Wedding Notice Locates Mother. MARSHALLTOWN, Is., Nov. 15 .- (Spe cial.)-A newspaper clipping referring to the somewhat romantic marriage of W. P. Watson at the fire station in this city a few weeks ago has been the means of reuniting Watson and his mother. Watson had not seen his mother for seventeen years and supposed she was long since dead. She separated from her husband and their three children became separated. W. P. Watson was sent to the Orphans' home at Davenport. It has been many years since any of the children had heard from or seen their mother and all believed she was dead. At the time of Watson's marriage here the newspapers gave it considerable prominence, owing to the fact that they were married at the fire station and as a sort of joke the couple were taken for a ride about the city on the fire company's new hook and ladder wagon. Mrs. Moore saw the account in an Illinois paper and wrote to the cap tain of the central station inquiring about

Watson and his people. The three children are planning for a happy reunion in this city in the near future with their mother.
