JUSTIN MCCARTHY'S HISTORY OF ENGLAND

Another Novel by the Popular Author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress"

"The Heritage" is the title of Burton E. Stevenson's latest novel. The scene is laid in Ohio a few years after the revolution, and the hero takes part in St. Clair's ill-fated expedition against the Indians.

We have received from Harper & Bros. "The Reign of Queen Anne" in two volumes. This history of the life and times of Queen Anne is a very fitting introduction to the series of the popular histories of England, her men, manners and events.

"A Doffed Coronet," an illustrated novel published by Harpers, is illustrated under the guise of fiction, written by the popular author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress" and "The Tribulations of a Princess."

"Men and Women," by Minot J. Savage, is the title of an attractive volume dealing with the ethical phases of the relation of men and women. The book is published by the American Unitarian association.

"The Tribulations of a Princess," the opening scenes of the book are laid in Egypt during the period following the Arabi Pasha rebellion, when Cairo was a hotbed of international intrigue and of diplomatic strife.

Lillian Whiting, who is best known to the world at large as the author of "The World Beautiful," in her latest book, "Boston Days," has aimed to crystallize into literary record the unique phases and exceptional movements which have stamped their impress upon the city of the Puritans.

Beautiful," in her latest book, "Boston Days," has aimed to crystallize into literary record the unique phases and exceptional movements which have stamped their impress upon the city of the Puritans, and without attempting to catalogue all of the authors, living or dead, who have lived in and about Boston, she comments on the careers of those persons who have given the city its present position and prestige in the world of letters.

We have just received a little volume by Henry Demarest Lloyd, entitled "A Country Without Strife," which has an unusual and timely interest at present, when the attention of the entire civilized world is attracted to the great struggle between the miners and the operators before an arbitration commission appointed by President Roosevelt.

MAN AND HIS ENVIRONMENT

Dr. Vincent Expounds the Doctrine of the "New Social Philosophy" to Large Audience.

An audience, numerically somewhat stronger than has been the average attendance on the university extension lectures of the course on modern social problems, listened with appreciation last night in the First Congregational church, to George E. Vincent, Ph. D., whose subject, "The New Social Philosophy," concludes the series.

Mr. Vincent began with a scoffer's definition of philosophy, and explained at length, with concrete illustrations, the two antagonistic schools of philosophy of former years—the individualistic and the socialistic, the former of which held that man, the individual, rose entirely by his own superiority and was individually responsible, and only pooled certain interests with society because of the advantages of combination, for which he was willing to sacrifice certain personal liberties; and the latter, of which Spencer was the principal exponent, which held that man was simply the product of society and insisted on the theory of interdependence.

He then explained the more modern theory, of which Prof. James was the first expounder, and which analyzes the consciousness of man under the terms imitation and invention. "According to this school every person is largely the product of the group within which he has passed the formative period. Man imitates what he sees in others, so that all units of one group are largely identical. But there is also in every mind the power of invention, and this is what makes the slight difference between each person and all others. In some invention scarcely exists, in others it is comparatively broad. Man is usually not antagonistic to society, and is commonplace; but sometimes a person stands out against it and insists on his individuality. Such a one is a criminal or a genius."

WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU. Few People Realize the Importance of Good Digestion Until It is Lost.

Many people suffer from dyspepsia and do not know it. They feel mean, out of sorts, peevish, do not sleep well, do not have a good, keen appetite, do not have the inclination and energy for physical or mental work they once had, but at the same time do not feel any particular pain or distress in the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by digesting the food instead of making the stomach do all the work, gives it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

When you are nervous, run down and sleepless don't make the common mistake of supposing your nervous system needs treatment and fill your stomach with powerful nerve tonics which make you feel good for a little while, only to fall back farther than ever.

Your nerves are all right, but they are starved, they want food.

Nourish them with wholesome every day food and plenty of it, well digested, and you can laugh at nerve tonics and medicine.

But the nerves will not be nourished from a weak, abused stomach, but when the digestion has been made perfect by the use of this remedy all nervous symptoms disappear.

Who ever heard of a man or woman blessed with a vigorous digestion and good appetite being troubled with their nerves? Good digestion means a strong nervous system, abundance of energy and capacity to enjoy the good things of life.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will certainly set your stomach and digestive organs right; they can't help but do it because they nourish the body by digesting the food eaten and rest the stomach.

Musical

At the Boyd. The Gordon-Shay Opera company in Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" in two acts, and Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" in one act. "Pagliacci" cast of characters: Carlo..... Walter Wheatley

Tomio..... Achille Alberti Nilda..... James Stevens Cavallotti..... Pauline Johnson Peppe..... Earl Manning "Cavalleria Rusticana" cast of characters: Santuzza..... Rose Cecelia Shay

Luca..... Elvise Bishop Turiddu..... Joseph Fredericks Alfio..... James Stevens Signor Nacciusso, musical director.

A double bill of opera was the attraction at the Boyd last night, when the Gordon-Shay Opera company presented the opera of the clowns, or "Pagliacci," by Leoncavallo, and the well known "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Mascagni, the two most conspicuous figures, it may be said, of the modern young Italian school.

Despite the fact that such comfortable words as "Gasthaus" appeared over the houses in the scenery of a play, which was disposed to be inhuman and imagine the things that might be lacking. Just as they tried to imagine that the orchestra and principals and orchestra and chorus were together at times.

A fairly good crowd of the faithful was there and applauded everything that was presented, to encourage the people on the stage to put forth their best efforts. They did.

As Santuzza, Miss Shay did some very telling work; some of her scenes were appealingly dramatic and dramatically appealing. She is a temperamental actress and singer, but, without disparaging her part last night in the least, she is still remembered by many on account of her Carmen, which she will present again tonight.

Mr. Alberti, for some reason, sang the "prologue" in Italian. However, it is good, from him, in any language.

Mr. Stevens came well to the front in the role of Silvio in the one opera and Alfio in the other. The other parts were satisfactorily sustained.

This afternoon "Il Trovatore" and tonight "Carmen."

Effect of a Fall. Mrs. James Cotrell of 407 T street, South Omaha, had the misfortune to slip on the icy pavement at Fourteenth and Douglas streets yesterday evening shortly after 6 o'clock, and in falling fractured the lower bone of the spinal column. She was taken to the police station made as comfortable as possible until the arrival of her family physician, who directed that she be removed to the South Omaha hospital. She was sent there in the police ambulance. The injury is not a painful but not dangerous nature and necessitates an operation.
