

WHEN THE GOOD KING COMES

Society is Wandering What to Wear to the Coronation Ball.

ONE MYSTERIOUS BUT GORGEOUS GOWN

Suspicious Peek into the Sanctum of a Local Modiste Betrays the Existence of a Wonderful Creation for Someone.

Already society is beginning to talk about the Ak-Sar-Ben hall and what it proposes to wear on that notable occasion...

A number of smart women who happened to meet in the reception room of one of the local modistes one morning last week caught a glimpse through a door that stood open for a few seconds of a gown of a material and making that stamped it as possible for but two purposes.

Weddings and rumors of weddings—that is what society has been talking about of late, and no wonder, for in addition to an admirable list of definite affairs, there is a longer list of indefinite ones, which fact serves to render them doubly interesting.

Among the largest of the week's affairs was the reception given from 2 until 6 o'clock on Friday afternoon by Mrs. Marvin Porter and Mrs. Sarson at their home on Lowe avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Chapman announce the engagement of their daughter, May, to Mr. Robert H. Peck, the marriage to take place early in October.

TO RECEIVE THE PRESIDENT

Elaborate Plans Being Laid by Board of Governors of Ak-Sar-Ben.

BRIEF VISIT WILL BE MADE PLEASANT

Details Not All Worked Out, but Arrangements Made Indicate the Nature of the Reception to Be Given.

Arrangements for the reception and entertainment of President Roosevelt in Omaha next Saturday evening are being carried steadily forward and although the details have been by no means completed it is assured that there will be nothing lacking that could in any way contribute to the pleasure and distinguished guests.

The preparations on behalf of the board of governors of the Ak-Sar-Ben for the president's entertainment are under the direction of a committee consisting of Melvin S. Uhl, Gould P. Dietz and Fred Metz. When the president and his party arrive throughout the city depot by the board of governors of the Ak-Sar-Ben, who will act as the reception committee and escort the visitors to the Omaha club, where dinner will be served. The dinner at the club will be an elaborate affair as to menu and appointments. The party will include only the presidential party, numbering about forty to fifty persons, and about the same number of people invited to meet the president. The club house and particularly the reception and dining rooms will be decorated handsomely for this occasion.

The great event of the president's visit will be the grand electric parade, which will be given at that time particularly for his entertainment and which he will review from the stand in front of the city hall.

The board of governors will participate in the parade and after the dinner at the club the president will be taken under the escort of Mayor Moore and a committee of citizens who will conduct him to the reviewing stand and care for his comfort while there.

Grand Stand Made Safe. The position from which President Roosevelt will view the parade and the attendant demonstration is on the main portion of the temporary staging which has been erected in front of the city hall—the portion which is directly in front of the entrance to the building. This platform has been built under the almost constant supervision of Building Inspector Carter and such precautions have been taken that the risk of an accident, in this respect, will be seated the president and his party, the mayor and his attendant committee, a limited number of representatives of the press and the city officials.

The entire management of the city hall stands has been placed in the hands of a committee of the city council appointed at the last meeting of that body and consisting of Councilmen Whitehorn, Karr, Burkley and Zimmerman. It will not only devolve upon this committee to see that all portions of the city hall gallery are properly decorated and equipped with chairs and other conveniences, but to those gentlemen also will fall the allotment of seats which carries with it the opportunity to confer favors in many ways, but also entails the risk of offending many who will apply and cannot be provided for. This committee will meet on Monday to complete its arrangements.

Illumination Plans. The entire front of the city hall building will be brilliantly illuminated with electric lights and the plans for this year include in addition to the customary border lights and clusters at the architectural entrance of the building, a shield designed in lights of red, white and blue and eight feet in height, to be placed on the front of the building, reaching from the third to the fourth story. The city electrician has also designed a most attractive plan of illumination for the president's stand, which includes four posts at the corners which will support vari-colored cluster lights.
