HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 7 .- (Special Telegram.)-Fine weather and a large crowd Meeting is Held at Lincoln to Take of visitors assisted in making the second day of Hastings' street fair and carnival a great success. At an early hour this morning visitors began arriving in the city and they continued to pour in on every train. They were kept busy moving about the ing at 6 o'clock thirty prominent him from the angry woman's clutches, but she followed him into the court house and doing the Midway part of attractions. Those having this matter in county committee. charge say it is as fine an exhibit of grain. vegetables and fruit as was even seen at that the liquor dealers were thoroughly orcocoanuts.

The action of the ministers last night in cleaning out the gambling houses caused Lincoln excise board and some of the best much speculation today in regard to their known political workers in the city were feelings toward the Midway attractions, but present. As a result of the meeting a nearly all the prominent ministers of this committee of seven was appointed to wait city were seen tonight by the correspondent on Chairman H. C. Lindsay of the repuband they gave it out that it was not their intention to interfere in any way with the street fair concessions so long as they continus to be conducted in the manner in the saloon keepers. The committee was which they were yesterday and today. The given general power to devise a method of fair certainly is a great success in every respect-in fact, it is far ahead of what had been anticipated even by the managers of the carnival.

It is thought that tomorrow will be about the biggest day of the week, as the much talked of flower parade is scheduled to take place at 2:30 in the afternoon. The fact that the pame of the queen and her maids has been kept a profound secret has caused more than ordinary interest to be manifeated by the public in general.

President, R. L. Gumner; vice president, Miss Rearwin; recording secretary, Miss Julia Fuller; treasurer, Howard Miller. The circle meets every week.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Oct. 7 .- (Special.) -- Attorneys interested in the litigation in the district court over the proceeds of a $2,000 insurance policy on the life of W. H. H. Rader, a prominent Mason who died last summer, have raised the novel and interesting question whether an afflanced woman has an insurable interest in the life of her bethrothed.

There are three parties to the controersy, the divorced wife of Rader, his fances and his estate. The policy ran to "Kate Rader, wife." Ten days before Rader's death she secured a divorce from him and married again shortly. He was nursed on his deathbed by Miss Ann M. Shriner, to whom he became engaged and in whose favor he ordered the policy changed. This last request had not been carried out at the time of his death. His estate claims that neither woman has any right to the avails of the policy, inasmuch as when Mrs. Rader secured her divorce she forfielted all rights she had, the policy having been issued to her on the faith of her as his wife, and when she voluntarily abandoned that position she imperilled her chances of recovery upon his policy. It also denies the right of Miss Shriner, claiming that she had no insurable interest, any more than the divorced wife could have.

Created a Scene.

Mrs. Archibald Lewis created a sensaional scene in the court house corridor this morning by pouncing upon her husband, a member of the panel of jurymen, and demanding to know where he had spent the night. She was about twice his size and after shaking him forcely half dragged him down a flight of stairs, demanding all the while an explanation the man had no chance to vouchsafe.

Lewis finally called for the sheriff to protect him, as he had duties to perform at once in the court room. The sheriff rescued

Smit Strong Opposition Manifest to Propound to Substitute Biennial for Annual Meetings of that Body.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

COLUMBUS, Neb., Oct. 7 .- (Special Telegram.)-Fully 200 of Nebraska's representative women are in attendance at the eighth annual convention of the Nebraska Federation of Woman's Clubs, which opened here this afternoon, fifty of the ninety-nine clubs affiliated in the organization being now represented. There is a general display of the club colors and hospitable homes have been thrown open for the entertainment of delegates and visitors alike. The general revision of the constitution, the chief provision of which is for a biennial instead of an annual meeting, is the issue of the convention and the council of presidents held this morning was devoted largely to discussion of the feasibility of the plan, which is so far from meeting with general approval that it likely will not receive the recommendation of that body.

It was decided by this council to recommend to the convention the establishment of a club periodical, to be sent free to members of the Federation and to be supported by the sale of advertising space. Mrs. Draper Smith of Omaha, state president, called the convention to order at 2 o'clock, Mayor Dickinson and Mrs. Bettle C. Gerrard, president of the local club, extending cordial welcome on behalf of Columbus. Mrs. Chester A. Brink of Ord responded for the State Federation.

The annual address of the president followed, consisting chiefly of a review of the Los Angeles biennial and a repetition of the suggestions embodied in her report in the year book. Reports of officers, chairmen of standing committees and of clubs occupied the remainder of the session.

The household economics program was presented in the evening, Mrs. Harriet Mc-Murphy of Omaha presiding. Miss Savage's talk on the pure food laws of Nebraska was one of its features. The work of the State Library commission was later presented by Mies Edna Bullock of Lincoln, and that of the colored kindergartens in the south by Mrs. H. H. Heller of Omaha.
