Last Sad Rites.

The funeral services of Mrs. George W Clark were at the First Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon. The church was crowded with friends. Rev. Robert L. Wheeler preached a sermon in which he told of the many true womanly qualities of Mrs. Clark and the regrets of family and friends at her sudden demise. Rev. George Van Winkle, pastor of the First Baptist church, delivered a few remarks and the body was intrusted to the Order of the Eastern Star for burial. The casket as it. lay in the church was covered with beautiful floral offerings, sent by friends here

The sample ballots to be used in the coming election are in the hands of the county cierk. This year the names of all candidates for all offices are printed in one column. The length of the ballot is such in the country precincts that no paper has been found in the city long enough to carry all of the names, and no job press large enough to print them should the paper he secured. In the case of the country precincts the tickets will be printed in two parts and pasted together before they leave the hands of the printer. The work this year is being done by the Omaha Printing company and 39,000 tickets have been ordered for Douglas county, one and one-half ticket for each registered voter on the books.

VALLEY ASSAULT CASE IS UP

Alfred Liebscher Follows Joseph Nelson in Judge Baxter's List of Trials.

The case of the State against Joseph Nelson, a man with a family, charged with attempting assault upon Florence Moore, aged 11, went to the jury about noon. After being out two hours the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. Judge Baxter now takes up the state's case against Alfred Liebscher, the boy charged with accomplishing an assault upon Hattie Pickard, aged 13, at her sister's hotel in Valley, July 28, last. It was Liebacher who was saved from an angry crowd by the determined marshal of Valley and brought to Omaha from Elkhorn by four deputy sheriffs by a fast drive overland. The girl and her family are here to testify. Alfred, recently arrived from the old country, has no important witnesses and the case is to be fought on technical points.
