Secretary Smith Says Omaha Committee Has Done Better Advertising Than Any Former Local Organization.

Benjamin L. Smith, secretary of the American Christian Missionary society, the chief officer of the convention which will be in secsion in Omaha in October, speut Sunday in the city on his way from Okiahoma to the headquarters of the society in Cincinnati. He visited the Coliseum and other places which are to be utilized by the convention and expressed great satisfaction over the progress made. He was one of the secretaries who was not favorable at first to the use of the Collseum, but the plans for its alteration have caused him to change his mind.

Mr. Smith said that the Omaba committee more than any local committee in charge of a convention in many years, had done an amount of advertising adequate to the size of the meeting, and that the Omaha gathering was the best advertised convention in would probably be attended by more people

It Will Reach Into Boyd County to Compete with Northwestern.

NEW VERDIGRIS LINE BRINGS TROUBLE

Officials of Milwankee Road Consider that Northwestern Has Violated an Agreement by Going Into Boyd County.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul is taking steps to build into Boyd county, Nebraska, recently penetrated by the Verdigris extension of the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley, and thereon "hangs a

For some years the Northwestern and Milwaukee managements have observed an igreement not to disturb each other's bustness in this and certain other sections by building competing lines. The Milwaukee claimed the territory through which the Northwestern system has projected its new Elkhorn branch as its own and considered the agreement violated by the Northwestern when the new line was decided on and constructed. The action of the Milwaukee now in extending a spur from its main line into Boyd county is, therefore, retaliatory and taken purely in self-defense, or as a means of preserving its interests there against the effective bid for patronage which its rival is bound to make.

This friction between these two roads disturbs amicable relations which have been regarded as profitable to both companies and precipitates what railroad men are disposed to predict a sharp and bitter rivalry in this new territory. Great possibilities for railroad development are contained in the projects of both roads, for the country over which they are at issue is comparatively new so far as railroads are concerned and is believed to be on the verge of expansion. It has eminent resources and is attracting a great deal of attention. An extensive area of tributary territory lies back of it which is sure to come to the front in time, and a very short time, too, doubtless, so that it offers splendid opportunities to the railroads, too good apparently to be overlooked merely because of a little thing like a "mutual agreement" between two great competitive companies. The Milwaukee has gone so far in its plans as to send a corps of engineers into the territory and surveys are being made as rapidly as possible to determine the best and most feasible routes. It is understood that the Milwaukee will run its extension out from Running Water, bringing it across the Missouri river at that point and carry it to the western border of Boyd county, forming the nearest parallel possible with the Elkhorn.

Enlarging Motive Facilities.

Several of the roads converging in Omaha are busily engaged in enlarging their motive power capacities by the purchase of new engines. This is due principally to increase in business, and in some cases to the construction of new lines. The Elkhorn has ordered ten ten-wheel locomotives, which additional business and the building of the Verdigris branch make necessary; the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha has placed an order for five passenger and fifteen freight engines; the Northwestern for yesterday.

I. L. Rhoades, formerly of Omaha, now purchasing agent of the Oregon Short Line at Sait Lake, passed through Omaha on his way east on a business trip.

The Northwestern expects to run excursion trains out of the city east Wednesday and Thursday nights to accommodate the Ak-Sar-Ben visitors. The plans will depend upon the size of crowds.

Motive power officials of the Burlington pend upon the size of crowds.

Motive power officials of the Burlington lines held a star chamber session at the Burlington depot yesterday and adjusted a lot of routine matters pertaining to their trains and the complicated system of rules for handling them.

for handling them.

General Manager Bidwell, General Passenger Agent Buchanan and General Freight Agent J. A. Kuhn of the Elkhorn, and M. M. Betzner of Sloux City, the Northwestern's agent there, have gone to Chicago on official business.

Chicago on official business.

John Langtree, for a quarter of a century supervisor of the bridge and building department of the Union Pacific, has resigned, and will be succeeded by Joseph H. Howe, the change to become effective October I. Mr. Langtree has recently returned from an extended trip to the Pacific coast and may become located out there later.

As showing the facility with which a special train can be arranged for service, the Burlington put one into shape Sunday within thirty minutes after the order for it was received. A flock of Eagles from Council Bluffs, who wanted to go to Lincoln on an excursion, made the demand at the Burlington station and were on the train haif an hour later, and, according to Burlington officials, in the quiet little town down the line within an hour and a half.
