

SOLVES AGENCY QUESTION

Supreme Court's Decision a Triumph for the Royal Highlanders.

VALIDITY OF BYLAWS SUSTAINED

Forms Precedent for Believing Supreme Bodies of Responsibility for Individual Acts of Subordinate Secretaries.

The decision handed down by the supreme court in the case entitled the Royal Highlanders against Scoville, is one of far-reaching importance to fraternal societies, as it sets at rest the "agency" question in these societies.

It has been contended that the supreme bodies are responsible for the acts of local secretaries, and that these local bodies may waive the bylaws of the supreme bodies by accepting payments after suspension has occurred and thereby reinstating a member without his complying with all the provisions of the bylaws. This decision says the local officers are agents of the supreme lodge only to the extent of the authority vested in them, and that they have no power to waive any provision thereof.

The case just decided came from Aurora, Hamilton county, Neb. D. A. Scoville was the beneficiary named in a certificate held by his daughter in the Royal Highlanders. They permitted the certificate to lapse by nonpayment of monthly premiums. Mr. Scoville received a message that his daughter was dying and went to the local secretary and paid the arrearage, but did not furnish a certificate of good health as provided must be done by the bylaws. The local secretary kept the money for a couple of hours, when the information came that the daughter was dead. Mr. Scoville refused to receive the money back and brought suit, which was just decided in the supreme court in favor of the Highlanders. In speaking of the decision, one of the prominent members of the Highlanders said: "Our members are jubilant over this decision, not only because the effort to unlawfully reinstate a suspended member was not successful, but also because in this case the validity of our laws was established and stood every test in the courts. The society is only six years old and has handled sums in the hundreds of thousands of dollars and has only had two law suits, in both of which the bylaws have stood the test and the society has triumphed."

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS MONDAY

Report of Special Committee on Heating and Ventilating Contract is Expected.

In compliance with law, the Board of Education will meet on Monday evening for the purpose of canvassing the returns of the recent election, but in order that other business may also be transacted the meeting of last Monday evening was adjourned to that time, and therefore any business that could properly come before the board at any regular meeting may then be presented. One matter which it is expected will receive attention is the report of the special committee appointed to investigate the question of the high school heating and ventilating plant, which was deferred upon the request of the committee for further time. The evidence bearing upon the matter is complete and has been carefully compiled by the committee, which spent all of last Monday afternoon and a portion of that evening in earnest conference. It is also stated by the members of the committee that their opinions are not incompatible, but in view of the importance of this report to the school board and to the architect, John Latenser, and the contractors, John Rowe & Co., they wish to exercise great care in its preparation. Another meeting of the committee will be held Monday afternoon and it is hoped that at that time the report may be completed.

SHORTAGE OF FREIGHT CARS

Western Railroad Men Admit that Serious Problem Confronts Them.

MMENSE GRAIN TRAFFIC IS COMING

Unusually Heavy Freight Business Prevails at Present and Car Famine is Generally Anticipated When Grain Movement Begins.

For some time there has been a great deal of discussion over the shortage of freight cars in the west as a result of the general increase in this class of railroad business. The fear has been expressed by railroad men themselves that all roads would be liable to extreme suffering for the lack of cars to handle their traffic. The gravity of the situation was felt in view of the enormous grain crop which would have to be transported. As the season for hauling the bulk of the western crops approaches freight men find themselves unable to solve the problem which has forced itself upon them, and as one official expressed it Saturday, unless some unforeseen blessing presents itself there is bound to be some serious trouble.

"As yet we have not been injured for the lack of cars," said a Union Pacific freight man, "and I do not believe that any of the competitors have been, but of course the famine is imminent and inevitable, and that when it comes it is going to be of serious import. The possibility of getting new cars in time to meet the emergency is out of the question with most, if not all, the lines. Some roads already have been increasing their equipment with new cars. The Rock Island probably has had more built of late than any of the railroads converging in Omaha, and yet it is admitted by officials of that road that if the volume of freight business, already unusually large, is swelled to the proportions expected by the incoming crops, the company will have a perplexing problem.

Emergency Freight Depot. Carpenters are busy at work on the new emergency freight house of the Burlington, which is being erected alongside the old freight depot in the railroad bottoms. The structure is not intended for a permanent station, but is being built merely to relieve the congestion in storing and handling freight which has existed for some time owing to the Burlington's heavy increase in freight business at this point and its limited facilities for meeting these additional demands. Probably a week more will be required to complete this structure, but the Burlington intends to erect a large new freight depot some time in the near future.
