DEEP MEMORY OF MANCHESTER MARTYRS

ige O'Reill Ryan of St. Louis Speaks Marge Assemblage, Which Unna-Amousty Adopts Resolutions Expressing Its Scatiments,

The momory of Allen, Larkin and O'Brien "The Manchester martyrs," the members of the Clan-na-Gael of Omaha and South Omaha and their friends met at Washington hall last night, where an address was delivered by Judge O'Netil Ryan of St. Louis. John Rush presided over the meeting, making a brief address, in which he referred to the aggressions of Great Britain upon weaker nations from the day when nd claimed jurisdiction over Scotland to the present time, and denounced the orimes of murder, robbery and famine which it has called to its aid in controlling other people.

Following this the Elks' quartet sang "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "Killarney" and Miss Mary O'Brien sang "He Lived for His Love" and The Last Rose of Summer." Following violin solo by Joseph Borghoff, Miss O'Toole sang "Hileen Alanna" and Mayourneen," the orehestra rendered a medley of Irish airs and M. P. O'Connor recited "Erin's Fing." After which Judgo Ryan was introduced by the chairman as a man who was devoted to the cause of Irish lib-

Irish Hatred for English.

Judge Ryan opened by paying tribute to the work of John Rush in the Irish movement and then entered upon his address He said that it might be difficult for the average person to understand the reason of the hatred which the Irish people feel for the English government, a hatred so intense and personal that it would seem unreasonable to those who are unacquainted with the history of the two countries, but which has been handed down from sire to son for centuries. 'The people of the livilized world have been affected by the reports from South African camps, where women and children have died by hundreds; they were shocked when the British government forced the sale of opium in China at the mouth of cannon, and came to the assistance of the famishing natives of India when the British would not come to their aid, though the famine was one created by the removal of foodstuff from India to pay English taxes. All these crimes, he said, accentuated by repetition from one generation to another, has been forced upon Ireland, and hardly one generation has passed in the country without experiencing some evidence of English hostility, forcing men into insurrection, as they did in Wexford by the unbridled license of the British troops, and then punishing them unreasonably for the natural results of the action of the government; of priests proscribed and education prohibited; of homes wrecked and treaties broken. All of this is the reason for the hatred of the English government by the Irish and their descendants. Only by Physical Force.

The speaker declared that every conoession which had been granted to Ireland by the British Parliament had been granted through fear of physical force, and that nothing but physical force would finally result in the freedom of the country, illustrating his points by reference to the histhat day.

Resolutions Adopted. At the conclusion of his address resolu-

At the conclusion of his address resolutions were adopted as follows:

Resolved. That the Cian-na-Gael of Omaha, and South Omaha, on this anniversary of the martyrdom of three of Ireland's gallant sons—Allen, Larkin and O'Brien—again make public deciaration of their principles, shared in by their breth, en throughout this country and in lands beyond the sea. Their principles are those of a people who love liberty; who believe that Ireland is destined to be an independent nation, and that its people are justified by the laws of God and the examples of men in winning that independence by the sword. They do not believe that even a measure of legislative freedom can be secured by pleading to the Parliament of England, and they assert that no measure of justice has ever been granted by that body to Ireland ave through fear of physical force. They believe that mere constitutional agitation has tended to denationalize the people of Ireland and to lessen the high spirit inspired by the teachings of Tone, Emmet, Fitzgerald and the men of 48 and 57; that agitation ending in Westminster has led the world to believe that Ireland would be content to remain a part of the British empire, when the people are entitled to and we believe the true national demand is for an Irish republic. They believe there is being awakened in Ireland the Fenian spirit, finding evidence in the great interest aroused in the history, language and highest ideais of the race. They believe the aspirations of the race are approved by the great body of the people of this country, who have demonstrated time and again their devotion to human rights and who have been taught by the history of Valley Forge and Yorktown, Gettyeburg and Appomattex that those cights must be won and maintained by the sword. When and how the Irish people shall strike the blow must depend on their readiness and capacity. We do not counsel rush or premature action, but we to counsel that the men there and the cace throughout the world speak boldly held believe that the world speak tions were adopted as follows:

"There is no king but Dodo," there are two jacks and the rest are queens and tenapots. Raymond Hitchcock leads as jolly and comely a band of funmakers and joyous singers as have come to Omaha in a long time "King Dodo" is one of our old friends, and his many melodious strains have been hummed and whistled and played on gramaphones for the benefit of all who did not meet him personally on the occasion of his visits last season. But this familiarity has not bred contempt; not by a jugful. On the contrary, his return was the signal for assembling what the box office report shows to be the biggest Sunday evening house ever gathered at the Boyd theater, what a close personal inspection revealed to be a body composed tory of the laws. He told briefly the his- of people not ordinarily seen at the thetory of the Fenian uprising, which was the later on Sunday evening and what the comoccasion of the death of the men whose pany found to be one of the most enthusiexecution was commemorated at the meet- astically appreciative audiences it ever ing, and the hopes and desires of the men sang for. All the favorite numbers were at the head of the Fenian movement of encored again and again, and the repetition of one or the other ceased only when the director insisted on going ahead with the performance. For example, "The Tale of the Bumblebee" was sung and sung again, and whistled and sung and sung and whistled, and still the demand was for more. It was never given with better effect. All the soloists were well received and acquitted themselves remarkably well. Hitchcock is extremely funny and his assistants are worthy of him. Miss McKinney had a very trying evening. As she was going into the theater she made a misstep and sprained her left ankle so severely as to require a surgeon's care, but she went through the performance in spite of the pain, although she could not forego the slight limp.

"King Dodo" will be given this evening and tomorrow evening, with a special mat-ince on Tuesday.

At the Creighton-Orpheum. Two very large audiences assembled at the Creighton-Orpheum yesterday to witness one of the best balanced bills that has been given at that house this season. It presents a variety that should offer a little something to please everybody, no matter what their tastes. Out of the lot of good things it is a little hard to say what is best, but very likely the palm should be given to Klein, Ott Brothers and Nickerson, the musicians. This quartet performs only on brass instruments and a chime, but its work is undoubtedly the best of the class that has been heard in Omaha this season, and the peer of any ever heard Their turn was very warmly applauded yesterday. Galetti's trained monkeys are a decided novelty, and, considering the fact that yesterday was the first time the act was ever publicly presented it went very smoothly and was remarkably successful. Two of the monkeys make a really creditable endeavor to "Suwance River" and "Home, Sweet Home," on a chime. Others drive dogs in a mininture race, and others do various comical tricks. Mr. and Mrs. Thorne and company present a laughable one-act comedy, "An Uptown Flat," which kept the people in an uproar all the time it was going on. Weston and Allen have a very good notion of fun, and Allen's dancing is excellent. The three Millettes do some acrobatic work and balancing that is clever. Miss Leah Russell gives a monologue and sings some songs that do not fall to win laughter and applause. Way and Maitland also have a pleasing turn, and there are some brand new pictures in the kinedrome.

AT THE DEAD LETTER OFFICE Branch of the Postoffice Department that

Has Much Work to Do. INCREASE IN VOLUME OF ITS BUSINESS

Report of the Superintendent is Made Up of Some Curious and Interesting Facts About Mail that Strays.

In his annual report to the first assist ant postmaster general, David P. Leiboffice, gives some interesting statistics of the work of that branch of the Postoffice Two reasons are suspected of actuating department. He notes in his opening paragraphs that the total receipts of mail matter of all classes at the dead letter office is addressed. The greater number of these unmailable letters and packages originate through the failure of the sender to pay the proper amount of postage. Under the postal laws first class matter bearing a two-cent stamp may be forwarded to its destination and the additional charges collected from the receiver, but all other matter must be fully prepaid before it is sent, and letters intended for Mexico and Canada must also be fully prepaid. When 'unmailable" matter of this class is received a notice to the party addressed is sent, telling them that postage is due and unless the deficient postage is received in a short time the matter is sent to the dead letter office, from which place the person who mailed the letter is notified and the package or letter sent to its destination upon receipt of postage. If there is a return address on the package the sender is notified before the letter leaves the initial office and much time is spared.

The "property" branch receives the merchandise which has failed to be delivered. The articles here cover almost the entire range of human desires which are small enough to pass through the mails, ranging in value from diamond rings to tooth powders. Here probably, the department se cures a lower percentage of success in returning matter than in any other for out of 249,537 packages received, but 90,979 were returned to senders. To this department, according to the report, come packages which are sent out by business concerns to persons whose addresses have been secured from out-of-town directories, the value of the article being so small that the senders will not pay the postage required for their return. A large part of the receipts of this branch comes in the shape of packages addressed to for eign countries, where no arrangement exists for their transmission, and many times, being addressed in foreign language, they are doubly hard to handle.

In the "foreign" branch are handled let ters originating in foreign countries, which cannot be delivered to the persons addressed in the United States. This branch is in communication with eighty-five postal administrations, not including the United play States postal agency at Shanghai. It received last year $39,410 packages and letters of all kinds, an increase of over 70,000 pleces over the preceding year, the larger number originating in Austria, Italy, Germany and Russia. The largest number of employes are in the "returning" branch, where out of 6,639,000 pieces, but few more than 2,000,000 were successfully returned. The "inquiry" branch is that which is SOCIALISTS most closely connected with the public, where applications for lost matter are received and referred to the proper branch. During the year 30,253 inquiries were received, an increase of over 1,400 over the proceding year.

Hawaii and Porto Rico are under separate branches of the office, dead letter offices having been established on those islands since the United States assumed control, with gratifying results.

Receipts of the office.

The total value of undelivered money deposited and stamps destroyed during the year was $18,458.09.

The superintendent notes with interest the fact that of all of the dead letters received from the 75,924 offices in the experience of the office is against the popular ides that the large receipts at the dead letter office are due to faults of the sender of matter; that the larger part of the letters reaching the dead letter office are properly addressed and reach the office body. DEFENDS CENSUS FIGURES

Takes Up and Analyzes the Statemen of the National Board of Trade.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 .- L. G. Powers. thief statistician for agriculture in the census bureau, makes the following statement concerning the National Board of Trade report, alleging the census figures of farm acreage were grossly exaggerated.

The most important specifications under the search. that charge briefly summarized consist of one general and seven specific items as follows: follows:
(1) The census figures show 101 counties with farm lands reported equal to or in excess of surveyed lands surface of such (2) For Ohio 19 per cent of the number of counties are shown to represent 100 per cent or more of the entire surface in farm lands.

cent or more of the entire surface in farm lands.

(3) In Iowa 17 per cent.
(4) In Kansas 12 per cent.
(5) In Kentucky 9 per cent.
(6) In Missouri 9 per cent.
(7) In Tennessee 5 per cent.
(8) In Indiana 6 per cent.
(8) In Indiana 6 per cent.
Only two of the quoted statements can be substantiated as they stand in the report. Further, the committee in making its report did not possess statistics "of surveyed land" for a single state. These assertions can be easily established, provided the committee will give to the public the names and area of surveyed land of all the counties referred to by them. The statements of the committee with reference to the excess acreage in these seven states are more in excess of the facts than they allege the farm acreage in such states to be in excess of the true farm area. Further, the so-called excess acreage actually reported by the census is in harmony with the facts, as a cursory examination of the same will demonstrate. In prosecuting its investigations the committee never made one inquiry of the chief statistician in charge with reference to the alleged errors have passed in review.

More Paved Streets.

HOSPITAL MOVES TO BRAINERD BUILDING

No Trace of Frank Roberts, the Missing Cashler of Pacific Express Company-Fire and Police Board Talk.

"What South Omaha needs," said an eastern investor who was looking over the city Saturday and yesterday, "is more paved streets. Your city engineer tells me that South Omaha has an area of six and one-half square miles, with a total mileage of streets of 105. Six miles are paved and thirty-two miles are graded. The small per centage of paved streets in a city of the importance of South Omaka is surprising ' A call upon the city engineer verified the figures of the visitor and this fact goes to show that eastern people are keeping a close watch upon South Omaha

When this matter was brought to the attention of a number of the members of the council last night in an informal way It was agreed by all that South Omaha needs more paved streets.

One councilmen said that it was the fault of the property owners that improvements were not made more rapidly. The council, he said, stands ready and willing at any time to assist in forwarding improvements suggested by owners of property Another said: "The laying of pavement and the placing of permanent sidewalks will do much towards bringing our city to the attention of eastern investors. Property owners do not like to lay brick of stone walks until a pavement has been laid and this in a measure accounts for the dilapidated condition of the city's walks." It is probable that this matter of paying may be agitated between now and spring and that efforts will be made to have petitions for paving circulated all over the city. Suggestions were made that these streets be paved: Twenty-fifth street, north from L to D; M street from Twenty third street west to Twenty-sixth; Missouri avenue, from Twentieth street east to Thirteenth street; Twenty-third street, from N street north to F street; Q street, from Thirty-third west to Thirty-ninth street; Q street, east from Twenty-fourth to Twentieth street, and D and E streets. Twenty-fourth to Twenty-sixth from streets, It is also deemed necessary, in case the proposed general movement for paving goes through, to pave Railroad avenue to the county line. In this case the city will have to bear the expense, as it will in case the street on the south side of the postoffice building is paved. The construction of the A. O. U. W. hall at Twentyfifth and M streets calls for a paved street Twenty-fourth to Twenty-sixth from streets. The library board also wants M street paved from Twenty-fourth street east to Twenty-third street and so two districts on this small stretch may be needed. Councilmen say that they do not favor the laying of any more sandstone pavement. Instead, they think that asphalt and vitrified brick will serve better and will meet the approval of the people. However, property owners are given the privilege of designating the pavement desired.

Moving the Hospital.

Arrangements are about completed for the moving of the South Omaha hospital from Twenty-sixth and J streets to the ing beyond belief that all of them should Brainerd building at Twenty-fourth and D Brainerd building at Twenty-fourth and D cause of death, which they ascribe to a foundation the Essen factories have turned day. Those in charge have arranged matters so that the patients now in the institution will not be inconvenienced to any extent. In the Brainerd building there is a furnace and other modern improvements and members of the association hope to give better service than could possibly be given in the old building. An effort was made to secure funds enough for the srection of a hospital, building here, but on account of lack of support this plan could not be carried out. On account of the expense caused by moving the association needs money and will acknowledge any contributions through the press.

Fire and Police Board

"This talk about a fire and police board for South Omaha," said a prominent politician last night, "is all bosh. What does a city employing twenty-one policemen and ten firemen want of a commission. The salaries of the commission would more than pay for a couple of additional firemen and a policeman or two. The mayor is competent to handle a force of the size employed in South Omaha. What is needed is a larger appropriation for fire apparatus and more money for the police fund. If winter it will be to amend the charter so that both the fire and police departments may be enlarged."

As far as can be learned there is no to amend the charter so as to turn the control of the departments in question over to a commission

KRUPP DIES OF APOPLEXY

Gunmaker Committed Suicide. MADE LIFE OF WORKMEN COMFORTABLE

Along with His Socialistic Ideas the Great Manufacturer Was an Auto-erat in Managing His Works.

BERLIN, Nov. 23 .- The first assumption hat Herr Krupp, the great gunmaker, whose death was recorded yesterday, committed suicide is yielding to precise and abundant testimony to the contrary. Prof. Binswanger, a physician of the highest reputation, was in the apartment adjoining Herr Krupp's sleeping room when he was stricken on Sunday morning, and Dr. Pahl, Herr Krupp's family doctor, was also in the house. They summoned several other physicians, and it is regarded as be-stroke of apoplexy. officially, by mental excitement, from which Herr Krupp was suffering. Herr Krupp's medical history for several years past indicated that he was in delicate health. He was asthmatic, had a steel. weak heart and was subject to fainting spells. He fell to the ground unconscious while in Genoa several years ago and again while at dinner at a hotel here eighteen months ago. He had been warned to avoid overfatigue and worry. He was at Ham-burg Thursday last, and at the Hamburger hof it was observed that he was in highly nervous condition and scarcely in control of himself. His condition accounted for the presence of two physicians in the house at the time of his death, one of them being Prof. Binswanger. Mrs. Krupp was sent for from Jona. Sb is suffering from a nervous maindy, to was brought to Essen in a special 'camarriving there this morning. The funeral has been fixed for Wednesday. Chancellor von Buelow, all the ministers and a great number of other officials, following the example of the emperor, have telegraphed their condolences to the widow. Leaves Two Daughters. Herr Krupp leaves two daughters, who are at school, one named Barbara, aged 17, and the second, Bertha, 15 years of age. Herr Krupp's favorite study was to think out schemes for improving the well being of the lower classes, whileh he applied practically to what are called "labor colonies."

He assented seemingly to most socialis tic principles except that he held tight to the wage system, averring that the wageearners were not yet sufficiently developed or selfcontrolled to regulate for themselves any request is made of the legislature this a just division of profits. It is mentioned as an odd chance that a man who applied social reform ideas in so extensive a way should have been crushed by a social democratic newspaper, which, however, reserious intention of asking the legislature garded his measures to ameliorate the conditions of laborers as not touching the question of economic injustice.

Herr Krupp's father started the system of modern dwellings for workingmen as a matter of expediency, and Herr Krupp himself appears to have developed them from conviction and in accordance with his ideals. He owned 5,460 dwellings, each to whatever group it belonged being constructed with variations in the architecture to avoid monotony. Each house had a front yard in which were plots of ornamental gardening, the outside coloring and the interior No Shadow of Truth in Report that Great | decorations gave a certain nesthetic unity, while there was plenty of space and light, Herr Krupp had also a variety of institutions, some of them rather singular, such as 'bachelors' homes" and "widows' retreats."

Besides convalencent hospitals and orphanages, he had a pension fund for his employes amounting to $4,125,000. He contributed last year, as required by law, $372,-000 to the national insurance fund and gave voluntarily $4,080,000 to other insurance funds.

Autocratic in Some Ways.

Notwithstanding his benevolent interests he was an autocrat in the managemen of his concerns. He was almost unknown by sight to his workmen and rarely visited the works or his offices. He spent several months every year on the Island of Capri and managed his gunworks, rolling mills, iron mines and shipyards by letters and telegrams. Unlike his father, Herr Krupp took no interest in the technical side of his business, yet in fifteen years he more than doubled baye connived at a concealment of the the fortune which he inherited. Since their out 41,000 pieces of artillery. Herr Krupp resented being called "The Cannon King" and he said that half of all the output of his works was civilizing products, such as railway and ship material and structural
