The banquet was the culmination of an extremely brilliant day for the president. At 11 o'clock he drove to the Light guard armory and attended the opening of the third annual reunion of the Spanish war veterans. From the armory he drove to the steamer Tashmoo, on board of which he spent three hours riding on the river, During the ride the steamer went far enough into Canadian waters so that the president was for a short time in King Edward's domain.

The president returned at 3 o'clock and participated in the parade of the Spanish war veterans, which later he reviewed. For what is believed to have been the first time in the history of the country a president of the United States this afternoon reviewed a regiment of British troops. The Twenty-first Essex Fusiliers participated in the parade by the special permission of this government and the Canada militia department. At the banquet this evening the president called Lieutenant Colonel Bartlett, their commander, to his table and congratulated him nce o received a veritable ovation on the line.

He was given an enthusiastic reception as he ascended the platform and greeted the president. Captain Hobson did not arrive in the city until this evening and came direct to the armory. The presidential party was seated at a long table on a platform at the north end of the armory, at which covers were laid for twenty-two.

Afternoon Address. In concluding his afternoon address the president said: And so it is now. Our people went forth in the Spanish war, went forth to free Cuba, to give Porto Rico a happiness it has never had and to bring the light of civilization into the darkness in the Phitippines. We are proud of the men who did that work. We intend that their work shall be done beneficiently and for a good purpose. Through the advice and the help of civil and religious teachers of civilization among our people and in the islands we are going to get the best results for the people of the islands and of what has been done. And so it is now. Our people went forth

I don't make any apology for our soldiers or the score of good citizenship, and don't make any apologies for the Spanish war or the war in the Philippines. There have been occasional deeds of wrong committed. There were 70.000 men there and some of them did not behave as they ought. Have we all always been immaculate at home? (Applause and laughter.) If a man does wrong punish him, of course, but don't make the mistake of fixing the eye on the unimportant fire and losing sight of the great blaze.

LETTER FROM MRS. SLAUGHTER Wife of the Captuln Announces Her Safe Arrival and Good Health in Manila.

A letter received from Mrs. Bradner D. Slaughter by her daughters in this city announces her safe arrival at Maniia, where she joined her husband. Captain Slaughter of the United States army. Mrs. Slaughter says she found her husband and son-in-law, John Lotteridge, in good health, and that they had not been sick since they reached the islands last year. There is much sickness among the officers of the army, however, and for that reason Major Slaughter and his clerk are required to do much extra duty. The trip out was made with exceptional good fortune by the ship carrying Mrs. Slaughter.

No one was sick during the entire trip and they had a clean bill of health at every port, something remarkable in vessels plying between the United States and the Philippines. Mrs. Slaughter will re-The Omaha Builders club held its first main in Manila until the return of he
