Devotes His Spare Time to Revising His Latin Poems, a Complete Edition of Which is to Be Issued Soon.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) VIENNA, Jan. 10.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Recent sensational reports concerning the pope's alleged breakdown at an audience for the cardinals led the World correspondent to obtain first-hand information from Pío, Mazoni, the pope's physician, who said in response to a question:

"You may reassure the readers of the World his holiness continues to enjoy excellent health. Indeed, when disease and mortality among aged persons were at their height, it is extraordinary that Leo XIII. should have remained exempt from even a cold. This is all the more to be wondered at because he takes no special precautions and grants audiences as usual, passing from his private apartments through the long corridors and the galleries of the Vatican, thereby exposing himself to changes of temperature which might have the most detrimental effect upon a less robust constitution."

"The holy father's heart and lungs are still as sound as a bell, and his Spartan simplicity of diet has preserved the digestive organs in perfect condition."

"Everything justifies the hope that Leo may still occupy his exalted post for many years to come. But, on the other hand, the slightest attack of acute nature might prove fatal. It is rather upon the miraculous maintenance of the present conditions than anything else that we must rely for the prolonging of his life."

"How do you explain the World correspondent's report of the incident at the reception at the sacred college which gave rise to such alarming rumors?"

Overcome by Emotion.

"It simply happened as follows," Prof. Mazoni answered, "as it was told to me by the pontiff himself: He was greatly moved by the cordiality of the cardinals' address read by Cardinal Gregorio and wished to answer, alluding at the same time to the sorrow he felt at the numerous deaths which have occurred in the ranks of the sacred college during the year but he was overcome by his emotion, his voice trembled, a lump rose in his throat, and, being unable to proceed, he bestowed the apostolic blessing on all present, and, rising without any effort, withdrew to his private apartments. The story that he was indignant at some expressions contained in the cardinals' address is manifestly absurd, as the address, according to an invariable custom, had been previously submitted to and approved by him."

The most recent photo taken of the pope shows him walking, with the aid of his cane, slightly stooping under the weight of his years, but at the same time looking energetic and active.

The pontiff is usually carried from his private apartments to the Vatican gardens in a chair of red damask by the sedar, or chair men, escorted by four Swiss guards and by his faithful valet, Pío Centra, who stands by the chair to open the door.

Grants Many Audiences.

As the end of his jubilee year approaches Pope Leo XIII. displays an extraordinary amount of energy and activity, granting numerous audiences, receiving pilgrimages, publishing important documents, such as the recent one on biblical studies, and devoting his spare time to revising his Latin poems, a complete edition of which will be issued soon.

In one of these, entitled "Deo et Virgini Mariæ Extrema Leona Vota," originally written in Italian, the pope has introduced some beautiful and pathetic lines, referring to his approaching end.

The mother general of a religious sisterhood recently had the honor of a private audience with the holy father, to whom she expressed her fervent hope that he might live to 100.

"Thank you, thank you, my child," replied the pontiff, "but why assign a limit to Providence?"

INVESTIGATE HEWITT'S LAMP

George Westinghouse Introduces Inventor to English Railway Managers.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, Jan. 10.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Mr. George Westinghouse entertained yesterday all the big managers of the English railway companies at his premises on the Strand. He did this to introduce a youthful and clever young American electrician, inventor and financier, Peter Cooper Hewitt, the son of Abram S. Hewitt, and to demonstrate the benefits of young Hewitt's clever invention of the mercury vapor lamp, a wonderful contrivance for lighting up tunnels and all subterranean passages.

This was the last opportunity Mr. Westinghouse will have to meet the managers of the railway world here, as he leaves for Pittsburgh next week to remain six months. The English railway managers were greatly interested in Mr. Hewitt's lamp. It will be tried soon on several roads here.

Surgeon Ascertains Edward Has Entirely Recovered from Late Illness.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) NICE, Jan. 10.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—At a luncheon given to Sir Frederick and Lady Treves at Hotel du Parc the other day by Lord Brougham the distinguished surgeon told the host that King Edward had not only got over every trace of his serious illness, but actually is stronger and in better health than he has been in many years, and that at the present moment the king is as whole and hearty as any man could wish to be.

KILL GENERAL SENT TO INVESTIGATE

No Class of Crime Which is Without a Representative Among the Operatives of the Great Siberian Line.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) MOSCOW, Jan. 10.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Much uneasiness is felt by travelers on the Siberian railway. The number of officials on that line is 11,112, of whom two-thirds are unknown, untired men of whose antecedents nothing is known. It is not even known if they have given in their correct names.

It is believed that every third man is a spy. More than half can neither read nor write. One thousand dangerous criminals have been discovered among them. Six hundred persons sent to Siberia for murder or robbery with violence were engaged on the railroad as watchmen and guards. Not infrequently it has happened that the guard looked around looking at the tickets instead of looking at the passengers' purses. Professional burglars have been engaged as the conductors of freight trains. Needless to say, the trains arrived lighter than they started.

Among the officials are twenty-four foreigners and thirty-two colored. In a word, there is no class of crime which is not represented among the officials of the great Siberian railway.

A general was sent to investigate some defalcations on the line from Vladivostok to Chabarovsk. He made his rounds, wrote his report and started back. On his journey he was asked to sleep in a specially prepared car. During the night the car was burned to ashes, the general perished, and, with him, his report. The perpetrator of this crime was never brought to justice.

KING REMEMBERS BRIDEGROOM

Sends Him a Cane with Royal Arms Engraved on the Gold Band.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, Jan. 10.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—The wedding of Mr. Sarah Hamilton Blake of Boston and General Sir Seymour Blane was a very "smart" affair, although neither bride nor bridegroom is in the first youth. King Edward gave evidence of his friendship by a handsome gift to Sir Seymour of a gold-mounted malacca cane, with royal arms on the band and the recipient's monogram on the top.

Mr. Herbert Wilson, who gave the bride away, is not a relative, but an intimate friend of both parties.

Lady Abinger (now Helen Magruder), who is responsible for the first meeting of the now happy couple, was one of the chief invited guests. Very handsome she looked in purple velvet and toque with velvet flowers to match, while a large pendant of pearls was slung along a jeweled chain around her neck.

The first week of the honeymoon is to be spent at Dover. Lady Blane is not robust and dislikes rapid traveling, so Sir Seymour will go from Dover without his bride to make all arrangements for her safe journey to London and to the second week of the honeymoon. After a long holiday in Italy and the south of France they will return to London to live in a new house on Lowndes square, in the center of Belgravia.

SUSPICIOUS WEATHER REPORT

Russian Police Object to Having Sunshine Anywhere When It is Cloudy in Russia.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) WARSAW, Russian Poland, Jan. 10.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—The Russian police have summoned the other day to the police station to explain this weather bulletin in his paper:

"In Warsaw, it is dull weather with cloudy sky; in Lemberg, Posen and Cracow, the sun shines and the sky is unclouded."

As the three last named cities are in Germany and Austria, the Russian censor felt that a political allusion was intended and ordered the weather report to be altered and omitted.

The police have been directed to examine all new signs before they are put up over shops, etc., and require that any sign in the Polish language must have a Russian translation under it. In all the principal streets the Russian is to be above and the Polish below.

The newspapers in Russian Poland are to be subjected to a stricter censorship, while no theater program, menu or label is to be printed without being submitted to the police.

FIND BIG PLATINUM DEPOSIT

Most Valuable Mine of the Metal in the World Discovered in Siberia.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 10.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Vast deposits of platinum have been discovered by a party of diggers on the River Gusevsk, a tributary of the Issa, in western Siberia. The news quickly got abroad and swarms of miners started for the new camp. Within a month 25,000 men were on the spot digging like demons and before the police could get to the camp more than $1,500,000 worth of platinum, it is estimated, got clear away, no one knew how or where.

Matters are now being regulated by the police, but the miners do not like the regulations and most of them are leaving, preferring to return home rather than submit to gathering wealth slowly. A few of the wisest remain, thinking that they will be able to "regulate" the police. It is believed that the new Gusevsk mines could supply the whole world with this valuable metal.

KILL TEN FOR TWELVE CENTS

Murdered People Were "Heathens" and Did Not Count with the Russians.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 10.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—A poverty-stricken peasant of the Altai mountain region, Chinese frontier, named Daniloff went for advice to Dubkoff, who was regarded as a sort of Solomon by his neighbors. Dubkoff said:

"What a fool you are to remain in poverty. You, a Christian and an orthodox man. Go to the Kalmaiks, they are heathens, and take what you can find. It will not be a sin. All the same, whether you cut off the head of a cabbage or the head of a Kalmaik, I'll go with you and if they resist we will settle them."

The two started for the Kalmaik village, taking with them Daniloff's two brothers. The Kalmaik chief showed them every courtesy, gave them food, drink and a tent. In the night they killed the entire Kalmaik family of ten persons and found twenty-three coopeks, worth about 12 cents.

TRIP LOOKS LIKE FAILURE

Chamberlain Lacks Tact Necessary to Meet and Talk with the Boers.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's tour of South Africa is beginning to attract greater attention. Both at Pretoria and Johannesburg he received great ovations, an interesting feature of which was the intermingling of stars and stripes and union jacks as a compliment to Mrs. Chamberlain.

The secretary's outspoken replies to the Boers' suggestions, however, are creating a feeling of uneasiness among the Boer supporters here, who publicly and privately express doubt whether any good will come of the trip.

Briefly, Mr. Chamberlain so far has not only declared practically that no further concessions can be made by Great Britain, but he has also upbraided the Boers for their lack of appreciation of what Great Britain has already done.

To use the expression of a paper which has always been his warm supporter, "Mr. Chamberlain has allowed himself to be drawn early in the game."

DISPLAY IS A COSTLY ONE

Celebration at Delhi Closes After the Expenditure of Many Thousands of Pounds.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Cable dispatches received from Delhi today announce the departure from there of the viceroy, Lord Curzon, and Lady Curzon, the duke and duchess of Connaught and other notabilities, and the end of the display.

People are now beginning to estimate the cost of the festivities. According to one estimate cabled from Delhi, the Indian government will have to pay over $2,750,000 and Lord Curzon himself is supposed to have spent many thousands of pounds sterling in entertaining his personal guests.

For this display of magnificence the native princes' expenses varied from $500,000, spent by the sultan of Hyderabad, to $50,000, the sum which minor chiefs paid for their pageants.

The governors of various provinces had to pay about $75,000 each for their camps. Judging from these estimates the unparalleled show cost considerably over $5,000,000.

LEAVES NO ESTATE TO WIDOW

Colonel MacCallum Provides Income Only to Support His Wife.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, Jan. 10.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Mrs. Harry MacCallum has been spoken of in America as the richest widow in England. That is an exaggeration, but she was left $200,000 a year to keep up her husband's houses and estates and $75,000 for pocket money. She has merely a life interest in this money and cannot bequeath a penny to anybody.

She is a sister of Hugo de Bathe, Mrs. Langtry's husband. So delicate is she that she is unable to take a place in society. She was a widow when Colonel MacCallum married her. He left her daughter by her first husband a handsome fortune, out of an estate estimated to be worth $10,000,000.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—The American society of London has decided to have a great banquet in Hotel Cecil on Washington's birthday. Four hundred and fifty guests, men and women, are to be present and an eagle will be the badge worn. All the officials of the United States embassy as well as of the consulate will be present, in addition to many distinguished English guests.

Factories Close Down for Lack of Coal, While Milwaukee Asks Congress to Admit Canadian Product Free of Duty.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—The prompt action of State's Attorney Charles S. Deneen on information furnished him by the committee of the Illinois Manufacturing association resulted in the convening this morning of a special grand jury to investigate the prices demanded for coal by Chicago dealers.

Twenty deputy sheriffs worked almost all night to secure service of summonses on seventy-five vendors and of subpoenas for the appearance of prominent coal dealers who are believed to be in a coal combination in defiance of law.

When court was called this morning a majority of the talemens were on hand and the work of impaneling a jury proceeded.

The formal order for the grand jury was issued by Judge Willard M. McEwen late yesterday upon a petition by the state's attorney declaring his belief that there exists between certain coal operators, owners and dealers a combination "injurious to the public trade," and that in consequence "great distress and suffering prevail among the people in the city."

Judge McEwen suspended court proceedings while he issued the order for a special venire convening the grand jury. The order was taken at once to the jury commissioners and seventy-five names were handed Sheriff Barker for immediate service.

Attorney General Hamilton, who was in telephonic communication with Mr. Deneen several times yesterday, arrived in Chicago today and will take an active part in the prosecution. It is also expected that the Retail Grocers' association, the Builders' association and the railroad commission, a committee of the city council will assist in the proceedings.

Twenty-three jurors were quickly selected and the oath administered. Judge McEwen's charge was brief and confined largely to defining the duties of the jurors.

"It is not necessary to indulge in any language," he said after reading to them the state's attorney's position, "to impress upon you or upon any fair-minded man the crime and infamy of such a situation as the one set forth. Your duties with regard to the investigation are set forth in the oath you have taken."

The jury then retired to enter upon its investigation.

CLOTHES SELF WITH TOBACCO

Seaman Smuggler Caught with Weed Wrapped 'Round His Body.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Customs officials tonight arrested Jacob von Sternberg, charged with smuggling tobacco, and made a search of the Red Star steamship Finland, lying in the North river. The prisoner, who is employed on the vessel, was found to be wrapped with tobacco, which was cleverly concealed under his clothing. During the search some of the crew made a raid on the dynamo room to shut off the lights. They were driven back and the inspectors continued their search without success.

Earlier in the day inspectors saw two men in the gateway of Finland acting strangely. They were searched and a quantity of tobacco was found upon them. The men succeeded in breaking away and getting back to the steamship. Yesterday they chased one of the crew across a street near the pier after recovering ten pounds of tobacco from him.

Steel Men's Union Says Association Has Nothing Against Trusts' Proposition.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 10.—The official announcement of the attitude of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers on the profit-sharing plan of the United States Steel corporation was made today. It is as follows:

The proposition of the United States Steel corporation to place $2,000,000 of its preferred stock under sale among its employees has caused quite a stir.

There have been inquiries as to whether the union would object to the sale of stock in the works in which it is employed and how the full members of the association would be affected.

The question whether it is advisable for the members of the association to invest in the stock of the corporation is a matter which must be decided by the members of the association to advise its members how they shall dispose of their money.

DENVER, Jan. 10.—In his biennial message to the legislature today, Governor Orman recommended a liberal appropriation for defending the salt water against Colorado, the object of which is to stop the use of water of the Arkansas river for irrigation.

"Should the state of Kansas be successful in this litigation," said the governor, "it would work untold injury to Colorado in its agricultural resources. The work and expenditures of years would be lost. But this would not be the end. Nebraska would come in and inhibit Colorado from using any waters of the Platte or its tributaries."
