features. "This city should be the dumping ground for western grain," said he. "We should have cereal mills and flour mills and glucose factories. If we get these railroads with us those things will all come." It was determined that Mr. Her's suggestion would come regularly in order later on.

"I should like to ask Mr. Merriman why he does not bid for grain along the Burlington road," said Mr. Sunderland.

"Because it would be of no use," was the reply. "The results wouldn't pay for the stationery used."

"Doesn't the rate forbid it?" persisted Mr. Sunderland.

"You may draw your own inferences," was the response.

Victor Rosewater's Ideas.

Victor Rosewater was called upon. "I wish to say that we are with you," said he. "I think you have started right. The first thing to do is to make out a case, as you are about to do by the appointment of this committee. There is no reason why Omaha should not have a grain market. It is situated as well as the other grain centers. Given favorable conditions and there is no question of the success of this matter. We have the same chances in this matter that we had in the fight for the stock yards. We must have unity to win."

"It is foolish to think that any sentiment of sympathy or philanthropy will influence the railroads in this matter. You must show them that it is to their own advantage to give the help required, and then they'll do it. It is simply a case of present benefits as opposed to future ones, and it must be made plain to the railroads that the future ones will far outweigh the present ones."

"Some of the grain men are avoiding participation in this affair because they fear they will lose railroad favors. As a matter of fact they think they are getting favors when they are to be the roads do for one grain man they do for the rest. Anyway, there is no object in keeping still unless the railroads are going to kick back, and they will not. It is to their advantage to do business with one grain firm instead of several."

Mr. Cottrell was asked just what it was that the grain men needed from the railroads in order to insure the success of the market. He said:

"We must have a pro rate to Omaha in equality to the proportion of the through rate."

Mr. Van Dorn then moved that the present organization be made permanent. Mr. Walsh seconded the motion, but it met with strenuous opposition.

Question of Organization.

"This motion brings us to the question of whether the grain market is to be under a separate organization or to be identified with the Board of Trade," said Mr. Merriman. "Mr. Walsh, are we to be under the auspices of that organization?"

"I should say not," was the reply, and Mr. Walsh followed it with his reasons for favoring an independent organization. "This aroused great opposition. Mr. Her was first to get the floor. 'I am unalterably opposed to a separate organization,'" said he. "I do not think you can succeed save under the auspices of the Board of Trade. Only that arrangement can lead the necessary weight and responsibility. We don't want too many organizations. It weakens things."

Mr. McWhorter followed. "I have always found that the Board of Trade will give the grain men what they want," said he, and I am positive it will again."

"Chairman Peck here took occasion to express himself. 'I think it a great mistake,'" said he, "to attempt any independent organization. The Board of Trade is just what we need to back us. The directory will help us, and it will not be an election is coming and there is a chance to put in men who will. This arrangement does not mean that all those who are to trade in the exchange must hold memberships in the Board of Trade. That would be too expensive and too much to expect. But we can arrange to sell trading privileges, floor privileges, at a reasonable sum, say $50 a year. The Board of Trade already has the necessary rules for us to proceed under and it should certainly handle this grain market."

At the close of the meeting Mr. Peck said: "I feel that we are well started toward what we want, that we have begun right and that the movement is actually on foot and in the right direction."

CHANGE BREAKFAST.

Habit of Healthy Europeans.

The sturdy Scotch, Germans, French and Italians seldom or never eat meat for breakfast.

Long experience has taught that the breakfast should be simple and not include meat.

Many Americans suffer with weak stomachs and more or less illness because they fail to understand the simple and healthful plan of breakfast somewhat like the following:

A little fruit.
A dish of Grape-Nuts and cream.
One or two soft eggs.
A cup of Postum Food Coffee and perhaps a piece of hard toast.
A man says, "I couldn't go on that until one or two days' trial will teach him a big volume of facts and make him feel 'fit as a fiddle.'" There is a deep underlying and scientific reason. The best argument, however, is the actual experience with such breakfasts.

LENA LILLIE SHOWS COURAGE

Prosecution Expects to Prove Case at Preliminary Hearing.

SHERIFF WEST TAKES THE STAND

Testimony is Mostly as to Details Connected with the Crime—Long List of Witnesses Yet to Come.

DAVID CITY, Neb., Jan. 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Willis D. Westover, a member of the coroner's jury, was on the stand this morning at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Lena M. Lillie on the charge of murdering her husband. This afternoon Sheriff West was called, and testified in detail as to his investigations at the house on the morning of the crime. Court adjourned until Monday before the sheriff's cross-examination was completed.

From the list of witnesses yet to testify it is not thought that the hearing will be concluded before the last of next week. While Mrs. Lillie is beginning to fully realize the gravity of the awful crime with which she is charged, she is standing the ordeal with remarkable fortitude.

Prosecution is Confident.

Counsel for the state consider that they scored a strong point yesterday with the witnesses who were on the stand, Dr. S. C. Beede, Dr. H. E. Burdick and J. D. Sprague. These are the best witnesses for the prosecution that have yet been introduced. The attorneys say their best and strongest evidence is yet to come and that they have plenty of it. They evidently believe that Judge Skiles will hold the defendant to the district court. In his testimony yesterday afternoon J. D. Sprague said that Mrs. Lillie testified before the coroner's jury that all that was stolen out of the house on the morning of the murder was $300 in money belonging to her and a small amount of money from Mr. Lillie's trousers' pockets, and some notes belonging to her, and that nothing else in the house was disturbed.

This morning throngs of people were making their way to the courthouse for more than one hour before the time for court to convene. Some carried their lunch baskets, evidently intending to spend the entire day as spectators in the temple of justice. Mrs. Lillie arrived at the courtroom promptly at 9 o'clock, accompanied by her parents, her sister, Mrs. Grisinger, and Sam Lillie. Mrs. Mary Lillie, mother of the murdered man, is not present to attend the hearing for the reason that she is subpoenaed as a witness for the defense. Mrs. Lillie reads the morning papers carefully and seems much interested in them. As usual, the attorneys were late and court did not convene until near 10 o'clock.

Repeats Mrs. Lillie's Story.

Willis D. Westover was the first witness. He was a member of the coroner's jury. Witness said:

"Mrs. Lillie said she was awakened that morning by a loud noise. She saw a man standing by the bed pointing a revolver at her. She rolled off the bed, and heard the man run out of the room and down stairs. The first thing she thought of was help. She screamed screaming and called to the girls, saying that her husband had been shot, and telling them to go for help. She said they lighted a lamp and they all went downstairs, she preceding. The girls went to the telephone to get help and she went to the telephone."

"Mrs. Lillie described the man as about the size of Harvey. She said he might have had a beard and might not; he might have worn a mask and might not. The revolver, she said, was a bright one."

Witness then portrayed to the court the position of the man as he stood by the bed, saying: "I saw Dr. Sprague place a pencil through the hole in the glass, and the hole in the screen, and the outside of the pencil was the highest, indicating that the range of the bullet was slightly up-
