sells at $5.50 and $6. Gas house coke was advanced from $7 to $7.50. The changes were not upward, however, to the Rock Springs soft coal dropped from $7.75 to $6.50, Hanna coal from $6.75 to $6, Ohio coal from $7.50 to $7, Canon City from $7.50 to $6.50.

Speaking of these changes Victor White of the Sheridan Coal company said: "The advance in Sheridan coal is due entirely to an advance in railroad rates. These rates advanced 50 cents a ton and we were compelled to place the additional cost on the selling price. I do not think that the advance is permanent, as other western roads are likely to make possible reductions in the price of soft coal, and we believe the Burlington will restore the rate to its former figure."

Restricting the Sale. George P. Crook of the Havens Coal company said: "We are restricting the sale of coal in large quantities, while we are able to supply ordinary demands of consumers, still if a large order would come in we would ask the customer to let us deliver enough to run him to January or February and deliver the remainder at that time. I do not think that conditions will get much worse. There is a quantity of coal at Burlington held ostensibly for local consumption, but I have reason to believe that some of it will come west in a short time in anticipation of a settlement of the strike and a resumption of business in the mines. There is a difference of $4 a ton between the price of anthracite and semi-anthracite today, something never before known, as the difference in the quality of the coal as a fuel cannot be more than $1, if it is that much."

Another dealer said: "While the price of anthracite is $13, the larger part of the deliveries are being made at $10 a ton, the price at which it was quoted at the opening of the season. The effect of the strike at this time is therefore more apparent than real, as few are buying at the present figures. What may come of it cannot be told, but I do not look for a much greater advance."

Speaking of the decline in the price of soft coal another dealer said: "This decline is due entirely to the fact that railroads have reduced their rates on this commodity. The Union Pacific has fixed it so that coal from its territory can be sold at the lower figures and other coal will have to follow."
