COUNCIL BLUFFS.

REGISTRATION VERY LIGHT | the

Surprise Caused by the Comparatively Few Added to the Old Lists.

WORKMEN TOO BUSY TO TAKE THE TIME

Many Removals in Some Precincts Where New Rathroad Comes in, but Few of Parties Have Appeared to Register.

Contrary to expectation, the registration in the several precincts of the city yesterday was exceedingly light. Reports from the registration boards last evening showed that but few names had been added to the lists of last year and that only a small number of voters who had changed their residence since last election had re-regis-

The general apathy said to exist in the approaching election is presumed to be accountable for the light registration yesterday. Another reason given is that every man has employment this year and but littie time to devote to politics. That there are many new voters in the city is evident the recently issued city directory, and both parties will make every effort to secure a full registration before the last day for same, which is Saturday, November 1. The advent of the Great Western into

Council Bluffs and the purchase of its rightof-way through the city has caused many families in certain precincts to change their residence during the last twelve months. The members of these families entitled to vote, having changed their place of residence since last November, are required to register anew this year, but the reports of the registration boards last evening show that but few of them did. They have yet two days in which to register and every effort will be made by the party workers to have them do so.

No Money to Clean Streets.

"I certainly am of the same opinion as the mayor and realize that the streets need cleaning, especially those in the business part of the city, but if he knows where the oney is coming from to pay for the work, I do not, and will be glad to be enlightened. This was the statement of Alderman Mc Donald, chairman of the streets and alleys committee, yesterday morning on his return to the city, when informed that Mayor Morgan was determined that the streets should be cleaned.

Alderman McDonald explained that there was less than $800 in the streets and alleys fund and that as long as the city retained the services of a street supervisor and a sidewalk inspector this amount would be needed to pay their salaries for the remainder of the fiscal year. The chairman of the streets and alleys committee was emphatic in his statement that so far as emphatic in his statement that so far as he was concerned he would not consent to the expenditure of 1 cent above the eum appropriated for his department. If Mayor Morgan say a way whereby further money for the cleaning of the streets could be sefor the cleaning of the streets could be secured, Mr. McDonald said he was only too willing to expend it in the manner desired. The average registration for the twelve precincts of the city yesterday was about ten names. In one precinct only two names were added to the list while in another twenty-six were registered.

Personal Rights in Iowa

The supreme court, in a lengthy decision by Justice McClain, today upheld the personal rights of men, even though they are under arrest and accused of crimes. It was in the case of the State against Fred Hecht, from Cedar Rapids. He was on trial for a crime and an essential part night in jurisprudence hall. This announceof the evidence against him was that of a doctor who made a physical examination of his person after his arrest to procure evidence against him, the examination having been made against the protests of the accused man. The court holds that, although there is no provision of the Iowa constitution touching this point, the court did wrong in allowing this evidence to be taken. It was in the nature of evidence furnished by the accused person to incriminate himself, obtained under duress. Governor's Voice Succumbs.
