WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 .- (Special.) -- In-

bring good fortune for the south as well as LIKES AMERICAN UNIFORMS

It always happens that a good year for crops is a good year for weeds, but in our case it is better that some should prosper too much than all none at all. The gospel for intelligent hard work is the gospel that pays, and of all the gospel, the one that pays the least is that of envy and rancor, whether it is a gospel preached to inflame class against class or section against section. (Applause) And so, my fellow citizens, I hall your industrial growth; I hall the manifestation I see here in this state, and which I saw yesterday in Tennessee, the manifestation of the rapid approach of the period of tremendous industrial developments in the south. I hall it for the sake of the north.

The president was heartily cheered as Some Sure to Prosper.

The president was heartily cheered as the train pulled away.

At Statesville the president was introduced by Congressman Blackburn, who accompanied him from Asheville. He addressed the crowd for a few moments and a picture was taken of the president and his party grouped on the rear platform of his car.

For Good Citizenship. GREENSBORO, N. C., Sept. 9 .- Notwithstanding the rain, which was falling steadily, a large crowd greeted the president here. He was introduced by Congreasman Blackburn and spoke as follows dent here. He was introduced by Congressman Bisckburn and spoke as follows:

I am glad to have the chance of saying even a word to you today. It is a good thing for any American to travel through different parts of the country, but it is an especially good thing for the American who is president to do so, so as to realize the fundamental unity of our people. I have been particularly struck today in going through North Carolina with the aigns of your great industrial development. The things that divide one American from his fellow American are very small compared to the things that unite them.

A difference of section, a difference of party, is of no concern if we can develop decent citizenship in this country, and to do that we need as the foundation, but only as the foundation, industrial prosperity. That which brings it to one part of the country will bring it to all. The way you have been building up the industries here in North Carolina, as in Tennessee, is a thing that cannot but rejoice the heart of every American who realizes, as we must if we are wise, that whatever helps one part of the country helps all. If we see North Carolina prosperous, the very fact of that prosperity will tend to make the other sections of the country share more or less in it. I welcome the signs of your prosperity not merely because every decent American should be glad when any of his fellow Americans are prosperous, but because it means something to all of us.

I am glad, indeed, in passing through your beautiful country of western North Carolina, as I was in passing through eastern Tennessee, to see how you are taking advantage of your opportunities, for the opportunity can be turned to advantage only when there is the man of brains, the man of perseverance, the man of physical hardthood, who can take advantage of it. I believe in you, I believe in you and those like you are going to make of this region one of the greatest industrial centers of all the United States. (Great applause.)

GERMAN MILITARY MANEUVERS NOW ON

Artillery Duel is Fought in a Shan Fashion and Many Soldiers Show How They Could Fight if it WAS Necessary.

FRANKFORT-ON-ODER, Sept. 9 .- The war maneuvers began today. A peaceful sunlit spread of country to the west of here was covered by parties of cavalry searching the hollows and the woods for the supposed enemy or seeking to catch glimpse of him from the ridges, batter es going into action through wheat fields and beet patches, and long lines of riflemen advancing along a long line were seen. Sausage shaped war balloons were in the air and there were many more warlike signs. The artillery, of which the invading reds and the defending blues have each about 100 pleces, came into action and there were sounds of irregular firing along the far extended fronts. Six or eight miles to the rear of the two lines were the generals commanding the two lines, General Stuelpenagle of the reds, who are considered an invading Russian army, and General Von Lignitz, of the blues, who fill the role of the German defending army. Field telegraphs spread fan-like from the headquarters of each commanding general to the extended fronts and on nearly every knoll was established a telephone station. The generals were advised of what was going on on all sides, and moved their forces about in often what appeared to onlookers to be a meaningless fashion.

Duel of Artillery.

Today was spent by the contending armie in playing for positions, it was an artillery duel with occasional brushes between cavalry. The infantry never got into action. The German army of defense captured one gun from the Russians, but this was immediately retaken by the invaders. A cavsiry detachment of the blues fell into the hands of the invaders, who at the end of the day gained the superior position and were ready to push forward. Emperor William, as umpire of the maneuvers, visited both sides. The foreign guests were attached to the reds or the invading Russians and when Emperor William was on that side he was usually surrounded by a group of foreign officers in rich uniforms and the officers are prepared to believe that either a murder was committed or that it is simply evidence of an illegal burial. It was found at 2711 State street.

The other two bodies were those of bables. They were found in a wooden box, their aides and others wore the new drap covered with sawdust, in the undertaking establishment of Charles Johnson, 2709 State street. The undertaker declares there was but one body in the box and he produced a burial permit for it. William Mc-Kissock, a plumber, who made the discovery, asserts there were two bodies.

On account of the suspicion which the finding of the bodies has aroused a thorough examination of the premises will be made today to discover by excavating whether other remains have been buried

First Ward Councilman Not Inclined to Take Counsel of City Attorney as to Status of General Fund.

President Karr having returned yesterday from the west there was a full attendance at the city council meeting of last evening for the first time in many weeks. Mayor Koutsky of South Omaha was a guest of honor last evening and during the proceedings occupied a seat beside the president. Toward the close of the meeting Mr. Koutsky upon invitation, briefly addressed the council, saying that he had think that suicide is possible. noticed some differences between what he had seen this evening and the conditions gram.)—The postoffice at Clayford, Jones in his own city. > Market House Question Again. The old market house proposition bobbed up in different forms at several different stages of the proceedings and provoked extended discussion, in the course of which the well-worn arguments on both sides were thoroughly reviewed. It was first introduced in an indirect way by a report from the committee on finance recommending that a budget of miscellaneous bills entailed by the emergency hospital for the care of smallpox patients and amounting in the aggregate to about $4,000, be allowed and the comptroller instructed to include them in the next appropriation ordinance. Mr. Hascall said that although the latest statement of the comptroller showed a balance in the general fund of $10,000, he did not think any such report was justified, as the comptroller had upon advice of the city attorney excluded the market house appropriation of $15,000 from the amount set aside, and if that amount were to be included the fund would show a deficit instead of a balance. In that event there would be no money to pay the bills recommended by the finance committee and they would have to stand in abeyance. Mr. Hascall said there was at least some question as to whether the city attorney was correct in his opinion and he believed the council had a right to set aside money in the manner that had been done in this case.

Criticise Legal Opinion.

Mr. Hascall, as well as Messrs. Hoye Zimman and Lobeck, took occasion to criticise the legal opinions of the city attorney, and the comptroller for following his opinion in this case; while Mr. Mount argued that the city employed its attorney to construe the law and that the city officers should be guided by him in all matters involving legal questions. The report of the finance committee, when put to a yote, was not adopted. Messrs. Burkley, Mount and Whitehorn being the only mem bers to vote in favor of it.

The city engineer's department reported that the petition filed at the office of the city clerk August 12 by the property owners on Twenty-first street, from Spencer street to Pinkney street, asking that the street be improved by curbing and paving represents a majority of the front footage with a margin of seventy-five feet, the total frontage being 1,586 feet and the frontage represented on the petition 868 RIVELA, feet. The report was accepted and in proper course of business an ordinance ordering the improvement given its first and MISS PETERSEN BARELY ALIVE Vietim of Peter Olsen's Infatuation Slowly Sinking at the Hospital.

At 2:30 o'clock last night Mary Petersen, the young woman shot through the left breast Monday night by Peter Olsen, a rejected suitor, was reported to be slowly losing ground and was not expected to live more than a few hours. At 11 o'clock she was removed from her home at 2406 Pacific street in the police ambulance to St. Joseph's hospital. It was feared that blood poisoning might set in if she remained in the cramped bedroom of the little house. Of the man Olsen no olew has yet been found. After his visit to Ruser's park there is no further trace of him. The adjoining
