Registration in Omaha and South Omaha Compared with 1900.

DEFICIENCY IS ABOUT EVENLY DIVIDED

Number of Electors Registered Indicates that Total Vote in City of Omaha Will Be About Seventeen Thousand.

Registration in City of Omaha.

Registration in South Omaha.

As compared with the registration of 1900 the total number of voters registered in Omaha this year shows a falling off of 2,398, the total being 18,435, as against 21,741 two years ago.

In South Omaha the total registration this year is 9,861, while two years ago it was 4,972, a deficiency of 989.

In the two cities, therefore, 4,397 less voters are registered for the election on Tuesday than were enrolled preceding the presidential election of 1900.

The deficiency in both cities is about evenly divided between the different parties, if it be taken for granted that the larger portion of those who refused to give party affiliation are of the democratic forces.

In Omaha the greatest falling off is in the Third ward, where 715 less voters have registered this year than in 1900; then comes the Sixth ward with a deficiency of 529; the First, 394; the Eighth, 391; the Fourth, 355; the Fifth, 331; the Seventh, 303; the Second, 297, and the Ninth, with a falling off of only 5. The large registration in the Ninth ward is explained by the increased population and building up of that part of the city.

Although no complete statistics on the registration of last year were compiled by the newspapers, it is known that this year's enrollment of voters is in excess of that of 1901 by probably 1,600.

With a total of 18,435 voters registered in the city of Omaha it is likely that the total vote in the city next Tuesday will be about 17,000, estimating that 5 to 8 per cent of those registered will not go to the polls.

GRIP

FAREWELL TO DICKINSON

Former Associates in Social, Business and Railroad Life at Banquet.

COME AS THE GUESTS OF PRESIDENT BURT

From Head of Great Corporation Down Through All Ranks and from All Classes Are Regrets at the Parting.

The men who gathered at the Omaha club last evening to pay tribute to Edward Dickinson represented not only the many branches of a great railway system, but also many of the city's most important interests.

The guests were there at the invitation of President Horace G. Burt of that road, who acted well the host in the farewell dinner in honor of Mr. Dickinson. They completely filled the large hall on the second floor of the Omaha club, which was brilliantly lighted with flowers for the occasion.

The menu was served and the cigars passed President Burt took up the duties of toastmaster and announced the speakers of the evening. The first of these was Judge W. R. Kelly, who took the pleasure of relating a short history of the guest of honor.

He was followed by James M. Woolworth, "I do not know of any gentleman," said the speaker, "who has become the controlling spirit of any road who has brought around him such love and respect from his fellow workers and subordinates."

George W. Vrooman, chief of the locomotive engineers of the system, spoke, he said, on behalf of the masses and brought from them the best wishes for Mr. Dickinson in his new field.

C. E. Engle, chief of the board of locomotive firemen, proposed an address to Dickinson, saying: "Life is a long and arduous journey, and it is to the health, welfare and success of Mr. Edward Dickinson."

President Burt then called upon Mr. Meebomer to speak for the "hired end of the train." He paid one of the strongest tributes of the evening and said that the nearly 500 men he represented felt that in losing Mr. Dickinson they were losing as well as a friend a father and adviser.

Following this tribute President Burt announced that "we will have to come down now to 'our man Baldwin'." The general attorney eloquently seconded the praise that had already been spoken of the retiring general manager and added that he believed "Mr. Dickinson is a man of words who would add to what had been spoken."

To General Anderson, who followed, the occasion appeared as one which would always hold a strong place in the hearts of those present. Incidentally he remarked that the occasion was so enjoyable and so excellent an advertising medium that he would to order some one connected with the Burlington to leave the service."

Edward Rosewater spoke of Edward Dickinson as a soldier in the path of duty and painted a picture of what the speaker held to be the upward climb of the evening's guest.

Senator Millard, George F. Bidwell, John W. Lacy of Wyoming and Dr. George L. Miller were called upon and spoke briefly, endorsing the sentiments of the other speakers.

The speech of President Burt was undoubtedly the greatest and most unselfish tribute of the evening. He said in part: "To say that I have appreciated the services of Mr. Dickinson would be expressing myself in a very inadequate manner."

Mr. Dickinson would be expressing himself in a very inadequate manner. He has secured the services of one of the ablest, wisest and one of the most loyal railroad men in this country."

And then as Edward Dickinson rose to respond to the toasts of the evening, he said: "I am glad to have been in the path of duty and to have been in the path of duty and to have been in the path of duty."

Mr. Dickinson Responds. "I am at a loss for words with which to express myself as I would like in appreciation of the honor that has been bestowed upon me this evening."

SCIENTIFIC FOOD

That Cures Patients Quickly.

"My experience with food has been considerable. For 30 years I suffered with chronic indigestion and bowel complaint which brought on general ill health," says a gentleman of Danville, Ill. "I was very poor in flesh and every one thought I had consumption. I was treated by the best doctors of several cities, but to no benefit."

"At last I went to the hospital and while there began using Grape-Nuts, the physician giving me permission, and from that day I commenced to gain. By careful diet, and using judgment, I gained in flesh and strength, my lungs got better and today I consider myself as well as men in general at my age of 60 years."

The other patients noticed that I gained faster under the same treatment and care and I told them to add Grape-Nuts to their diet and be careful not to eat meat, nor warm bread and starchy food. I can now eat anything in reason; I sleep well; bowels are regular and I have gained 22 pounds in flesh. Grape-Nuts food saved my life."

"It adds to the health and comfortable living, makes the mind clear and prolongs life." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

HEAR EVIDENCE NEXT WEEK

Arbitration Board Decides to Call Witnesses in Scranton.

MINERS ARE FIRST TO PRESENT CASE

After Plaintiffs Have Testified Each Individual Operator Will Be Examined to Make What Result He Pleases.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 1.—The arbitration commission decided today, while on their tour of the Wyoming valley, to adjourn next Thursday until Friday, November 14, when testimony will be heard in this city.

The first four days of next week will be taken up in inspecting mines and mining towns from Hazleton south to the end of the hard coal fields.

Judge Gray said tonight that the recess will be taken to give both sides sufficient time to prepare their cases, and the commission an opportunity to examine the issues. The commissioners feel that the questions involved are so important that any haste may work an injury.

When the hearings are begun it is the intention to have the miners, who are considered the plaintiffs, submit their case first. The sixty-seven individual operators will also be given an opportunity to be heard, as well as all the larger coal companies.

The question of making a preliminary report on some of the issues involved has not yet been officially taken up and it is not definitely known tonight that it will be considered.

SPEND DAY INVESTIGATING

The arbitrators spent the day about Wilkesbarre, visiting one mine and making a tour of several towns on the outskirts. Nearly two hours were spent in the Dorrance colliery, belonging to the Lehigh Valley Coal company, at North Wilkesbarre.

The mine is a gaseous one and the commissioners and other members of their party were compelled to carry safety lamps. They were told the mine was dangerous, but their eagerness for information was so great that the unsafe condition of the workings did not deter them. On this trip S. D. Warringer, general superintendent of the company, and W. J. Richards, general superintendent of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company, accompanied them.

The miners were represented by Mr. Nichols and John Fallon. There were no special incidents in the trip and the tour was made much the same as those taken in other mines, the only difference being that they saw a vein about sixteen feet thick, which is three times the thickness of the seams seen on Thursday and Friday.

Today was All Saints day and it is religiously observed by the members of the foreign-speaking mine workers. For this reason no coal was mined in the Dorrance and many other collieries throughout the region. The company officials drew the attention of the commissioners to this peculiar curtailment of the production.

After luncheon the party took a trolley car and visited South Wilkesbarre, Ashley, Sugar Notch and Plymouth, inhabited principally by mine workers. They did not leave the car, but wherever it stopped a crowd gathered to give them an opportunity to ask questions regarding rents and other living expenses. On the return to Wilkesbarre the party immediately boarded the train for Scranton.

TALK OF SOFT COAL COMBINE

J. Pierpont Morgan and Senator Hanna Hold a Long Conference in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 1.—J. Pierpont Morgan and party arrived here today from Chicago. The train was stopped at the Detroit street crossing, where Mr. Morgan and his friends alighted and were driven to the residence of Ralph W. Hickox on Lake avenue.

Later in the day Senator Hanna was a visitor at the Hickox residence and held a long conference with Mr. Morgan and his associates.

At its conclusion Mr. Hanna was driven to his office. He declined to discuss his interview with Mr. Morgan. He added, however, that the latter was simply in the west on a railroad inspection tour.

Concerning Mr. Morgan's visit to Chicago and Cleveland the Evening Plain Dealer today will say:

A report which could not be verified was in circulation today that Mr. Morgan's visit to both Chicago and Cleveland was in connection with the proposed combination of all the soft coal interests in the country.

For the last two years there has been a gradual merging of the various soft coal producing concerns, until the business, it is said, is now practically in the hands of comparatively few individuals.

Mr. Morgan is credited with being largely instrumental in combining the Hocking valley field in this case, while the firm of M. A. Hanna & Co. has gained practical control of the entire output of the Massillon field.

It is said that constant efforts have been quietly made recently to unite the soft coal producers in Indiana and Illinois, and it is pointed out that as Mr. Morgan is largely interested in the movement, his visit to Chicago, as well as to Cleveland, had to do with this project.

Negotiations were commenced several days ago to effect a consolidation of the Pittsburgh Coal company and the Monongahela Consolidated Coal and Coke company, two of the largest producing concerns in western Pennsylvania, which control a very large proportion of the output of the Pittsburgh field.

The merging of these two companies would mean a capitalization of $10,000,000, with an increase of stock to 1,000,000 shares. It is now said to be contemplated, in which not only Senator Hanna, but J. Pierpont Morgan are reputed to have a direct interest.

POLITICIANS TALK BIG

are all republican. A nonpartisan estimate would probably give the democrats two and the republicans three, with one in doubt.

Republicans Win Illinois. CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—It is admitted by the leaders of both parties that the chief fight will be in Chicago and Cook county. Both parties are claiming the county by pluralities ranging from 20,000 to 30,000. The republican managers say they are absolutely certain of victory, while the democrats assert that the strong labor representation on the county ticket, coupled with the pledge to support public ownership of public utilities, will bring them a stronger labor vote than they have ever had before and assure them a victory. The most important fight of the election is
