

TOO SOFT FOR DAN PATCH

Track at Cincinnati in No Condition for Record Making.

HE DOES WELL TO GO MILE IN 2:03

Horsemen See in Advance that to Equal His Old Record is Out of the Question—Summary of Races.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 6.—Despite the raw weather, 5,000 people gathered at the Oakley track to see Dan Patch go against the world's pacing record today. The horse was in fine condition, but the track was not, and he failed to lower his mark of 1:58 1/2, although he went the mile in 2:03, a remarkable performance, all things considered. There was no betting on Dan Patch's performance, as it was generally conceded by the horsemen that a record-breaking mile would be impossible on account of the track, which was dry but soft. Dan Patch was paced by a running horse named a sulky. He negotiated the first quarter in 0:31, the half in 1:08, three quarters in 1:31 1/2, and the full mile in 2:03. He was driven by M. E. McHenry.

Results: The Ohio purse for 211 trotters, best three in five, value $10,000. Arzella, b. m. by Antrim-Hazel Kirk (Stanhope) 2 4 7 1 1 1 Major Delmar, b. g. (B. McDonald) 2 1 2 2 2 2 Rhythmic, b. g. (H. J. Curry) 2 2 2 2 2 2 The King, b. g. (B. J. Curry) 2 2 2 2 2 2 Oganam, b. m. (Henson) 2 2 2 2 2 2 Studie J., m. (Peterson) 2 2 2 2 2 2 Baron Deshay, b. h. (McHenry) 2 2 2 2 2 2 Monte Carlo, b. g. (Stowers) 2 2 2 2 2 2 Nut Hunter, b. g. (Poots) 2 2 2 2 2 2 Time: 2:10, 2:10 1/2, 2:11, 2:12, 2:12 1/2, 2:13 1/2. Pacing, 2:06 class, purse $1,000, best three in five: Fannie Dillard, b. m. by Hal Dillard-Ella M. (Howe) 2 1 1 1 1 Little Squaw, blk. m. (Curtis) 2 2 2 2 2 Colosse, b. g. (MacDonald) 2 2 2 2 2 Nathan Straus, br. g. (Curry) 2 2 2 2 2 The Bishop, b. g. (Wilson) 2 2 2 2 2 Tom Riley, h. m. (Hudson) 2 2 2 2 2 Little Smart, ch. m. (Loomis) 2 2 2 2 2 Time: 2:07 1/2, 2:08, 2:07 1/2, 2:08.

Power's Club League Presidents. NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—President P. T. Powers of the National Association of Professional Base Ball Leagues has issued a call to all the league and club presidents in the association to attend the second annual meeting, which will be held in this city Thursday, October 23. The call says that business of vital importance will be brought before the delegates and the report of the work done by the organization during the season just ended will show that it has been successful.

Doherty Brothers Winners. LONDON, Oct. 6.—The final in the doubles for the covered court lawn tennis championship of Europe, which was postponed Saturday after three sets, was concluded today and resulted in the Doherty brothers defeating G. W. Hilliard and G. H. L. Gault by the score of 2-6, 5-7, 10-8, 6-2, 6-2.

Southern Pacific Plan Abandoned. NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The tentative plan of the Southern Pacific directors to issue $25,000,000 for improving the system has been abandoned, as a representative of E. H. Harriman said today. It is understood that conditions are regarded as unfavorable to such a plan at this time.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY. Genuine Carter's Little Liver Pills. Must Bear Signature of Dr. J. C. Carter.

Very small and so easy to take on a journey. CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. FOR HEADACHE, FOR DIZZINESS, FOR BILIOUSNESS, FOR TORPID LIVER, FOR CONSTIPATION, FOR SALLOW SKIN, FOR THE COMPLEXION.

Not in Nature for anyone is always tired. There is no need to drag out an existence without ambition. Weak nerves, depression, debility and varicose veins, diseased nerves, whether due to overwork, over-indulgence or any other cause, can be made strong as steel by the use of Sexin Pills.

Radam's Microbe Killer. Cures all Blood and Chronic Diseases. Kills the microbes of the lungs and cures Consumption; kills the microbes of the kidneys and cures Bright's Disease; kills the microbes of the throat and cures Diphtheria; kills the microbes of the skin and cures Eczema; kills the microbes of the blood and cures Rheumatism, Catarrh and all other Blood and Chronic Diseases. Can be used for free history of remedy and testimonials.

FOR DRUNKARDS. WHITE DOVE CURE. Cures all cases of alcoholism, whether the patient is a teetotaler or a confirmed drunkard. It is the only cure that does not injure the system and does not require the use of any other medicine.

SULTAN WARNED TO BE GOOD

General Sumner, Commanding Forces at Mindanao, Sends Him Threatening Ultimatum.

MANILA, Oct. 6.—General Sumner, who is in command of the American forces in Mindanao island, has sent an ultimatum to the sultan of Bicolola, warning him to cease his opposition to the Americans, calling his attention to the results of the Madia campaign and promising him the same punishment if he continues his opposition. Whatever the sultan's reply may be, immediate action against him is not probable.

General Sumner has sent a battalion of infantry back to Malabang and is going himself to Iligan to prepare plans for the construction of a trail from Iligan to Lake Lanao. The insular government has appropriated $50,000 to fight cholera in the province of Holo, Panay. Although the number of cholera cases in this province has decreased there is still an average of 1,600 cases a day.

The key to health is in the kidneys and liver. Keep these organs active and you have health, strength and cheerful spirits. Prickly Ash Bitters is a stimulant for the kidneys, regulates the liver, stomach and bowels. A golden household remedy.

FOR THE WATER CURE

(Continued from First Page.)

Contended and Happy. Working for themselves among their homes and living in the midst of congenial neighbors, what have they to fear? They are not afraid of the water cure. Think of the people who combine the social advantages of town life with the industrial independence of rural life. They are not afraid of the water cure. They are not afraid of the water cure. They are not afraid of the water cure.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

Prizes Dietrich and Others. Congressman Shafroth of Colorado, in his address paid glowing tributes to Galusha Groves of Pennsylvania, the man who was father of the homestead act in 1861 and who also voted for the irrigation act in 1890.

BUSY DAY FOR THE UMPIRES

Much Imaginary Blood Shed in Manoeuvres at Fort Riley.

MAJOR LEACH CLEVER AT DEFENSE

Throws Up Entrenchments of Deceptive Nature and Twenty-second Infantry Men Are Plunged Into Fierce Fire Unawares.

FORT RILEY, Kan., Oct. 6.—While fully as practical as any of the preceding manoeuvres, today's exercises contained a larger element of the spectacular than any that have preceded them, and it is not likely that any of those still to come will equal the work of today.

Major Leach of the engineers, commanding the Blues, defended a position with what all the military critics concede was very great skill. General Kobbe, leading the Browns, made dispositions for attack that were praised fully as highly as Major Leach's defensive disposition. Moreover, General Kobbe pushed home his attack with a fierceness and energy which, had the combat occurred in actual warfare, must have caused heavy losses to both sides. At the close of the fighting, General Kobbe had been badly crippled, but he was coming on to make a final rush for the trenches. His men were dashing down a slope fully exposed to the rifle fire of an entrenched line, and after descending this and passing through a ravine, his men had still to make a dash across a ravine before reaching the entrenchments. The critics say that this was hardly possible. Still, General Kobbe had two full imaginary regiments in reserve, and even though repulsed the first time, his game was far from being played to the finish.

The plan of the manoeuvre was given in the orders for the day as follows: A western force of the Blues is operating against a Brown force in the east, located northeast of St. Marys, Kan. The Blues depend upon the Union Pacific railway for supplies. The main force of the Blues beyond St. Marys has met with a defeat, and has been temporarily thrust off its line of direct communication with Fort Riley. Owing to the reverse of the main army of the Blues the Blue force at Fort Riley cannot expect outside aid from any direction. A strong force of the Browns is advancing to seize the important depot of supplies at Fort Riley, destroy the stores and cripple the Union Pacific railroad for several days.

Makeup of the Forces. The attacking force of the Browns was made up of the Eighteenth Infantry, Twenty-second Infantry, Colorado battalion, eight troops of the Fourth cavalry and three troops of the Eighth cavalry. There were also two imaginary regiments. The Seventh, Nineteenth and Twentieth batteries made up the artillery.

The Blues under Major Leach consisted of the Sixth Infantry, the First battalion of engineers acting as infantry, the Sixth and Twenty-eighth batteries, the latter being another mountain battery of much lighter weight in the field and Troop A of the Eighth cavalry under Captain Donaldson.

The entrenchments for the defense were made under the direction of Captain J. B. Cavanaugh of the Engineers, and were most skillfully constructed. The loose earth thrown up in creating the trench was covered with grass, placed at a right angle to the line of the trench. This gave to the eye at a distance of 100 yards very little indication of the location of the trenches. When the Browns army moved out from camp to take the position from which it later advanced to win a victory, it passed greatly to the disgust of the umpires, within 1,500 yards of the Blues, who were at the time throwing up dirt for dear life. The location of the entrenchments was in plain view and the officers of the Browns could not avoid seeing the Blues at work. Later in the morning they were unable to see these very same trenches and their men suffered heavily in front of them. As an object lesson of well-considered defenses, the work of Major Leach and his men today would be difficult to surpass.

When the Battle Opened. Donaldson's cavalry, pushed out in front of the main line of defense, was thrown in contact with the scouts of the Browns and was forced backward to the line of infantry. When the battle opened a strong bill on the right of the line was held by the command of Major R. H. R. Loughborough of the Sixth Infantry. It comprised company D of the Engineers, commanded by Captain J. B. Cavanaugh, four companies of the Sixth Infantry under Captain B. W. Atkinson, two guns of the Sixth field artillery and two of Menorah's Howitzers. The center was held by Major Morton of the Sixth cavalry, with one company of engineers, two companies of the Fifth Infantry and four guns of Menorah's battery. The left was commanded by Captain G. A. Zinn of the Engineers and contained one company of Engineers and two companies of the Sixth Infantry. The reserve consisted of four companies of the Sixth Infantry under Captain J. H. Brown. Four guns of the Sixth battery were behind a rise of ground in rear of the center and had a clear sweep of almost every part of the field.

General Kobbe commenced his attack by sending detachments around both flanks of the Blue line to create apprehension for the Blue communications, while he pushed his artillery straight up to Morris Hill, the highest point on the reservation. His batteries were seen for nearly an hour before they opened, the delay being for the purpose of allowing the flanking columns to march into position. Suddenly on the slope of Morris Hill a crimson flag fluttered in the air indicating that the batteries were firing upon other artillery, the puff of whose smoke shot into the air 3,800 yards from the Blue line and the battle opened. General Kobbe's artillery kept up a rapid fire, his object being to provoke a reply from the Blues and thus unmask their positions. The Blues held quiet for a time, but finally Menorah's mountain guns opened on the left, as did the two of Adams' Sixth battery. They fired but a few times, however, and then were silenced. It was enough for the Browns, however, and twelve guns were trained on the two of Menorah and two of the Sixth battery. The odds were too great and after a short combat the four guns of the Blues were ruled out of action.

Brown Infantry Advances. Meanwhile the Brown Infantry was coming in steadily across the fields straight on to the entrenchments on the left of the right wing held by Captain Jones of the Sixth Infantry and those in the right center held by Captain Powell and Lieutenant Crimmins of the same regiment. The advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight below the crest. This also was to provoke fire from the trenches. No reply came from the Blues and then, apparently assured of no enemy in their front over the hill in easy range at 700 yards came swinging a battalion of the Twenty-second Brown Infantry. Then advance scouts pushed forward over a ridge 800 yards distant in the effort to provoke a fire from the Blues, whose defenses they were unable to locate. A cavalry guidepost was displayed above the ridge and carried along as though a detachment was riding just out of sight