Making a Good Start.

The republican committee is making a good start toward a campaign. This is the second year of the chairmanship of Mr. Spence, and the experience of last year has enabled him to pick his ground carefully. The district conferences held the past week in Fort Dodge, New Hampton, Burlington, Waterloo and elsewhere, have been highly satisfactory. At these conferences the chairman of county committees are present with some of the local candidates and leading speakers of the districts. In most cases the candidates for congress have also been present to consult with the committeemen. Details of party organization are talked over plans made for collection of the necessary funds for the campaign, the work of polling the counties by voting precincts is mapped out and the work of the speak-700 ers is discussed.
