Also Another of a Cure of Eczema of the Scalp and Hands when All Else Failed.

*Tt was a happy day for me when I could look myself squarely in the face, be cause for a long time I had avoided looking in a mirror."

So said Mr. Charles E. Coryell, a travelling salesman, living at No. 1446 Bedford Ayenue, Brooklyn Borough. New York City, to Mr. Bolton, of the Bolton Drug Co. Young as he is, he has sold goods in every State of the Union, and you could not find in a day's journey

a man who has less reason to avoid mirrors than he has at present.
"When I was about eighteen," Mr. Coryell went on, "my face was covered with pimples that seemed to break out all at once. Some of my friends said that growing boys are often troubled that way, but that was mighty poor consolation for a fellow who liked to go out in society and took a proper pride in his app arance. My cheeks, chin and forehead were thickly dotted with those abominable pimples. The temptation to pick and scratch at the ugly things was almost overpowering, but I had strength of will to resist it, for I knew that scratching would only make bad worse.

"I suffered little physically, because the hideous eruption was not painful, but my distress of mind is a thing I do t like to dwell upon, even now. I imagined that everybody was looking at me and making disagreeable remarks about me as soon as I was out of hearing. Some-

"Remedies? Bless you, every friend I met had one. I washed my face with various soaps. I greased and powdered it in vain. Not merely did the pimples stick, but a new trouble came. My scalp became dry, hot and itchy. The least rubbing brought a gray shower of dandruff upon my shoulders. I wondered if I was to be baldheaded before I was of age, for I knew that dandruff leads to baldness as surely as the Ocean Parkway leads to Coney Island.

December Meteorological Summary. In the thirty-two years elapsing since the local weather bureau began keeping record there never has been a December marked by nearly as much precipitation as the December just closed. Its total was 2.72 inches (melted), whereas the previous high mark was the 1877 record of 2.14 inches, and the precipitation average for Decembers is 6.97 inches. To make this new mark possible twenty-five of the thirty-one days in the month had to be cloudy or partly cloudy, with a mean temperature of 22 above, or 4 degrees colder than the average of the thirty-two Decembers. This month the extremes were 50 above on the first day and 8 degrees below on the twenty-sixth day.

Cocaine Probably Responsible.

W. E. Park was arrested last night by Detectives Heelan and Fisk in the White Front saloon. Park was employed as a dishwasner in the Vienna hotel and on New Year's night ran amuck among the kitchen employes. Everyone fled and escaped without injury, but one cook had a narrow escape, as Park cut the back of his cost open. It is probable that there will be no prosecution. The prisoner only recently came here from Des Moines and when searched at the station was found to be addicted to the use of cocaine.

HOW TO DRINK MILK.

Why it Disagrees With Some People When one needs a reviving stimulant after exhaustion nothing can rival the effects of not milk sipped slowly. Some people say they cannot digest milk and these are the people who drink it down quickly, so that the digestive acids, in playing around it, form large curds which give trouble before they can be absorbed.

The right way is to sip the milk in small amounts, so that each mouthful, as it descends into the stomach, is surrounded by the gastric fluid, and when the whole glassful is down the effect is that of a spongy mass of curds, in and out of which the keen gastric juices course, speedily doing their work of turning the curd into peptones that the tissues can take up.

To make sure of complete digestion take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets afterward, as the pepsin and distase they contain increase the quantity and efficiency of the gastric juices and supply the natural ligestive ferments which all weak stomachs

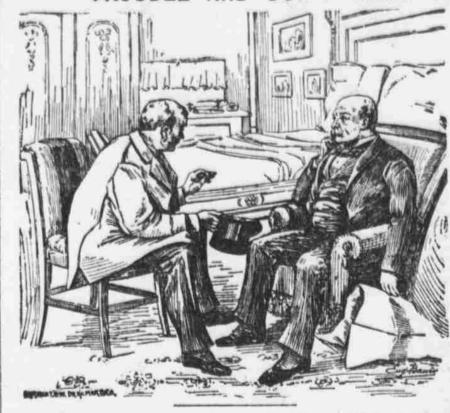

Miss Anna Folger, a professional nurse, speaking of the value of Stuart's Tablets in convalescence, says: "In adult patients reovering from severe illness, and especially in children where milk disagrees, one or two tablets overcome any difficulty and seem to strength the stomach in a remarkably short time. I myself have used them daily for years, when my own digestion has suffered from the irregularities and loss of sleep consequent upon my occupation.

"Not only children and invalids, but proessional people and others whose meals are necessarily hurried or irregular will find Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets of the greatest value in keeping up the tone and digestive vigor of the stomach.

They contain the active digestive ferments the lack of which is really the only cause of indigestion and stomach troubles, and the regular daily use of them after meals will probably cure any case of stomach trouble except such as arises from cancer or ulcera-
