TO THE MEMORY OF A MARTYR

Special McKinley Memorial Services Held in Three of the Churches.

REFERENCE MADE TO THE DAY IN OTHERS

Character of the Man Extolled and Lessons Which Nation Draws from His Life Are Pointed Out.

While in but three churches of the city the pastor, preached memorial sermons, tribute to the memory of President McKinley was made generally by all the congregations yesterday, either at the morning or evening service, by reference to the day by the pastors in their sermons or by singing of the martyr's songs.

Rev. G. W. Snyder, of St. John's English Lutheran church, at the morning service, took the text for his memorial sermon, Hebrews 11:4, "He Being Dead, Yet Speaketh." Saying in part:

"Earth's first death was that of a martyr to principle and truth. The words of the text refer to him and declare that he yet speaks. Every martyr to truth and right continues to speak. Our three martyred presidents, Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley yet speak. One year ago today there passed from earth, through a wound, inflicted by an assassin's hand, one of the most lovely characters, the most devoted husband and the most kind and best of rulers the earth ever saw. For a tribute to his memory we are here today."

for what he speaks to us through his life and death. He tells us what can be accomplished by one born in humble circumstances, who is intelligent and upright. He teaches us that religion need not be sacrificed to enter a political life, but that it should be used to purify the latter. He teaches us the value of editorial criticism and how the chief executive of this great nation by being faithful to duty and having interests of the whole country at heart can win the respect and hearts of all nations and all classes. In his death he speaks to us earnestly and imploringly against all forms of anarchy and that which leadeth thereto. He therein demands that manifestation of governmental authority and power that will suppress and keep in subjection the evil uprisings against divinely instituted institutions."

Proof of Patriotism.

Rev. James Thomas, pastor of the First Congregational church, paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of President McKinley at the evening service. He spoke of the martyrized president as the Christian patriot and said in part:

"Mr. McKinley gave proof of his patriotism, when there could be no selfish purpose inspiring him. He entered into the civil war as a private soldier. To the officers war presents an opportunity for advancement and glory, but there is no such inducement held out to him who enlists in the ranks."

"In all his career as president, his patriotism was never called in question. The interests of party did not lead him away from his duty to the country. His country was at all times first in his thoughts."

"One effect, then, of the life of Mr. McKinley is that he set up a standard of what the character of those must be, whom the nation entrusts with the highest place in its power to bestow. The country will demand that the chief executive be a patriot before he is a politician."

"McKinley, however, was more than a patriot; he was above all a Christian. In his life he emphasized the Christian home, which he learned from his father, his mother's knee. He received his education in a Christian college. The foundation of his character lay in the fact that he in his youth confessed Jesus Christ as his Savior and ideal. He tried to walk in the footsteps of the Son of Man. The principles of his character were those of Christ."

"McKinley laid stress upon the teaching of the word of God. His bible was his counselor and guide. He was not ashamed to own that he believed in the power of prayer. He practiced the presence of God in his private and official life. His home life was beautiful and Christlike. No breath of scandal ever smirched his reputation. Mr. McKinley set high value upon the house of God. He revered the sacred sanctuary and the holy sabbath day. "It is a matter for devout thankfulness that his successor, Mr. Roosevelt, is in these matters showing the same Christian example. God's house and book and Sabbath are held sacred by our present chief executive, and so long as we select men of this Christian type to fill our highest offices we may rely upon it that our great republic will endure, a land not only where peace and liberty are to be found, but where righteousness prevails."

Not Soon Forgotten.

Rev. Harvey Hostetter, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, in his memorial sermon last evening, said in part:

"It scarcely needed the suggestion of president or governor that today be observed as a day of special honor to the memory of President McKinley. A generous and kindly people do not readily forget the men they have deeply loved, but it is well that this memorial honor have the sanction and approval of those high in authority."

"A year has brought some changes in the life and thought of our people. The keenness and sharpness of our grief has disappeared, although the cruel lessons of the tragedy have not been forgotten, nor is their significance changed. The heart of our people revolted at the anarchy that made a great crime possible. Public sentiment has been aroused. Men have felt that law and order must be maintained."

Do Not Believe It is Carns. SIOUX CITY, Ia., Sept. 14.—(Special.)—The Sioux City police, who ever since yesterday have been searching for the man who called at the home of Jacob I. Lewis, and was thought to have been the murderer of Sheriff Strain, tonight arrested a man whom they believe to be the same one who called on Lewis. He was arrested below the Omaha bridge, and gave the name of James Rogers. His right hand was injured in some way, though it is impossible to tell just how. Lewis will be called in to identify him tomorrow morning. The police do not believe it is Carns.

Iowa Municipal League Meeting. IOWA FALLS, Neb., Sept. 14.—(Special.)—The program has just been issued for the annual convention of the League of Iowa municipalities, of which a large number of Iowa cities and towns are members and which is devoted to the advancement of municipal affairs. The meeting this year will be held at Iowa City October 8 and 9. Addresses of welcome will be made by Mayor F. K. Stebbins, on behalf of the city, and Dr. George E. Macdonald, most jovial university. The response will be made by Mayor W. H. Wray of Okaloosa.

Settle Street Car Strike. OTTUMWA, Ia., Sept. 14.—The street car strike here was settled tonight.

Iowa State News Notes. The National Paper Company will erect an immense factory in Sioux City.

The Quakers are holding the yearly meeting of their state association at Okaloosa. The meeting of the Marshallowbrook broke down last Friday night and fourteen weddings were duly solemnized.

Former Governor Horace Boies, now running for congress, is something of a farmer himself, owning a farm of over 4,000 acres at Okaloosa.

J. E. Calahan of Clarinda, has arranged to start four daily newspapers. The towns he has in view are Clarinda, Sibley, Hamburg and Red Oak.

A man by the name of Daniel Boone died the other day in Jefferson City. The local papers explain that he never owned a gun nor hunted a deer.

The coal dealers at Sioux City report that all of them together have not so much as a ton of hard coal.

Charley Fung Hung had $200 in bills hid away in his laundry. He was blind and was accidentally kindled the other day and before it could be put out the money was burned up.

Mrs. M. A. Shahan at Grinnell was canning tomatoes and had just sealed one can when it exploded, killed her child by scalding contents and injuring her so badly that she has lost the use of her hands.

The thief who robbed Thomas Blubbak at Iowa City of a pocketbook containing $25 and two valises, has been caught and turned the latter by mail. For this good act he is rewarded himself by keeping the $25.

At Red Oak the wife of Senator Junkin accidentally got hold of a live wire in the cellar and received a fatal shock. She was taken to hospital, but died before she could be moved.

Because a sweet and winsome telephone girl answered her calls promptly, talked sweet to him over the phone and always looked to it that he was given the right number, James A. Giesler, the wealthy banker, a prominent man in Muscatine, fell in love with her and so they were wed Friday.

The biggest mass meetings ever held in Marshalltown are now being held at the city of the location of the government building for which congress at the last session made a nice appropriation. It is a fight between the eastenders and the westenders, and it is reported that "the devout west" has the best of it.

COURT UPHOLDS THE JURY LAW

Trial of Tom Horn for Murder of Young Nickell Will Now Be Proceeded With.

CHEYENNE, Sept. 14.—(Special.)—In the state supreme court yesterday a decision was handed down in the noted jury test case, the court sustaining the constitutionality of the jury law. The verdict was assailed by the county authorities of this Laramie county on the ground that the five-mile limit clause was invalid. The chief object of the county attorney in causing the matter to be brought to the attention of the supreme court, was a decision was to settle the validity or invalidity of the law so that the case of Tom Horn, charged with the murder of Willie Nickell, could be proceeded with without fear of leaving grounds on which the defense could demand another trial on the ground that the county attorney alleged defects in the jury law. Now that the jury law has been declared constitutional, the trial of Tom Horn will be commenced on September 15.

Idaho Man Seeks His Wife.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 14.—(Special.)—John Block of Wallace, Idaho, has been conducting a search here for his wife, who is alleged to have eloped with Oscar Hossey from Wallace on March 21, 1901. Block says he has followed the trail of his wife through a dozen states and finally located them in Cheyenne, but when he reached the city they had gone to Colorado. Block says he cares nothing for his wife, but he seeks possession of his two daughters, who are supposed to be with their mother. Block offers a reward of $100 for information that will lead to the arrest of his wife. He has gone to Colorado to continue the search there.

Passes Worthless Checks.

LARAMIE, Wyo., Sept. 14.—(Special.)—A number of business men and ranchmen in this section are searching for a smooth young man, said to be the son of a prominent commission merchant in Cheyenne, who visited here last week and is alleged to have swindled them out of various amounts of money. The fellow represented himself to be a cattle buyer. He rented teams and drove over the country, paying his expenses with worthless checks and receiving sums of money on others. He disappeared five days ago and presumably went west. The authorities are on his trail and a sensation promises to develop if he is captured.

Rich Strike of Silver.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 14.—(Special.)—People in the Hartville, Gunnery and Sunrise districts, in northern Laramie county, are greatly excited over a rich strike of copper and silver in the Silver Glance mine on the headquarters of Muskrat creek, owned by Superintendent Gilechrist of the Sunrise Iron mines, operated by the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, O. L. Vincent of Frederick, and others.

Civil Prohibition Convention.

HURON, S. D., Sept. 14.—(Special.)—A call has been issued by A. H. Reed, secretary of the Beadle county prohibition committee, for a convention of representatives of that party to meet in this city on Monday, September 22, for the purpose of nominating a county and legislative ticket.

HORSE SHOW AND VETERANS HELP OUT

Now Thought that Mother May Be the One Who So Cruelly Beat the Little Thompson Child.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, Sept. 14.—(Special.)—The city of Des Moines commenced a busy week today. The meeting of the Odd Fellow lodge for the entire United States and Canada commences tomorrow morning, a meeting of the state Union Veterans Union commences in the afternoon and the Des Moines Horse Show commences Monday evening. The horse show this year promises to eclipse all former shows, and the last two years the Des Moines exhibition of fancy horse flesh has compared favorably with the finest exhibitions in the larger cities of the country. More than a thousand horses have been entered for the competition, and these include horses from a dozen states of the union and from Canada. The association of large horse raisers has been a number of handsome trophies are to be conferred. The show is to be in the pavilion belonging to the state on the state fair grounds and it is one of the finest places for an exhibition of the kind ever conducted. The show is to be held at Iowa City October 3 and 4. Addresses of welcome will be made by Mayor F. K. Stebbins, on behalf of the city, and Dr. George E. Macdonald, most jovial university. The response will be made by Mayor W. H. Wray of Okaloosa.
