

JAILED YOUTH IS BAD ACTOR

Disturbs Fellow Prisoners and Incidentally the Neighborhood.

SENDS ORDERS TO THE CRIMINAL JUDGE

Demanding that His Trial on Charge of Burglary Be Conducted at Once—His Young Attorney Feels Uneasy.

A youth held for trial on a charge of burglary is giving the custodians of the county jail more strenuous days and sleepless nights than all the rest of the prisoners within the walls.

When he was first brought to the jail the wardens, out of regard for his rather tender years, put him in one of the more comfortable apartments in the matron's wing.

Then he was taken to the main court of the jail, where the prisoners lounge and eat their meals.

It is in desperation, the jailer took him upstairs to the solitary cell in which convicted murderers are confined and which is such a lonesome, gloomy place that it usually takes the meanness out of the most hardened of offenders.

Startles People on the Streets.

Ten minutes later he began screaming at the top of his shrill voice. "Don't murder me with that knife! Keep that knife behind you!"

The custodians were already informed by their own ears and had sought to quiet the young mustang.

The younger yesterday morning showed an inclination to boss the lawyer who told him to tell the judge he (the prisoner) "wants his trial pulled off either Friday or Saturday and won't stand for any long waiting."

Another young lawyer has been given the task of defending a prisoner who is said to have served twenty-five years of his life in jails or prisons.

GETTING AROUND THE RATES

How Freight Tariffs Are Sometimes Evaded on Big Westbound Shipments.

As an example of how freight rates can be manipulated and tariff agreements evaded the following story from the New York Commercial affords a splendid illustration:

When the traffic representative of a railroad starts out to induce a shipper to give him his business he often runs up against conditions that threaten to defeat his purpose.

It is not always able to do so and can only bid within until such time as he can safely engage in the same tactics with respect to those who have previously outgeneraled him.

This is not a new experience, but it has lately been the portion of the railroad with eastern trunk lines.

At the same time discoveries have been made which illustrate the fact that there are ways that are dark and tricks that are clever, the shipper and the railroad working together can find a way to evade the tariff.

MAKING SKEPTICS

Our Omaha Readers Are no Exception.

Suffering year after year with a bad back, with annoying and dangerous urinary troubles, failing to find a remedy to end their misery, it is no wonder people become skeptics.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agent for the United States.

bought by Faxton & Gallagher of Omaha went out of New York in this way, and last Wednesday another lot of the same amount for the same firm went forward without being carried at the tariff rate.

It develops on investigation that in order to give a rate lower than tariff the New York brokers in billing the coffee consigned to themselves, with Portland, Ore., as its destination.

But there is still another instance of the same character as that described which serves to show to what lengths railroads will sometimes go in these matters.

It is charged that for at least three years the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has been able to ship pig iron for its own use from "Canaan, Conn." to Milwaukee at less than the actual rate.

It is done under an annual contract, and the fact that the time is at hand for a new deal and there is something of a scramble to land in some measure responsible for the fact that the St. Paul's privilege has become a subject of common talk among traffic officials who are disposed to break up the practice if they can.

At one time the Erie had the particular traffic, but lost it through inducements offered by the Merchants' Dispatch, which has controlled ever since.

Amusements.

At the Boyd. The joys and sorrows trials and tribulations, sorceries and mysteries of the "Wizard of Oz," whose career went through all phases, from "that of a great ruler to that of not even a common slate pencil."

The book and lyrics by L. Frank Baum, such as the information on the program, and Mr. Baum was certainly filled with interest all through the evening.

The scenic efforts were beautiful in the extreme and were enthusiastically applauded.

What is the "Wizard of Oz"? It is not a comic opera; it is not a series of tableaux, nor a vaudeville presentation, nor yet a farce nor a pantomime, but it is a happy and gayer mixture of all, and the mixture is most palatable.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Armour Company Fills Large Order from United States Government.

LOCAL POSTAL SERVICE IS IMPROVED

Three Additional Carriers Put to Work and One Man Assigned to Collect Mail in the Business District.

The Armour Packing company has just completed a large order for the government. This order was given about sixty days ago and a portion was to have been ready for shipment to the Philippines October 1.

Following this large shipment Mr. Howe said there would be another batch of bacon amounting to 50,000 pounds. In addition there will be 18,000 pounds of hams. The latter will not be shipped until along toward the end of the present month.

Through the entire process of curing these meats a government inspector has visited the packing house almost daily and has required the packer to live up to the specifications in the contract.

Other packers here are looking for government orders, and it is expected that the houses here will be kept busy this winter filling orders from that source.

Better Postal Service.

Since October 1 three additional mail carriers have been on duty, making the force fifteen men. Postmaster Etter has assigned two carriers to the business district, thus making a quick delivery of all mails. The collection of mail from the downtown boxes is now in much better condition than it has been in the past.

Two Slobodiskys in Court. One Sues Policeman Weisenberg and the Other City Treasurer.

The Slobodisky name is again leaping into prominence and large type. Jacob has sued Henry Weisenberg for $1,000 for slapping his face, with the jury's verdict due in the afternoon, and Louis has filed in district court a petition for restitution of goods seized by City Treasurer A. H. Hennings, for $25 damages and for the costs of the suit.

Jacob's case dates back to August 19, 1900, when he and the wife from whom he has been divorced since had differences of such a nature that the woman left the house. Later she returned with Weisenberg, then a sergeant of police, to get her clothes.

One "whatnot" (Latin name unknown), two candelabra, one silk draper and pole, two tables, five bedsteads, a washstand, an eight-day clock, pictures, rugs and chairs, which the petitioner alleges, Hennings took into execution with no proper order or judgment.
