Corn and Oats Rise Shade Only, but Provisions Vary from Twelve to Twenty-Two

CHICAGO. Nev. 5.—Wheat was higher today at the start, due to wet weather and smaler receipts, and in epite of considerable liquidation the close was firm with December a shade lower. December over was 1 cent higher, with oats a shade higher, with oats a shade higher, with oats a shade higher the way of liquidation, but size for the short account. Weather conditions were the most important factor in the situation and caused a firm opening. There was considerable selling early by outsiders, but it was not until a prominent local loss unloaded a prices declined. A fair experied demand and good cash business later into day caused a rally and the close was affirm. December opened a shade to 187% cents higher at 17% to 17% cents and, after holding fairly steady the first hour, there was a condition of the close was a shade lower at 17% cents. Bradstreet's world's vitible supply showed an increase for the weak of 3.56 bushels. Compared to the close was a shade lower at 17% cents higher at 17% to 17% cents and for all compared to the close was a shade lower at 17% cents. Bradstreet's world's vitible supply showed an increase for the weak of 3.56 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour worse equal to 67,050 bushels. Compared to 187,050 bushels. Compared Provisions relied strong throughout the day, with a good general demand for all process. Prere was little disposition to sell, however, and the volume of trading was light. The close was strong and higher, January pork closing 22½ cents higher at $15.50, January lard 17½ cents higher at $5.37½, while ribs were 12½@15 cents higher at $8.25.

Foreign Financial.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Discounts were easier today owing to the abundance of cash in the market and continental bill buying. Business on the Stock exchange was inactive, but operators were cheerful. There was some outside support and the professionals were preparing for more. Consols were firm at the opening, but afterward became unsettled. Home rails were undecided. Americans hardened on the result of the elections in the United States, but the business transacted was small, pending the receipt of the opening prices in New York, when Americans reacted, became slightly stendier and closed weaker. Grand trunks reacted on profit taking.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—Prices opened firm on the bourse today. Spaniards were heavy. The latter were generally stagnant. Spanish rails and Spanish 4s closed firm; Ottoman banks were purchased; industrials were well supported; Ro Tintos commenced steady, but weakened toward the close; Kaffirs were favorably influenced by the amnouncement in London yesterday of the additional financial aid to be extended to the inhabitants of the Transvaal and Orange River colonies, but they sagged toward the end of the day on unfavorable rumors concerning the South African labor supply. The private rate of discount was 131-16 per cent; 3 per cent rentees 99 frances 92½ centimes for the account; exchange on London, 25 frances 12 centimes for checks; Spanish 4s, $7.40.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Prices on the bourse were irregular. FRUITS—Spot a good demand CALIFORNIA DRIED FRUITS—Spot prunes are meeting with a good demand and are firm on the larger sizes, the smaller being fairly steady. Quotations range from Mgc to 5½c for all grades. Spot apricots are firmly held, boxes remaining at 7½@12c and bags at 6%@10c. Peaches show no change from recent conditions, peeled continuing firm at 12@16c and unpeeled at 6½@10c.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—COFFEE—Spot. quiet; No. 7 invoice, 5 c; mild, quiet; Cordova. 7%@12c. Futures opened barely steady at a decline of 5@10 points. The decline was due to quite a general average of bearish early news. Both the European markets were lower and the primary markets also reported a lower range of values. Estimates of the probable receipts at the Brazilian points for the coming month showed somewhat larger than expected and this proved degressing. Then, too, the figures of the world's visible showed an increase. Taken altogether, it was distinctly a bearish day. Coffee Market.

CLEVELAND'S PUDDLE TRAGEDY.

A Rainy Day Daisy in the Rude and Ruthless Grasp of the Law.

In Cieveland, O., the other day a young woman was arrested and held for trial because in crossing a mud puddle in one of the city parks she chose to lift her skirts out of the wet and in so doing displayed several quite superfluous inches of hosiery. In vain the young woman protested in court that the puddle had proved deeper than she had anticipated, reports the New York Sun, and in order to save her raiment from immersion it was positively necessary for her to hoist her lingerie a little higher than was fitting for most acciety occasions. The judge, a surly man, we take it, with little or no appreciation of the feminine form divine, would have none of this explanation. He held the young woman for further examination, when it is expected that the entire case will be thoroughly aired. In the meantime it has stopped raining in Cleveland, the puddle in the park has fallen several inches and the young woman is now in a state of mind for fear that the judge won't accept her affidavit with regard to the puddle's real depth at the time of the skirt elevation. What the penalty is which Cleveland justice will inflict for this pecultarly feminine crime remains to be seen. but always granting that the young woman was wearing particularly pretty hosiery at the time, it seems to us that instead of being incarcerated the young woman should be commended, if not publicly thanked, for enhancing the beauty of the surrounding scenery. The sudden appearance of a pretty ankle making its way across some muddy crossing has ere this seemed like the silver lining to the clouds of many a rainy day. And then, perchance, the puddle was over the young woman's head, and sho, perhaps, was no swimmer! Would the Cleveland authorities have had her incur the risk of committing suicide simply because some Peeping Tom with a rubber neck endeavored to tell the time by one of the clocks on her pretty stockings? Perish the thought! In the name of all that is chivalrous this Cleveland judge must let this young woman

Should she be convicted, this learned judge to a certainty will find all the mem-bers of the Rainy Daisy club in his hair. This organization, to a woman, can be relied upon to rise to this occasion just as surely as the young woman's skirt rose to
