State Will Make Effort to Uncover Who Are Alleged to Have Hired Horn to Commit the Crime.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 24 .- (Special Tolegram.)-Tom Horn, the famous scout and stock detective, was today found guilty of murder in the first degrees. The trial of Horn for the murder of Wil-He Nickell, 13 years old, son of Kels Nickell, on July 18, 1901, at his father's ranch in the Iron Mountain country, was begun on October 10. The claim of the prosecu tion was that Horn, in the pay of certain large cattle owners, killed the boy in an effort to frighten his father and cause him to leave the country.

The strongest evidence against Horn was his own confession, made to Deputy Sheriff Joseph H. La Fors, in which he gave minute details of the crime. Horn at the trial admitted making the confession, but declared it was false and only made in a bragging way while he and La Fors were exchanging

There promises to be some sensational developments, it being the intention of the authorities to prosecute the men who hired Horn to go to Iron Mountain and kill Nickell. In the light of the law, they are as guilty as the murderer, and if certain evidence can be secured, and it is believed it can, these men behind Horn will be arrested, charged with being an accessory When the verdict was read to Horn he never moved a muscle. It was the most remarkable display of nerve ever seen in Wyoming court. Upon his return to tail Horn said he had not given up hope. He was sure he would be granted a new trial, when he would secure his liberty. Counsel for Horn assert that it was not Horn who killed the boy, and they will now show up the real murderer, and in so doing will secure for the stock detective

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 24 .- (Special Telegram.)-Large numbers of foot ball enthusiasts arrived in the city tonight from various points in this and the three adfoining states to witness the game tomorrow afternoon between the Nebraska Cornbuskers and the Missouri Tigers. There is plenty of money in sight to be on the Cornbuskers, but few wagers have been placed. Both elevens are not expected until early tomorrow morning, but that has not prevented the wildest outbursts of enthusiasm on the part of a student element with blood running riot in their veins. The impression prevails among a large element that Nebraska will find it an easy matter to dispose of its opponents tomorrow, but former graduates of Missouri university say tonight that they have received a tip that the Tigera are in better form now than at any time in their history.

A meeting was held in the law office of Hon. W. K. Amick tonight by the alumni of the Missouri university, when messages of good cheer from Columbia were read. The alumni will receive the team at the Union station. The Nebraska boys will be met at the station by a large reception committee and former graduates and students of the university at Lincoln.

It developed at the trial that Horn was simply the paid assassin of men who wished to get the Nickells out of their way, and the sheep and cattlemen or range wars did not enter into the matter. It was personal spite that caused the death of Willie Nickell.

To Broaden the Game.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Lawn Tennis association is endeavoring to emphasize the international character of the game. At a recent meeting the association, in addition to adopting the American service rule, agreed to admit six foreign and colonial delegates to the annual council, to be held in July. The United States will be invited to send a representative. An English team will certainly be sent back to try and win the American cup in 1964, but its personnel will be undecided until after the Wimbledon championships to be decided in June. In the meantime Mr. Mewburn, secretary of the association, told a representative of the Associated Prers he fully expects that Whitmap and Larned and perhaps other Americans will participate in the British championship games. He added that there was no doubt the British association would be glad to bear part of the expenses of the visitors, if that was any inducement. LONDON, Oct. 24 .- The Lawn Tennis as-

Dun & Co.'s Veekly Review of Trade tomorrow will of people and events in which the readers of The No better evidence of industrial and com-No better evidence of industrial and commercial activity is needed than the present inadequate transportation facilities. Every form of railway equipment from track to rolling stock has been increased and perfected during the last few years to an extent that appeared almost excessive, yet the nation's business has more than kept pace. Unseasonably mild weather has retarded retail trade at many points, yet the movement of goods is fully sustained by undiminished preparations for future sales. Distribution delayed by high temperature is not lost, while the agricultural community will profit very materially by the tardness of frosts, increasing their ability to consume the products of factories and mills. any recent date, only small controversies interrupting.

The money market pressure has been removed and although securities do not respond, legitimate trade is not retarded by quiet speculation.

Earnings of the railways during October thus far exceed last year's by 4½ per cent and those of 1900 by 12 per cent.

is falling further behind and the outlook is alarming.

Pig iron is in great demand, imports promising to continue large, and as the higher duty on steel will not be enacted there is reason to expect a liberal movement from Germany. The demand for rails is so large that great purchases abroad are being negotiated, while practically all railway supplies find an eager market.

Structural lines of steel are in a strong position, but there is evidence of irregularity in wire rods and setual weakness in a few lines that are not now offered freely. Perfect New Methods.

Perfect New Methods.

Plate manufacturers are making a hard fight to secure the foreign business done here under a drawback arrangement and a new method of production is being perfected that promises to cheapen the cost.

Among the other metals tin and copper advanced sharply, but the former reacted. In the cotton goods market buyers are not anticipating future requirements, having apparently confidence in cheaper raw material. Yet many lines are now below a parity with the raw cotton market, which is a supporting element from the seller's point of view. There is a steady absorption for immediate requirements which prevents any accumulation of supplies and the market must be considered in good condition, since it is obvious that much future business is only awaiting something more definite as to raw cotton.

Only a small trade is reported in heavy brown sheetings and drills for export, the large huyers being practically out of the market. Further sales of print cloths are reported.

No improvement appears in the department for men's wear, woolen or worsted fabrics, new orders being for small quantities only and not suggestive of a genuine supplementary demand for spring weights. Although the movement of sample pieces from first hands is on a liberal scale, there are still numerous complaints of late delivery.

Silk goods are firm, with a scarcity in Favorable features; still dominate the trade and industrial situation. Some reduction in the demand for fall and winter goods at wholesale is noted, but it is shown at the same time that the completed business in dry goods, clothing, shoes, hats, millinery and a host of other lines is in excess of 1801 and preceding years. Business on next spring's account tends rather to expand and a similar tendency is noted in retail business, particularly in the east, where the fear of a coal famine has been removed.

where the fear of a coal famine has been removed.

It is true that in the northwest retail trade is not meeting anticipations, partly because of the warm weather and partly because the farming element is still busily engaged in crop work.

The money situation shows little that is unfavorable to general business. Reports as to collections class them as being generally good, and in some cases better than a year ago. Raw cotton shows the least strength of the textiles. Good picking weather favors a larger out turn. The print cotton market is strong and prints and ginghams jobbing Raw cotton shows the least strength of the textiles. Good picking weather favors a larger out turn. The print cotton market is strong and prints and ginghams jobbling well.

Woolen manufacturers are actively employed, and they are said not to have a very large stock on hand.

Improved retail trade in the east gives tone to the entire dry goods market.

The situation in the iron trade is full of interest. While pig iron is increase and the coke shortage continues, necessitating shut downs in the Pennsylvania valleys, and high premiums are paid for what little iron is available, steel billets have weakened, partially because of the effects of foreign imports, but largely also because of less urgent demand from some finishing mills.

The heavier forms of finished material all retain their former strength. Structural iron and steel and plates for shipbuilding purposes are strong, but sheels are dull and slow, and steel rods tend to weaken and timplates are depressed pending; he settlement of the tin works employes about a cut in wages if the large orders now going abroad are to be secured. A result on this point may be ainounced at any time. That high prices have exercised a deterrent effect on consumption.

Hardware retains exceptional activity for light and heavy sorts and considerable sales of bullders' hardware for next season are reported at different places.

The boot and shoe trade continues good in the west; in the east shipments last week were the largest for months past and exceeding those of even this week a year ago, but they are still 10 per cent less for the season.
