A Few More Pointers Nebraska

About the Omaha Commercial College 17th and Douglas Sts.,

ROHRBOUCH BROS., Proprs.

POINTER NO. 1—At the top of Page 4 in today's Omaha Bee will be found a comparison between Gregs and Improved Gregs Shorthand. Three prizes, aggregating $150. are offered. Every Gregs writer and student, by referring to these prizes, will learn something of value. We claim that improved Gregs Shorthand, as now taught at the Omaha Commercial College, is as much an improvement over the Gregs system as Graham was over Pitman. Pure Gregs Shorthand as presented in the revised edition of Mr. Gregs is crude, undeveloped and sadly needs revision. His outlines are extremely long and in order to shorten them he destroys the legibility, the primary essential of every system of Shorthand. We have invited Mr. Gregs to contest for one of these prizes and hope he will do so.

POINTER NO. 2—New students are still coming from every quarter and all departments are rapidly filling up. A class of Physical Culture will start Monday with about fifty members. The Omaha School of Law will open in our rooms October 1. Two public entertainments have already been given. Every department is thoroughly organized and the work is moving along as never before.

POINTER NO. 3—Our Night School has an enrollment of nearly thirty students. An additional teacher has been secured to take care of our Night School. Several new students will enter next week.

POINTER NO. 4—We want places for nice young ladies to work for board and room while going to school. We want ten places tomorow for young men to work for board.

POINTER NO. 5—The Omaha Commercial College is the only one in Omaha employing an expert penman. Instead of but one it has two, thus giving students additional advantages. Every student taking a commercial course ought to be under the tuition of a professional business writer. ROHRBOUCH BROS., Proprs.
