h senatorial family drove up. The boy who had been the justice's caddy the previous day jumped out. He ran up to Justice Harlan, cap in hand, and said: "I am awfully sorry I couldn't get here at 2 o'clock, but, you see, mamma had a luncheon for Senator Depew. and I just couldn't get the carriage to come out in any sooner."

A Missouri editor who is about to pull up and leave for lack of support sarcastically remarks in parting that editors don't need "Don't worry about the editor," money. he says. "He has a charter from the state to act as doormant for the community. He'll get the paper out somehow, and stand up for you when you run for office, and lie about your pigeon-toed daughter's tackey wedding, and blow about your big-footed sons when they get a $4-a-week job, and weep over your shriveled soul when it is released from your grasping body, and smile at your giddy wife's second marriage. He'll get along. The Lord only knows nowbut the editor will get there somehyw."

A week ago the hero of Niagura Falls died at the age of 72 in the pergon of William Ellis. He won his title of hero in 1848, when the first suspension bridge was being erected across the gorge. The first footbridge had been thrown over the gorge and a second one was building forty feet away on the second se,s of cables. Between the two crude ple forms the old iron basket was operate A. A terrific storm broke from the southwist, which swept down the gorge and wrecled the bridge or platforms. Four men were caught far out over midstream, hanging by two strands of No. 10 wire. It 'geemed as though nothing could save the e, but Ellis volunteered to go out to take more than one at a time aboard, he back to the cliff.
