"The idea of fifty widows being brought secure Tobin that the latter may swear to before me like so many sheep and signing his bachelorhood. and swearing to documents without reading them or knowing their contents is ridiculous on the face of it," said Mr. Hoyt yesterday. "The statement that any widow ever made a filing in my office without first the documents she was to sign is absolutely ferent religious faith. untrue. In each case all the legal requirements have been complied with in my office, and all who wished to hold their receipts were given an opportunity to do so. In some instances the widows asked me to keep the receipts for them, as I would be better able to keep them in a safe place. This I have done merely as a matter of accommodation. What I really wrote to Mrs. Brenberger of Blatr was that I had her reecipt and that if she wanted it I would gladly send it at any time and that the same held true in the case of the other

Many Widows Lease Land.

"Many of these widows lease their land, and they often take it up for no other purpose. According to the law, as prominent attorneys interpret it, there is nothing irregular in so doing. It would defeat the object of the act if the widows were required to live on their claims. If that were the case only those wealthy enough to support 160 acres could take claims."

In upholding this point Hoyt brought forward the following extract from a decision of the Department of the Interior relating to public lands:

The statute makes no distinction between the widow and the guardian of minor orphan children in regard to requirements. The same things are required of each. On what reasonable legal ground then could the department base a rule requiring the residence from the widow and not from the guardian of minor orphan children. To require the widow to reside on the land guardian of minor orphan children. To require the widow to reside on the land would be to deprive the statute of much of its beneficial effects. Such a rule would fall hardest upon the most deserving classes—those who are encumbered with small children, or who through poverty or weakness or inexperience or womanly fear are unable to cope single-handed with the hardships of frontier life.

HOYT IN HIS OWN DEFENSE PROTESTS AGAINST MARRIAGE

William Tobin Attempts to Get License, but Ills States Entera Objections.

Smaha packing house employe, resident at Thirty-second and S streets, is having trouble in trying to become a married man. All Monday afternoon a woman declaring herself his sister camped in the office of the marriage license clerk at the court house waiting for him to appear in quest of a license. She averred that he was murried fourteen years ago and had never been divorced, but that he now plans to take an additional wife in the person of Lizzie Neb., who was accused in a widow's letter Panelow. When she left she gave instructions that in case of emergency Ella Crawford of the South Omaha telephone exof duty in the filing of widow's claims, is in change was to be telephoned. #### Amusements.

At the Boyd,

In making over the garment which so snugly fitted the late Sol Smith Russell for the use of Mr. James Neill, the alterations in the gen ral style and fini h became so apparent that the result is in no wise satisfactory. Much of fine dramatic force has been sacrificed to produce uncertain melodramatic situations, and not a little of its quaint humor has evapora.ed during the process. Its adaptation to the limitations of general use has not by any means had the effect of destroying the beauty of the comedy though, and it is likely to long remain a standard. Mr. Nelll's company presents his version of the play with good effect. In the name part Mr. Neill finds ample scope for the exhibition of his ability. ### ATTACK ON PURE FOOD LAW

Wholesalers Question Validity of the Act

on Technical Ground. William Tobin, aged 35 and a South

CONTEND THAT TITLE IS INSUFFICIENT Is to Regulate, Manufacture and Sale of Cider and Vinegar, but

Its Title Does Not So

Specify.

Before Judge Baxter of the district bench. Attorney T. J. Mahoney, as counsel for the Paxton & Gallagher company, yesterday began what is commonly understood to be determined effort to break the pure food law of Nebraska, such effort being backed not only by the Paxton & Gallagner company, but by a considerable number of vinegar dealers over the state who, for the surpose, have united with the local wholeale firm in a sort of temporary combine. The case is that of the State against The Paxton & Gallagher Company for wholesaling grain vinegar for a year prior to last March without a state license. Deputy County Attorney George Magney prosecuting for the state at the instance of S. C. Bassett, deputy state food commissioner. The case was first called before Justice Bryce Crawford, who found the Paxton & Gallagher company guilty and imposed a fine of $10. The suit was appealed and called yesterday morning, with jury waived.

Judge Baxter heard the arguments and took the case under advisement. Point Raised by Defense.

Attorney Mahoney has assailed the pure food law on a technicality, but one that the judge considered of sufficient importance to warrant careful judicial consideration, as the case is certain to be appealed tosthe supreme court whichever way he may

The pure food act of the Nebraska legislature's creation in 1899 was entitled, "An act in the regulation of the manufacture and sale of foods, including imitation butter and imitation cheese and dairy products." But in the body of the act there is added to these words the further stipulation, "cider or vinegar," and on this Attorney Mahoney raises his contention of the invalidity of the act, asserting that the title does not, as is required by law, comprehend all subjects included in the cody of the act. In other words, that the failure of the framer of the bill to include in the title the words 'cider or vinegar," used in the body of the act, invalidates the act itself in that particular, and of course in all particulars.

Prosecuting Attorney Talks. Deputy County Attorney Magney says: "I contend that the word 'foods' in the title is sufficient to cover the 'cider or vinegar' clause in the body of the act, but the judge was not ready to agree with me, and I do not know how we are coming out in this court on this contention. But the case is certain to go higher, as Mr. Mahoney brought up other points in his argument this morning

"Under the food commission act of 1899 the governor as state food commissioner is empowered to appoint a deputy who, in turn, appoints a number of clerks or assistants. Merrill, a dairyman of Clay county, who refused to take out a permit, when prosecuted fought the case on the ground that the act was vold because it created a bids, and upon the further ground that in providing for a commission and an appropriation it included two matters in title, which also is forbidden.

Supreme Court Decision.

court sustained the law, affirming that a deputy for the food commissioner was not a new state officer, and that the appropriasays F. D. Reynolds of Mansfield, O., "and tion was merely to enable the carrying out grew so bad you could hear him breathe all of the provisions of the commission act. Attorney Mahoney revived these contenlieved and sent him to sleep. That's the nounced that he would follow the decision dividual opinion.

"It is only the wholesalers who are involved. The requirement doesn't apply c anvone selling less than fifty barrels per rar hose selling that number or more have take out a yearly permit, which costs $50. It is, I presume, to avoid future payments of this amount that the vinegar wholesalers of the state have combined in the present effort to successfully defend Paxton & Gallagher. If they succeed, it seems to me the whole pure food act is knocked out."

KILLED BY SWITCH ENGINE

Hugh J. Dervin Meets Violent Death Under the Sixteenth Street Vinduct.

Hugh J. Dervin, a switchman on the Union Pacific, was crushed and instantly killed at 7:10 last night by Union Pacific switch engine No. 94. Mr. Dervin had just losed the switch for east bound passenger No. 2 of the Illinois Central and had stepped back upon the Union Pacific track when the switch engine backed down upon him. The accident occurred under the Sixteenth street viaduct and the remains were removed to the coroner's office. Dervin was a single man, about 40 years old, and lived with his mother and sisters at 2120 North Twenty-eighth street. The coroner probably will have an inquest today.

A MILLION BARRELS.

Enormous Sales Give to Schlitz Beer the Leadership.

It is announced by the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. that over a million barrels of Schlitz beer have been sold during the year ending December 1, 1902. There is no other beer brewed in famous Milwaukee which approaches this extent of sales. It is not generally known that the Schlitz brewery is owned by five brothers who received their education in the science of brewing in the best schools of Europe Every department of this brewery, from the buying of materials to the bottling of the finished product, is in direct charge of these practical men, the owners of the usiness.

From the very start these men decided to double the cost of ordinary brewing in order that Schlitz beer might be absolutely pure. They bored six wells down to rock, in order to secure water without a touch of impurity. They built a plate glass room for cooling the beer and arranged so that all the air which touched the beer was passed first through an air

They built machine filters for thoroughly filtering the beer before it was bottled They installed the Pasteur system for sterflizing every bottle after it is sealed. They built refrigerating rooms of 400, 000 barrels capacity, so that the beer might be aged there for months before it was marketed. This was because beer which is not sufficiently aged causes biliousness. All this made Schlitz beer cost twice a much in the brewing as a common beer need cost, and knowing ones said that they could never make it pay. That people cared

The facts stated above indicate that they have made it pay and that people do care for purity.
