BIG ATTENDANCE AT CHURCH

Union Thanksgiving Services Attract an Unusually Large Crowd.

REV. MILFORD RIGGS DELIVERS SERMON

Speaks of Reasons for Thankfulness and the Sentiments Which Usher About Observance of the Day.

"Be Ye Thankful" was the subject of Rev. Milford Riggs' sermon yesterday morning at the union Thanksgiving service in the First Presbyterian church, which was attended by the largest congregation since the union service of the Protestant churches was inaugurated. The music, which was especially fine, was rendered by the choir of the First Presbyterian church. The ministers assisting in the service were: Rev. H. W. Snyder, pastor of St. John's English Lutheran church; Rev. James Thomson, pastor of the First Congregational church; Rev. W. B. Crawdson, pastor of the First Christian church; Rev. A. E. Burill, pastor of Trinity Methodist church; Rev. W. J. Calfee, pastor of Broadway Methodist church; Rev. Harvey Hostetter, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church; Rev. W. S. Barnes, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Rev. Milford Riggs, pastor of the First Baptist church. Rev. Milford Riggs said in part:

This is not a day for boasting of what we are, or what we have achieved either as individuals or as a nation. Possibly we may be excused for indulging in a little national self-laudation on the Fourth of July, but this is rather a day and an occasion for gratitude for what has been done for us, and it is distinctly a religious occasion, inasmuch as our gratitude is to Him, the giver of all good gifts. The infidel and irreligious man cannot enter into the true meaning of Thanksgiving.

The unthankful man is an unhappy man. He must necessarily be so, seeing nothing to be thankful for, how can he be happy. You know the unthankful man is uninviting, and if so, then unlovable. He who never says, "I thank you," never says "I love you."

Grateful people will seek to give expression to their gratitude not merely in words, but in loving deeds as well. Out of the very intensity of our gratitude we should make a liberal offering this morning for the poor. Loving deeds are higher poetic expressions of gratitude than songs of thanksgiving. They are the translation of sentiment into the noblest purpose for which it can exist.

This is a day of thanksgiving for blessings received not simply as individuals, but as citizens of this nation for blessings that concern our people. We "see little that may seem to have touched us as public men." If I should begin to speak of our material and social and civil blessings where should I stop? There are great days for us as a nation.

But there comes in my mind this morning nothing for which we should be more thankful than the sentiment that gives us this day and perpetuates its observance. In these uncertain days we have none too large a place for sentiment. We are not writing much poetry and scarcely reading what has been written. Thanksgiving day does not promote any organized or commercial interests. Its perpetuation rests entirely upon sentiment. We should be thankful that there is enough holy sentiment left in our people to keep this good day afloat.

We sometimes hear it said that Thanksgiving day has lost much of its significance and does not mean to us what it did to our New England fathers. I believe it has a broader meaning, and has gained rather than lost in significance. I cannot think of the day apart from the principle of religious liberty, and certainly we have entered into a larger religious liberty than the Puritans enjoyed or permitted.

Thanksgiving day emphasizes the home. God's first and best institutional gift to man. It is a day for family gatherings, for home comings and home festivities, rather than a day for excursions.

This day takes God into consideration in our national life. Without Him the day has no significance. The skepticism of the present day is not the skepticism that denies God a place in our affairs, in the business and social realms of life God is largely ignored. Even churches often try to run without Him. In the midst of all this indifference toward God and ignoring of Him it is refreshing and to us a sign of hope that we should be called upon as a people by the chief executive of our nation and of our state to halt one day in our busy lives and recognize God as the great factor in our national life—the life of our life. In Him lies the solution to all our national problems. There can be no wise statesmanship that leaves out God.

We can surely be thankful for our nation. Are our lives as citizens such that our nation can be thankful for us? We can be patriotic in the highest sense, though we never go to war for our country. To live the life of a loyal citizen is as patriotic as to die on the battlefield. Our country is more in need of citizens than it is of soldiers.

STOPS MUNICIPAL WATER

Circuit Judge Destroys Precedent by Reversing Iowa Supreme Court Decision.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Nov. 27.—For the first time since the Dred Scott decision a United States circuit court has refused to follow a decision of a state supreme court. The case is that of the water supply company of Ottumwa against the city.

Plaintiffs sought to prevent the building of a municipal water plant and carried the case to the United States circuit court at St. Louis. That tribunal decides that Ottumwa has reached the legal limit of indebtedness, notwithstanding that the Iowa supreme court decided a levy for this purpose would not be a part of the constitutional indebtedness.

MAD FLIGHT OF STREET CAR

Runs Wild Down Hill Through the Streets of Des Moines.

MAKES A HALF MILE IN SHORT ORDER

Dozen Passengers More or Less Injured and a Little Girl is Likely to Die as a Result of the Accident.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, Nov. 27.—(Special.)—Thanksgiving day was ushered in here by a thrilling spectacle on Sixth avenue, where a street car ran madly downtown for more than a half mile along one of the leading streets of the city, at times going at a rate of from thirty to forty miles an hour. The street car was an old single truck car which had long been regarded as dangerous and the company had contemplated putting it out of commission many times. When the car turned into Sixth avenue at School street the brake broke and the trolley flew the wire. For a quarter of a mile there was a moderate downgrade, but enough to give the car great impetus. The track was good and the car held its place on the rails. When it reached the top of the Sixth avenue hill it was going at terrific speed, and here the grade becomes steep, for nearly a block being about 5 or 6 per cent, and the car increased its speed with every foot traversed.

At the foot of the hill the car was going by jumps. The motorman kept his place and the passengers, terrified beyond action, huddled together to await the crash at the end. Luckily the car kept the tracks for two or three blocks farther. At Grand avenue an outgoing car was standing on the switch. The runaway car left the track and tore off the side of the standing car, which was waiting to pass. Then the car turned toward the sidewalk and at Locust street plunged into the curb in front of a drug store. A lamp post broke the force of the crash and the car came to a sudden stop on the sidewalk. The car was torn and shattered to pieces.

Jumps and is Injured.

The first of the passengers to be injured was Harry Kirkwood, who jumped from the car before it had gone two blocks. He struck the pavement with great force and was much bruised. All the others remained on the car. Mrs. John Frawley and her daughter, 8 years old, were in the car. She was bruised and splinters were run through her flesh, but she will survive. The child fell in a way that when the crash came the stove fell upon it, but a passenger seized the stove. The child is so badly injured she will die. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cope were slightly injured. Sampel West, an old man, was greatly bruised. E. B. Bradley was badly injured, but will not die. Herman Kline, the motorman, did not leave his post until he saw the crash was inevitable, when he retreated into the car, and he escaped with flesh wounds. The runaway car and the one which was struck were both wrecked and will be abandoned.

It is not known just why the brake failed to work or broke, but the car was an old one. Heavy damage suits against the company are certain to follow.

Appeal in Bailliet Case.

Judge Bishop and District Attorney Lewis Miles have been engaged the last three days preparing the bill of exceptions to be filed in the appeal of Letson Bailliet from the decision of Judge Munger to the United States court of appeals. The work was practically concluded yesterday afternoon and the matter will go direct to the court of appeals. The transcript in the Bailliet case has been made, but will not be filed with the court of appeals in time for a decision during the next term of court, which convenes at St. Louis next Monday. The matter will then of a necessity go over until the May term. In other words, the defendant will not learn whether or not he is to pay the $500 fine imposed by the lower court and remain in jail for a period of a year until next summer. In the meantime he is enjoying liberty on a $2,500 appeal bond. The bill of exceptions under course of preparation by the attorneys for the government and defense embodies the points covered in the assignment of errors, but is more in detail and points out errors of the court during the trial of the case. The bill also includes the complaints made in the application for a new trial which Judge Munger overruled when sentence was imposed a few weeks ago.

Land Case Completed.

The transcript of evidence in the case of the big land controversy in Sac county was filed with the register of the United States landoffice today. This case involves 1,000 acres of the best land in the Boyer valley lying along the tracks of the Chicago & Northwestern. It is land which was originally surveyed as swamp land by the government and disposed of to the present occupants as such by the state and county. It was afterward claimed by the railroad company as indemnity land and sold to purchasers through a railroad land company. The issue is whether or not it was in fact swamp land when surveyed fifty years ago and the testimony relates to that fact. The transcript filed makes over 3,000 typewritten pages of copy.

Changes in Guard Numbers.

The adjutant general has issued an order making a change in the names of the various regiments of the Iowa National guard. The regiments in the guard as reorganized after the Cuban war were given the number names of the volunteer regiments from Iowa in the regular service. This has been a source of annoyance to the guard and to the volunteers. Now the names are changed from the Forty-ninth to Fifty-second and are given the names Fifty-third to Fifty-sixth inclusive. At the same time there is some rearrangement of the military districts and a few changes in companies. The Oskaloosa company is changed and put into the Fifty-fourth regiment. The Burlington company is changed from F to H and the Chariton company goes into the Fifty-fifth. The vacancy caused by the failure of the Stuart company has not as yet been filled.

Shoots Himself on Wedding Day.

A wedding set for Thanksgiving day at noon in this city was cut short by the prospective groom deciding that suicide was preferable. Bert McNutt, who has been driver for an oil supply house, was to have been married to Gertrude Guth. Her parents had opposed the match and he was very despondent over this fact. He shot himself a short time before the hour set for the wedding. He left a number of letters to Miss Guth, but her parents refused to make them public.

GUARDS WIN A TOUGH GAME

Lads from Normal School Make Them Work for the Victory.

FINAL SCORE IS SIXTEEN TO ELEVEN

Normalites Make a Spectacular Play by Blocking a Kick and Running Forty Yards for a Touchdown.

In the best exhibition of foot ball seen in Council Bluffs since the days of the big games between Iowa and Nebraska the Dodge Light Guards yesterday afternoon defeated the Iowa State Normal on Manawa field by a score of 16 to 11. The sixteen points made by the Guards consisted of three well-earned touchdowns and one goal, while the visitors had to their credit a touchdown, a goal and a safety. It was by good, straight, hard play that the Guards crossed the goal line of their opponents for each of the three touchdowns, while the visitors secured their touchdown by a spectacular play that gave them an easy try for goal, and their safety accrued to them through a kick by the Guards that rebounded from the Guards' own line. From start to finish it was ever apparent that the local team was the stronger; even in the second half, when it was expected the Guards would show the lack of training as against their well-trained opponents, they stood up to the play and saw the battle out like the men of the gridiron they have proved themselves to be, by never being beaten.

The Guards again, as on the occasion of the game with Highland Park, showed excellent interference and seldom failed to gain ground. They relied on no particular style of play to make their gains, but made progress either at bucking the line or by end runs. In the latter plays Dietrich and Dailey were good for gains right along, and when a line play was undertaken Williams was the best material.

Makes Spectacular Play.

The game opened with the kickoff by the Normal. The Guards began working the ball right down the field and were within twenty-five yards of the goal line when they lost the ball on penalty. They soon recovered it on downs and at the end of ten minutes after the game had commenced Bailey had been sent over for a touchdown, circling the end. Thomas kicked a difficult goal. Score, 6 to 0.

After five minutes' more play the Normal held the Guards and forced the latter to punt. Dewell broke through and blocked the ball, and Pell, who was right with him, grabbed it and had a clear field for forty yards to the goal line, planting the oval directly between the goal posts. The goal was an easy one and was kicked. Score, 6 to 6.

Up to this time the game looked a little one-sided, but this bit of spectacular playing injected a lot of interest into the contest, and the guards and their friends saw that a good game was on. The Guards kicked off and soon had the Normal boys
