COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL Movement of Wheat Fails to Materialize

Day Before.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Cereals acted bullish today. The often predicted big movement of wheat northwest failed to appear, the weather worked against the maturing of corn and stocks of grains generally were decreasing to a bullish degree. With these conditions and more outside business developing the bull view of the market spread and after early dips prices closed firm. September wheat the corn to be higher, September corn to be higher, December corn to be higher. December corn to be higher. January provisions closed the higher. January provisions closed the higher. January provisions closed the that has prevailed for several days. The cause was probably the dip in corn. Soon, however, several very good buil argunents were considered, and although at no time was the buil movement strong, yet the season ended with good advances. Cables were unexpectedly irmer and the big receipts heralded for the northwest dwindled down to insignificance when the figures were put on paper. A leading elevator house started a good buying movement and gradually most of the crowd followed after. Statistics were somewhat bullish. The northwestern wheat stocks have decreased 2.820,000 bushels, but the poverty of quality in the receipts did much to counteract any hearish influence from that quarter. There was some disposition to sell May stuff, but in spite of the duil spots in the market the general sentiment favored buying and was augmented late in the day by an excellent export demand. The weather in the spring country, which is yet much of a faction, was favorable. September wheat started is favorable. September in the spring country, which is yet much of a faction, was favorable. Corn ruled firm, but the market showed no great change in prices. At the outset prices fell off because the light frosts in Nebraska and Iowa were not of the dameging kind. Further, there was a strong early drive by prominent bears to break prices—something that has occurred regularly for several days past. The weakness, however, was only momentary. Inherent strength in the corn situation started good buying and there was rapid absorption of offerings. The principal buillish incentives were decreased country offerings, firm cables and reduced stocks. All the news was not buillish, for the southwest was expecting an increased movement soon and warmer weather was predicted. Leaders felt, however, that the cool wather and rains, without frost, were against the hardening of corn. Iowa especially has had too much rain. December sold off early to 42\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\frac{1}\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\frac{1}\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\frac\)\(\frac{1}\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\fra export.

Trade in oats was light but prices advanced with other grains. Early offerings brought slight dips. Standard oats in store increased 28,000 bushels, but all old. There were only 190,600 bushels of this grade here. Howa crops were reported hurt to some extent by the heavy rains. September sold from 3%c to a firm close, 360%c higher, at 34%634%c. December sold early at 30%c, advanced to 31%c and closed firm, 360%c pp, at 31%c. Receipts were liberal at 476 %ars, but only 6 were of contract grade. Provisions ruled dull and slightly firmer with hogs. Fluctuations were very narrow. January pork closed 5c up at $14.95, January pibs 2%c higher at $4.90 and January ribs 2%c higher at $4.85.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 185 cars; corn, 50 cars; oats, 160 cars; hogs, 25,000 head.

8 HEEP-Fresh receipts of sheep were 1 Heral again today and as there were a good many of vesterday's late arrivals carried over the number on sale this morning was very large. The demand on the part of both packers and feeders was in good shape, so that activity characterized the general situation.

Packers all took hold in good shape of the fat sheep and yearlings and good steady prices were paid for the more desirable grades. A string of Beckstead sheep and lambs arrived and the ewes, wethers and yearlings sold straight at $2.65. The better grades of sheep were soon disposed of and the prices paid were very satisfactory.
The lamb market was rather dull and weak. Buyers did not seem to be as anxious for the lambs as they were for the sheep, and the morning was well advanced before many iambs had changed hands.
The demand for feeders was active and the market could be quoted steady on all desirable grades.
